Eugene Higgins Must Explain Why He Dodged Paying Duty, and So Must Dr. Menn.

THEIR BAGGAGE SEIZED

Chicago Physician the Father of the Girl Over Whom a Rothschild Killed Himself.

The North German Lloyd Liner Kronprinzessin Cecilie, in yesterday from Bremen, kept the Customs Inspectors and Appraisers busy all morning and when the baggage examination had ended, Eugene Higgins, the Yonkers carpet manufacturer, Mrs. William Dolan, head of the Boston dressmaking concern of Driscoll & Co., Miss Nannette Gude, daughter of O. J. Gude, of this city, and Dr. Rudolf Menn, of 1872 Lincoln Avenue, Chicago, were caught in the Customs net.

Mr. Higgins brought his belongings across in six big trunks and according to the Customs authorities he failed to declare any dutiable goods when he was questioned by the deputy surveyors on the way up from Quarantine. After the Kronprinzessin had docked he had his baggage assembled under the customs letter "H" and then applied at the customs desk for an inspector to examine it.

When he appeared at the desk he was asked a second time if he had any dutiable goods to declare and replied that he had not bought more than $100 worth of goods while abroad. American citizens are permitted under the Payne-Aldrich act to bring in free of duty $100 worth of wearing apparel. The customs authorities were not satisfied, however, and so a thorough overhauling of the Higgins trunks was made on the pier and when the examination was over it was stated that ten suits of clothes, and other dutiable things had been found.

When the suits and other articles were brought out Mr. Higgins stated that he did not consider them of any great value, and therefore had not declared them. The Customs agents took a different view of the matter, however, and ordered the trunks sent to the Public Stores for a further search and for an appraisement of the dutiable goods.

Mr. Higgins was told to appear at the Custom House to-day, when he will hear the result of the Public Stores investigation and find out what action the authorities will take in the matter.

Miss Gude shared a cabin on the way over with Mrs. Dolan, the Boston dressmaker. She declared all that she herself had purchased, but did not tell the Customs Inspectors that she had in her trunks some dresses that belonged to Mrs. Dolan. Miss Gude had three trunks and two satchels, and Mrs. Dolan had eight large trunks. Mrs. Dolan likewise failed to declare some valuable gowns.

The investigation showed that Miss Gude had known Mrs. Dolan for some time and that it was at the latter's request that she had put some of the fine Parisian gowns in her trunks. The Customs authorities said afterward that they believed Miss Gude had acted without any intention to defraud the Government and she will only be required to tell why Mrs. Dolan wanted the fine gowns brought over in her trunks.

Mrs. Dolan, on the other hand, is under arrest, and will have to face an inquisition in the Custom House to-day. All of her trunks were seized and sent to the Public Stores, and late yesterday afternoon she was arrested on a charge of smuggling.

It was recalled at the Custom House that the name of Mrs. Dolan was mentioned some months ago during the investigation of the "sleeper trunk" frauds. This, however, is the first time that she has ever been charged with smuggling. It was stated that the Customs authorities have been watching for her for months. It was also said at the Custom House that Mrs. Dolan is an aunt of Miss Josephine Mahoney who recently was called upon to explain where she had purchased five expensive "hobble" skirts. Miss Mahoney was at the pier to meet Mrs. Dolan. She arrived from Europe with the "hobble" skirts several days ago.

Dr. Menn of Chicago, who is a prominent practitioner in that city, declared on his arrival about $300 worth of jewelry. He is the father of Miss Olga Menn, who at one time was engaged to a son of Baron Rothschild. The son committed suicide in Vienna because the Baron would not consent to the marriage.

It was the watchful eye of Timothy Donohue, a Customs sleuth, that detected something amiss in the declaration of Dr. Menn. The detective discovered that the physician had something in his pockets besides money and a handkerchief. He determined to investigate and these articles were found on the physician's person:

Two gold watches and chains.
Two pairs of diamond earrings.
Two diamond rings.
Several brooches.

Dr. Menn said that one of the watches was a present for his son, while the other one was a gift to him from a foreign friend. The jewelry was sent to the Public Stores.

Miss Margaret Denet, a young woman living in Paris, who was a passenger aboard the Atlantic Transport liner Minnetonka, which arrived Tuesday, was questioned by customs officials regarding eight Parisian gowns in her baggage. It was her first trip to this country.

The claim was made by Miss Denet that she was on a visit to some friends in this country, and intended taking the gowns back with her when she returned home. Being a non-resident nothing could be done but to allow Miss Denet to take the gowns with her. Customs officials will see to it that when she returns home the gowns go with her.

HOLD WOMAN GEM SMUGGLER.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 13.—Louisa Moser, alias Kline, aged 60, a gray haired woman of generous proportions, who proudly claims the world in general as her abode, and possessing a collection of valuable jewels, was arrested this morning, suspected of larceny.

She confessed later to Detective Captain Souder that she was a smuggler. From the pocket in her black serge skirt she drew a black silk bag. It contained thirty-seven rings—diamonds, pearls, rubies, sapphires, single and clustered; five scarfpins—rubies and emeralds of a large size and purity; several breastpins of fine settings, and a handful of unset precious stones, including diamonds, rubies, pearls, amethysts, and emeralds, besides pieces of jade and coral, conceded to be valued at $10,000. These treasures taken from the black silk bag were carelessly spread on the littered desk of Souder's office.

The charge of larceny was immediately forgotten, and Detective O'Brien, who, with Detective Keenan, made the arrest,

SURE HE'LL RUN IN 1912.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 13.—Dispatches to the Tageblatt from Budapest state that Austro-Hungarian political circles are convinced that Col. Roosevelt's Western tour was connected with a plan to renominate him for the Presidency because his friend, Count Apponyi, the Hungarian political leader, is shortly going to the United States.

The object of Count Apponyi's visit is understood to be associated with the mobilization of the Hungarian vote, especially in the mining regions of the United States, for Col. Roosevelt both before and after the Republican National Convention of 1912.

Count Apponyi was Col. Roosevelt's host at Budapest last April and inspired the fervid pro-Magyar speech which the ex-President delivered before Hungarian scientific bodies.

It is understood, adds the telegram, that Count Apponyi's mission is undertaken against Col. Roosevelt's will, but with his acquiescence.

DARES ROOSEVELT TO RUN.

Parker Says Plan Was to Make Him Governor Until Maine Voted.

Former Judge Alton B. Parker yesterday issued what was considered a broad challenge to Col. Theodore Roosevelt to become the Republican nominee for Governor this Fall. Mr. Parker said:

"The dream of a permanent Presidency, with Mr. Roosevelt in the chair, has long haunted the pillows of many followers as well as himself," said Judge Parker. "They have seen, as through a glass darkly, the workings of the New Nationalism, when the executive power shall become the steward of the public welfare, and an independent judiciary basing its judgment on principles instead of men shall be no more. When receivers like Earle are dissatisfied with executive action the court shall not be able to put the Executive to shame. Then, too, shall the good trusts receive the Presidential blessing, with assurance that there will be no hostile successor to transform it into a curse.

"Many steps have been taken to that end by Garfield, Pinchot, and others, under the leadership of their chief, who but recently returned from a triumphal tour in behalf of the propagation of the new faith. There seemed to them to remain but one more step to reach the goal—the capture of New York with Roosevelt for Governor to smash the Republican machine and then ride over it to overwhelming victory. Aye! that indeed captured the imagination—for then would all the East surrender.

"Mr. Hearst saw the picture, too, and for some reason was pleased with it. So he tendered his support, and all will agree that he made tender of great value. But, will Mr. Roosevelt dare? Aye! that is the question. Yesterday he would have dared, but to-day—ah! that is different. Maine has spoken and the voice must be analyzed before risking this precious cargo with the voters of New York.

"Will he dare? It is an old saying, 'Never prophesy until you know.'

"I do not know, but my guess is that he will not dare."

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Sept. 13.—This morning it was announced in the Cincinnati newspapers that President Taft will be in Cincinnati to see the Ohio Valley Exposition and attend to private matters on Sept. 21, 22, and 23. This afternoon George B. Cox left Cincinnati for New York City. He said before he went that he would be gone for two weeks and would be busy during that time attending to his theatrical ventures in New York, Philadelphia, and Boston.

The sudden departure of Mr. Cox is said to be the result of the announcement that the President will come to Cincinnati. Mr. Cox and Mr. Taft have not been very good friends since the speech of Mr. Taft at Akron, Ohio, denouncing Cox, Herrmann, and Hynicka. They have seldom met, even though C. P. Taft's newspaper in Cincinnati stands with the organization in this city at the same time that it supports the proprietor's brother, the President.

Mr. Taft will meet in Cincinnati several Ohio politicians and go over carefully the campaign plans in Ohio. Among others he will see the Republican Gubernatorial candidate, Warren G. Harding, Lieut. Gov. F. W. Treadway, and Chairman L. C. Laylin of the Ohio Republican Executive Committee. It has not been said so, but it is known that neither Senator Dick nor Senator Burton will be asked to come to Cincinnati.

President Taft will have the time to meet with many old friends in Cincinnati, and his coming, while it will have a great effect on the Republican situation, will nevertheless be turned over to his private business. A message from Washington received to-night is to the effect that the President will not leave this city till the night of Sept. 24, reaching Washington Sunday, Sept. 25, in time for the Cabinet meeting Monday.

It is understood that an invitation has been sent to Col. Theodore Roosevelt to speak here, but nothing has been heard from him. Warren G. Harding, the candidate for Governor, has stated openly that he wants the ex-President to come to Ohio and speak in the campaign. He says that the State organization needs men like Roosevelt and that he does not want to make it appear that he is on either the progressive or the standpat side of the fence in this fight. Every effort will be made to secure the coming of Col. Roosevelt.

ASK HARMONY CONVENTION.

Tennessee Regulars Try to Patch Up Split in Democratic Party.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 13.—On the eve of the independent Democratic State Convention, the action of which to-morrow will go far toward determining whether the next Governor of Tennessee will be Democratic or Republican, the independents asserted that Gov. Malcolm R. Patterson's withdrawal from the regular Democratic Gubernatorial candidacy is an attempt to maintain in power what they call his "machine," at the sacrifice of his own office.

Indications are that the independents will refuse to accept the peace overtures made to-day by the regular Democrats. The independent leaders say that many country voters hold a belief that they are in honor bound to indorse the Republican nominee, Capt. Ben W. Hooper, in return for Republican support in electing the independent State judiciary last August.

The regular Democrats to-day prepared resolutions appealing to the independent convention to heed the chance for Democratic success this Fall, either by naming the date for a harmony convention or by leaving the tangle to be unwound by Norman E. Mack, Chairman of the National Democratic Committee.

The compromise resolutions declared that with the withdrawal of Gov. Patterson reasons for factional differences no longer existed, and that it is "the duty of all Democrats to seek the avoidance of the direct results, namely, Republican control in a Southern State."

The compromise resolutions provide for a harmony convention to nominate a Governor, adopt a platform, and elect a State Executive Committee.

6,000 AT THE TERMINAL

While 6,000 Brooklynites stood waiting on the various upper floor platforms and "islands" beneath the glass and metal train shed of the Manhattan terminal of the Brooklyn Bridge, at the beginning of the homeward rush hour, last evening, the entire 1,000-volt current of electricity which is pumped through the third rails into the terminal from the Sands Street power house, short-circuited in a series of blinding explosions.

No one was seriously injured in the fright and confusion which followed the explosions. This was due partly to the fact that the platforms and "islands" on which the throngs stood were well-filled but not packed to the edges as they would have been half an hour later. It was also due in a measure to the courage and quick wit of George Callahan, electrician of the B. R. T., and Acting Police Captain Edward J. Bourke of Bridge Squad A.

When the explosions began Callahan, with Capt. Bourke at his heels, sped across the various sputtering third rails and feed wires and climbed up the iron ladder leading to the blazing tower just under the roof.

With the explosions from the various fuses in the switch box flaring back in his face the electrician jerked down one switch lever after another, cutting off the current leading into the various third rails beside the platforms, thereby making them safe, even if in a panic passengers should be pushed off the platforms upon them.

With the flames from the now burning tower wreathing his own face Capt. Bourke thrust his head out of one of the tower windows and directed the twenty-five policemen on the platforms how to handle the frightened throngs and how to summon the fire engines and more police.

The copper wire "lead" of every switch in the whole elevated terminal had its insulation burned off and was entirely put out of order. It took Supt. John J. Dempsey of the B. R. T.'s elevated system, Supt. Burns of the Brooklyn Bridge section of the B. R. T., and other B. R. T. officials three hours to arrange for the operation of the heavy terminal switches by hand.

Three-Hour Tie-Up.

The three-hour tie-up of the elevated forced the Brooklyn-seeking throngs down to the various trolleys. While the confusion on the upper floor of the terminal was at its height a Fulton Street car broke its trolley pole as it was pulling out of the crowded terminal. The disabled car stopped between the fourth and fifth trolley loops, blocking the first four loops of the terminal for twenty minutes.

Because of the tie-up of both the elevated and trolley systems a crowd of many thousands of home-seeking Brooklynites bulged out across Park Row as far as City Hall Park at 6 P. M. Seeking to get home by way of the sweltering Subway, they swept down into it in droves.

Whenever a south-bound train entered the Bridge Station a packed and pushing mass of people would force their way in the doors before these were more than partly opened. Once the doors were opened, the guards were unable to close them again until the cars were jammed to the point of suffocation. Some of the trains were held five minutes in this way and the whole Subway schedule for an hour after was set awry.

It was the worst and most complete Rapid Transit tie-up, while it lasted, that the city has had for several years, according to transit officials, and the only reason no one was hurt was that there was at no time any panic and because the police early in the trouble held the crowds back at the entrances and kept them from getting down to the Subway or up to the elevated platforms in unmanageable numbers.

The rear shoe of the front truck of a Brighton Beach local elevated train was the cause of the tie-up. The train had taken on a big load of passengers on the "island" at the remotest end of the terminal shed. It had crossed the switch, and was just passing along the track which runs along the southernmost side of the terminal when the shoe for some reason bent over, throwing an unusual amount of weight on the third rail. This weight ripped one end of the rail away from its moorings.

The rail swung a foot and a half out against a horizontal girder which forms part of the south side of the train shed. The charged steel striking the uncharged steel short-circuited with a flash and a splutter. Electrician Callahan, who was standing on a track near by, saw that something was wrong, and shouted up to John Walker, towerman in the lofty switch cage on the north side of the terminal under the roof, to cut the power off from that rail so that Callahan could go and make repairs.

An Electrical Display.

Callahan climbed under the stalled train, found the turned shoe, and adjusted it. In the cramped place in which he had to work, however, he did not notice that the third rail itself had been displaced.

"All right. Throw on the power again," he called to Walker, crawling out from under the train. The towerman threw the full current into the disconnected third rail. Then the 6,000 startled people on the various platforms saw one of the greatest electrical displays of their lives.

"The power must be cut off! The power must be cut off!" the throngs could hear the electrician shouting.

Then they saw the white cap of Capt. Bourke protruding out of the window in the midst of sparks and flame.

"Every one stand still. Don't move. There isn't any danger. We're cutting off the power," Bourke shouted down. "You, Sergeant Farrell, turn in a call for the fire engines. You, Patrolman Sheehan, go down to the police booth and tell the men there not to let any more people come upstairs."

Callahan meantime was throwing off the half dozen levers by which the current from the main feed wires from the Sand Street power house is deflected into the various switches and third rails of the terminal. This done, the explosions came to an end.

The elevated trains began running slowly at 8 P. M.

J. R. Keene Goes to His Stock Farm.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 13.—James R. Keene, who has been ill of pneumonia in a hospital here for ten days, had so far recovered to-day as to be able to go to "Castleton," his stock farm, a few miles from this city. It is expected that he will remain there until his health is entirely restored, even though this period should extend over several months.

EAR IN A BOTTLE AS A DEATH THREAT

Cut from the Head of a Non-Union Deck Hand and Sent to Steamship Co. President.

ASSAILANTS CAUGHT HERE

Four men were arrested last night in a saloon at West and Twelfth Streets, after they had been tracked for almost three months from town to town along the great lakes. They are said to be the four who, with two others, cut off the ear of a non-union deck hand in Buffalo, which they sent, together with a letter threatening death, to Harry Coulby, President of the Pittsburg Steamship Company, and of the Lake Carriers' Association.

On June 27, Edward Frazer, a deck hand in a lake steamer of the Pittsburg Steamship Company, arrived at Buffalo and received his pay. Frazer had shipped as a non-union worker, there being a war of two years' standing between the steamship company and the Marine Firemen, Oilers, and Water Tenders' Union. Leaving the boat, he went to the office of the Lake Carriers' Association and got another job as a non-union laborer.

On his way back he stopped in a saloon at Main and Lake Streets, where he had a few hours before been invited to drink by a chance stranger, who met him on the street. He ordered a glass of beer and drank it. That was the last he remembered until he was found several hours later by a policeman, lying on a vacant lot in the rear of the saloon, near a soap factory, with his left ear severed and missing, and deep gashes all over his body.

Upon Frazer's forehead was pasted an oval sticker, bearing the words:

> Strike! Sailors, Marine Firemen, and Marine Cooks are on strike against the Lake Carriers and Shipowners' Association. Keep away from the Lakes! Don't be a scab!

Frazer's condition was so serious that for two months he lingered between life and death at the Buffalo Emergency Hospital. He has since recovered.

On the very next day Harry Coulby, President of two of the companies against which the strike was directed, received in his morning mail a large sealed bottle filled with alcohol, in the midst of which floated a human ear. The bottle was addressed, in crude handwriting, to "H. Coulbey, Rockefeller Building, Cleveland, O.," and on the wrapper was scrawled, "No call for, return to A. Limerick, 61 Terrace, Buffalo."

With the bottle came also a letter, scrawled on a large jagged sheet of coarse brown wrapping paper. It read:

> Coulbey: your hart will bee next you killed my brothar italiano. this is one of yours mens earrs we will get you no matter where you go.

In the lower left-hand corner was daubed a large black hand, and in the right-hand corner was written in red around a crude drawing of a skull and crossbones the one word, "Death!"

Mr. Coulby was at first inclined to regard the threat as a joke, but when he learned that the ear had really been cut from a human head, he hastily summoned the officials of his company for consultation.

They decided to lay the case before the Government postal authorities, and Postal Inspector J. F. Oldfield immediately began co-operating with the Buffalo police. An alarm was sent through every lake-coast town and city, and all suspicious characters were ordered arrested. Wholesale arrests were made in Cleveland, Ashtabula, Toledo, and Chicago, but none of the suspects could be linked with the crime.

Finally, the Government officials say, by shadowing the saloon where Frazer was seen just before the assault, they managed to get, even from eye-witnesses who had seen the beginning of the assault, a list of six names of men said to have done the gruesome work. They learned, too, that the culprits had already been informed that Government officials were on their track, and that they would exercise every possible precaution to hide their tracks.

Nothing daunted, the officials began the long chase, tracking their quarry west to Duluth and then east and south again, through Detroit, Cleveland, Saginaw Bay, and many other Great Lake ports. In the middle of July the trail ended abruptly at Buffalo, where it had begun.

Although the men were said to be members of the striking union, the union itself was prompt to disavow all connection with the act, and gave frequent assistance to the Government officials in tracking them. Inspector Oldfield finally learned that the men had cut across country in order to shake off their pursuers, and again the long trail was taken up. With infinite pains and patience it was followed, until it led to New York.

Inspector Oldfield, together with two Buffalo detectives, Edward Newton and John Murray, came to this city about a week ago. They knew that their men had a habit of hanging around piers and luring newly landed sailors to drink, thereafter robbing them. Every pier, accordingly, was visited, and all shore saloons and dives closely watched. Several times the detectives met dive-characters who knew their men and told of having seen them recently.

Yesterday afternoon the two detectives upon entering a saloon at Twelfth and West Streets were startled to find there the very four men they were looking for. Before they, in turn, could be seen, they slipped hastily out, and telephoned from a nearby store for Inspector Oldfield and Central Office detectives.

Oldfied, with Detectives Fogarty, Woods, Finn, and Griffiths rushed to the saloon. At the show of so strong a police band, no resistance was offered by those within the saloon, and the detectives quickly arrested these four men—Joseph Meyers, Robert Cochrane, Henry Moran, and Michael Kane, all giving their address as 507 West Street. All said they were sailors, and all were arrested on charge of assaulting Frazer and cutting off his ear, and of later sending this to Mr. Coulby at Cleveland.

According to the Government officials, Meyers is known also as John Armstrong, and is at present out on bail of $2,000 on a charge of highway robbery in Buffalo. In Cochrane's possession, the police say, they found a counterfeit ten-dollar bill. A similar bill was stolen from Frazer's pocket at the time of the assault upon him.

ALLEGED BANK FRAUD TAKEN TO WHITMAN

Mercantile National Officers Accuse a German Firm's Agent Here.

MISREPRESENTATION CHARGE

A possible fraud against the Mercantile National Bank—a report corrected later by officers of the bank—was laid before the District Attorney's office yesterday by the officers of the bank. An arrest in the case may be made to-day.

The District Attorney's investigation of the case was not completed yesterday. Meantime, the name of the man charged with the fraud is withheld. He is a New Yorker and lives at a hotel in this city, where last night he was watched by detectives from the District Attorney's office to prevent his disappearance, should the investigation now under way lead to a prosecution on the charge of defrauding the bank, as the indications were yesterday might be the case.

President Willis G. Nash of the Mercantile National Bank admitted last night that his bank had drawn the matter to the attention of the District Attorney. He said at his home in Yonkers:

"We, to-day, brought to the attention of the District Attorney, the case of a man who obtained credit by making false statements and misrepresentations. There is an uncovered balance due of about $34,000.

"We expected to hold responsible for this balance a German mercantile and banking house reputed to be very wealthy and highly honorable. The accused party was the duly accredited agent and representative of this German firm and they are therefore responsible for his acts. We brought the matter before the District Attorney because we feel that the person should be properly punished for his misrepresentations."

Mr. Nash would not enlarge upon his statement which he made, he said, because there had come to him exaggerated reports of the amount involved in the case, and which greatly magnified its importance.

Although the identity of the individual against whom the bank is proceeding is carefully guarded, it was learned that he, too, was at the District Attorney's office yesterday in an effort, it was supposed, to clear himself of the charge of wrongdoing in connection with the transactions about which the bank has made complaint.

It was after he left the District Attorney's office that he was placed under surveillance for the night to insure his presence to-day should the course of the investigation lead the District Attorney to further action. The account books kept by this man in other institutions, it was said, may play an important part in the investigation which is being conducted, for the reason that these bank books may either go to strengthen or to weaken the explanation he made to the District Attorney's office yesterday. The information sought along this line has to do presumably with the allegation that the representations made to the Mercantile National Bank regarding the man's financial standing were misleading.

HILL URGES COMMON SENSE.

Business Paralysis Caused by Lack of It, Railroad Man Says.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 13.—James J. Hill says that it is only "a senseless lack of confidence" that causes the present fear of businessmen of the United States to engage in new enterprises.

"Some one somewhere has grown timid some time over something and has cried 'boo!' at his neighbor. His neighbor probably jumped and the next fellow took fright without knowing why he was frightened."

That's the way the "empire builder" explained it in an interview to-day. He added:

"Why, they're like a flock of sheep. If one starts to run, every sheep in that flock will follow if it dies for it. The recent Conservation Congress in this city talked about conserving water and conserving land; conserving coal and conserving iron; it's too bad some one didn't say a word about conserving common sense.

"That's what this country needs right now—to conserve common sense. An article in a September magazine deals with the 'conservation of common sense' and gives as the panacea for the paralysis that prevails the use of old-fashioned common sense. Business men everywhere should take that advice.

"I can see no reason for the fears which seem to possess our business men. I have preached a 'return-to-the-farm' policy for years, and I expect to continue to do so; but that is no reason for fears on the part of business.

"Money and business are, of course, very careful; and it is right that they should be—but not to the extent of cutting off their noses to spite their faces, especially when it is unnecessary and they need the noses, too."

MRS. TYNDALL ASKS DIVORCE.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 13.—Mrs. Grace Henderson Matthewson Tyndall has filed a suit for divorce against her husband, who is a broker, naming Miss Edith Theodore Baxter as co-respondent. Miss Baxter for six years was Mrs. Tyndall's constant companion and confidant.

Mrs. Tyndall some years ago was a noted soprano soloist at Grace Church, New York. Afterward she was associated with Walter Damrosch, and starred in grand opera at the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, later singing at Covent Garden, London, for a season. She suddenly lost her singing voice, and since then has attained repute as a lecturer, author, and dramatist.

Miss Baxter lived with the Tyndalls, and, besides being companion to Mrs. Tyndall, was a confidential stenographer to her husband. When Mrs. Tyndall returned from a Chautauqua lecture trip through the East a short time ago she found her husband missing. Inquiry at his office showed that he had given it up a month before. Miss Baxter met Mrs. Tyndall on her return. Four days later Miss Baxter bade farewell to her and disappeared.

Mrs. Tyndall engaged detectives to seek her missing husband. The detectives found him and Miss Baxter at a local hotel, according to Mrs. Tyndall's petition. She also declares in it that her husband left her penniless and that he controls her property.

MRS. EDDY SUBPOENAED.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Sept. 13.—Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy has been subpoenaed to appear before Judge Wentworth, in the Municipal Court, next Tuesday, in the case against Frederick E. King, who is charged with receiving stolen goods—namely, five automobile tires, valued at $350, from Wilson Ourish, and one, taken from a machine belonging to Mrs. Eddy. The latter tire was stolen from in front of the Christian Science church.

It is said that Mrs. Eddy, if she fails to appear in response to the summons, can be arrested on a capias.

RATS IN THE ALIMONY CLUB.

Members In the Raymond Street Jail Much Annoyed by the Pests.

The Alimony Club quartered in the civic section of the Raymond Street Jail, Brooklyn, have been pestered of late by an army of rats and all kinds of vermin. The club selects one of its members by lot to stand guard during the night and chase away the rats so that the other members may get a little sleep.

Sheriff Patrick H. Quinn said yesterday that he had repeatedly asked the Sinking Fund Commissioners to provide a place for the civil prisoners, but without avail.

Contractors have had the work of remodeling the jail under way for some time. The civil prison is the last section of the jail to be touched, but the contractors can't complete their work until the prisoners are removed. Sheriff Quinn is at a loss to find a suitable place to keep the civil prisoners in until the remodeling work is finished.

$10,000 FOR LITTLE CHURCH.

The Little Church Around the Corner, otherwise known as the Church of the Transfiguration, will receive $10,000 under the will of Mrs. Sarah Titus Zabriskie, according to information made public yesterday. Mrs. Zabriskie lived at 14 East Thirtieth Street when in New York, and the Rev. Dr. George C. Houghton, rector of the Little Church Around the Corner, was her spiritual adviser. She died three weeks ago at Newport.

Her Angora cat, Mr. Whiskers, Mrs. Zabriskie left to her daughter, Ethel, with the provision that if her daughter died before the cat died the cat should be chloroformed. Hamilton M. Dawes and Charles L. Cold were the witnesses of the will. Amounts of $1,000 each were left to the Zabriskie Memorial Church, Newport; Berkeley Memorial Chapel, Middletown, Conn., and St. Mary's Free Hospital for Children in this city.

The Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States was bequeathed $5,000. The remainder of the estate was left to relatives. The Rev. Dr. Houghton and George Zabriskie were named as executors without bonds.

THREW BABY FROM WINDOW.

Insane Mother Killed Infant by Hurling It to the Yard.

In a moment of insanity yesterday, Mrs. Esther Jaffe, the wife of a laundry worker of 1,559 Broadway, Brooklyn, killed her three months' old infant by throwing him out of a third-story window. The woman was at home alone at the time.

Mrs. Jaffe was formerly an inmate of the State Insane Asylum at King's Park, L. I. She was apparently cured when discharged, a few months ago. After the birth of her child she seemed to act queerly again, but this seemed to pass away, and recently she was like her old self.

Mrs. Jaffe was up earlier than usual yesterday, and prepared breakfast. Just before her husband set out for his place of employment she took the child from the crib and placed him in a high chair. Jaffe had been gone only a short time when neighbors heard Mrs. Jaffe shriek wildly, and while they were looking out of the rear windows of their dwellings they saw the infant child hurled from the window to the yard.

Mrs. Jaffe fought fiercely before she was overpowered. She was taken to the Gates Avenue Court, where Magistrate Harris committed her to the Kings County Hospital.

GANG THREAT DIDN'T WORK.

Two Men Caught Trying to Intimidate Storekeeper Who Complained of Them

Harris Wax, a candy dealer at 302 East 101st Street, who helped the police arrest six alleged members of the car barn gang who assaulted him in his store last Tuesday and robbed him of $65, was transferring goods from a pushcart to his store last night when two young men, said by the police to be members of the same gang, stopped before his store and announced:

"If you try to get any more of the gang in bad we'll put daylight through you."

Then, according to Wax, they shoved him violently against the pushcart, spilling its contents and throwing him on top of it. There one of the men struck him in the face with his fist, and the other, wielding a heavy iron pipe, hit him on the left shoulder.

As the two men turned to run away they were met by Central Office Detectives Creed, Hoodman, and Plunket, who had been assigned to watch Wax's store for just such attacks on the part of the car barn gang, and who had been hiding near by. Both men were arrested and taken to the East 104th Street Station, one, Patrick O'Donnell of 1,644 Third Avenue, charged with assault, and the other, James Dowling of 223 East 101st Street, charged with felonious assault. Wax was not seriously hurt.

ROOSEVELT FORCES WIN IN PRIMARIES

WOODRUFF HOLDS HIS OWN

Returns from yesterday's primaries in this city received up to midnight last night showed no upsets, either Republican or Democratic, in any of the boroughs.

In New York County, composed of the Boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx, the result of the Republican primaries indicate that Lloyd C. Griscom, President of the Republican County Committee, will go to the Republican State Convention in Saratoga with a solid "progressive" delegation. In Kings, Republican State Chairman Timothy L. Woodruff held his own, but at that his delegation will be divided.

The Republican primaries in Queens were carried by the organization, which means that the delegates from that borough will go to Saratoga pledged to the Old Guard. In Richmond there was no contest on the Republican side. The delegates from that borough are claimed by State Chairman Woodruff.

FOR ROOSEVELT.	Delegates.
New York County	190
ANTI-ROOSEVELT.
Kings	109
Total	141

One of the surprises of the Republican primaries in Manhattan was the decisive victory won by Assemblyman William M. Bennett in the Fifteenth Assembly District over John H. Taylor, who had been placed in the field as a contestant for the leadership by friends and supporters of Representative J. Van Vechten Olcott after Mr. Bennett had set out to defeat Mr. Olcott for a renomination and obtain it for himself. The figures were: Bennett, 1,150; Taylor, 970.

The primary fight was conducted with Cannonism and direct primaries as issues. It was the most bitter fight on the Republican side. Mr. Bennett, during his two years in the Assembly, had been an insurgent and a constant supporter of Gov. Hughes's policies against the Republican machine.

On the Democratic side all the primary fights in Manhattan and the Bronx were on purely local issues, with the exception of the fight between William E. Morris and ex-Alderman Edward V. N. Handy in the Thirty-fifth Assembly District in the Bronx. Morris won. The figures were: Morris, 2,939; Handy, 1,908. The victory of Morris will have the effect of preventing ex-Borough President of the Bronx Louis F. Haffen from obtaining the nomination for Congress from the Eighteenth District, to succeed Representative Joseph Goulden.

In Queens, a spirited contest against the combined Cassidy-Gresser forces by a group of independent Democrats resulted in a victory for the machine.

Owing to the adequate police arrangements to prevent fraud and disturbances at the primaries, it was one of the quietest primary elections on record. There were not many arrests and less than a dozen of the prisoners were held.

In the Thirty-fifth Assembly District, in the Bronx, and in the Nineteenth Manhattan district, where there was a spirited contest between James Ahearn, the present leader, and Alderman James J. Hines, and where both claim the victory, there was an attempt at importing guerrillas. In every instance the bands were turned back by squads of police lying in wait at Subway entrances and elevated railroad stations. The police drove the band from the Nineteenth District all over Harlem.

Acting Mayor Mitchel remained in the City Hall all evening receiving reports and sending orders to Commissioner Baker with a view to preventing fraud or disorder at the polls.

There were seven Republican contests in Manhattan and the Bronx and five Democratic. In Kings there were ten Democratic contests and six Republican. In Queens there were contests in all the four districts on both sides. In Richmond the Democratic organization as represented by Eugene Lamb Richards won. In every instance the leaders held their own against the contestants. Here is a list of leaders showing the primary results:

ARREST BROOKLYN INSPECTORS.

Four Charged with Depositing "Cannon" Ballots There.

There was little excitement at the Brooklyn primaries. Police Commissioner Baker, accompanied by his secretary, Thomas Carroll, visited Brooklyn Police Headquarters, in State Street, early in the evening. At the Information Bureau he learned that the voting was being conducted without trouble. Even in districts where the contests were expected to be close and disturbances were feared the police found conditions normal.

The four Inspectors in the polling place at 281 Hudson Avenue, Brooklyn, which is in the Fifteenth and Sixteenth Election Districts of the Second Assembly District, were arrested last night, charged with folding ballots over each other in such a way that one ballot was made to count for several. This was in the district where Democratic Leader John J. Bridges was fighting ex-Alderman George A. Colgan. The men were arrested on complaint of a Colgan watcher, and were locked up in the Adams Street Jail. After their arrest the enrollment book could not be found. It was subsequently found in a hallway near the polling place.

The men arrested were William Boyce of 4 Nassau Place, Daniel Hurley of 191 Tillery Street, William Stack of 253 High Street, and Thomas McEvoy of 224 Tillery Street.

By 11 o'clock it was learned that all the present Republican and Democratic leaders in districts where contests were made had won over their opponents. Contests were made in six Republican districts and ten in Democratic. In the First Assembly District, which is Col. Dady's district, Dady's candidate, Harry Ralston, won over Morris U. Ely, a Roosevelt-Hughes supporter. The total vote was 1,200, and Ralston won by 168, a decrease of more than 200 over last year.

In the Second Assembly District John J. Bridges won by 900 over his opponent, George A. Colgan. It was a surprise to Colgan and his followers, for the vote was expected to be close.

In the Fourteenth District, which is Patrick McCarren's old stamping ground, John H. McKeon beat Daniel J. Carroll by 250 votes. The vote in this district was very slow in coming in.

In the Sixth Assembly District John Diemer, a Woodruff adherent, who was opposed by William M. McNamara, a strong Roosevelt-Hughes supporter, won hands down. It was a thorough drubbing that Diemer gave his opponent.

In the Eighteenth, Naval Officer F. J. H. Kracke, a Roosevelt man who voted against Vice President Sherman for temporary chairman of the Republican State Convention, won in a walkover over Stanley E. Gunnison. Kracke's total vote was 2,833, against 120 for his opponent. Mr. Kracke was much elated over his victory. Gunnison didn't carry a single election district and lost his own.

"I am much gratified," said Mr. Kracke, "and I hope it will be the means of bringing harmony at the State Convention. If we do not get harmony it may mean a Maine victory in Brooklyn."

In the Nineteenth District C. J. Hanbert won by 400 votes over Henry H. Ray, and in the Twenty-third Reuben L. Haskell, who was opposed in only three election districts by Clarence B. Smith, won easily, gaining 15 per cent. more votes than he did last year.

In the Fourth District, where the Democratic leader, Thomas J. Drennan, was opposed by Thomas Burns, Drennan's vote was 1,518 as against his opponent's 369. It was a big increase over Drennan's vote last year.

In the Sixth Assembly District William F. Thompson, the present Democratic leader, polled 1,200 votes and beat his opponent, William J. McGuire, by 465. McGuire lost his own district by 15 votes.

To learn something of how primaries are conducted Mrs. Robert H. Elder, wife of the Assistant District Attorney of Kings County, accompanied by several suffragists, made an automobile tour of the polling places in the First Assembly District last night. Mrs. Elder said she had not witnessed a single unpleasant incident.

"The polling places were neat, clean, and orderly," she said, "and just as safe for women as trolley cars."

ROOSEVELT LOSES QUEENS.

Old Guard Elects All Its Delegates at Primaries There.

The Republican primaries in Queens County yesterday resulted in a complete victory for the supporters of Vice President Sherman for Chairman of the next State Convention. There was not a single known Roosevelt delegate elected.

George Rippinger, who headed a list of candidates in the First Assembly District, composed of Long Island City, made his campaign on a direct issue of delivering votes to Roosevelt as against Sherman. He was snowed under by the organization and not one of his associate delegates got a place.

The delegates elected are:

Second Assembly District.—C. C. Woodburn, Charles H. Georgi, Anton Peterson, Charles P. Wagner, A. Melrose Simpson, Charles S. West, James H. McCall, Vincent Kenna, William P. Hendry, and Gabriel Norden.

Third Assembly District.—Edward T. Kassel, George Allgeir, Samuel Todd, Samuel J. Wood, James M. Campbell, Henry Doht, Joseph H. De Bragga, Frank E. Losee, George Vreeland, Charles Geis, Oliver Pearsall, and A. Conroy Haynes.

Fourth Assembly District.—James Edie, Jr., Louis Gerner, Ernest Habighorst, William M. Griffith, W. Allen Kissam, Francis W. Edgerton, Robert W. Sutton, Solon G. Bishop, Frank W. Scutt, James W. Dayton, William H. Wade, Jr., William A. De Grout, A. C. MacLachlan, Frank L. Stiles, Francis W. Decker, Frank H. Hulbert and C. Augustus Post.

WAINWRIGHT FACES A FIGHT.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Sept. 13.—The fight for the Senatorial nomination on the Republican ticket in Westchester County promises to be interesting, as the convention will be an open one. There will be a fight between Senator J. Mayhew Wainwright of Rye and Asemblyman Frank L. Young of Ossining for the nomination. Each has several delegates, and it is expected the contest will be close. The Republican leaders are opposed to the renomination of Senator Wainwright because he supported Gov. Hughes.

In Yonkers a caucus was held in one ward last night and the delegates signified their intention of standing by Wainwright. The Assembly District Convention will be held in Yonkers on Sept. 21, when the real fight will take place and the strength of the Wainwright followers will be shown.

It is said that none of the delegates has been pledged to vote for either candidate. Senator Wainwright, who returned from Europe yesterday, declared that if he is not nominated by the Republicans he may run on an independent ticket.

HINES MEN CRY FRAUD.

A Hot Fight in the Nineteenth, Manhattan, to be Taken to the Courts.

By far the most hotly contested primary election in Manhattan was in the Nineteenth Assembly District in Harlem, where Tammany leader James Ahearn was opposed by James J. Hines. Both sides claimed the election after the vote was counted.

The returns showed that Ahearn received 1,080 to his opponent's 921. Hines and his supporters, however, would not accept defeat. They declared they would contest the result with the Board of Elections and carry the fight to the courts, if necessary. They asserted that many Hines ballots had been thrown out, others improperly marked and that Ahearn's followers had used every form of deceit. They alleged that at least 200 Hines ballots were thrown out or made void.

So confident were the Hines men that the official count would show their leader elected that they thronged their chief's headquarters and paraded with bands and fireworks.

Ahearn and his supporters denied that there had been any fraud and declared that the result would stand.

WHAT THE LEADERS SAY.

Woodruff Sure He's Got the Votes—Griscom Gratified—Barnes Pugnacious.

State Chairman Woodruff, William Barnes, Jr., of Albany, Representative George R. Malby of Ogdensburg, Col. Lafayette B. Gleason, Secretary of the Republican State Committee, and John Timlin, Jr., a political lieutenant of Borough President Cromwell of Richmond, received primary returns at Republican State Headquarters last night. A special telephone service had been installed, and Mr. Woodruff got the Brooklyn returns, in which he was most vitally interested, over a direct wire from his home borough.

At 11 o'clock Mr. Woodruff gave out this statement:

> The returns from the primaries in Kings County show that, while the districts controlled by Naval Officer Kracke, Postmaster Voorhees, Congressman Calder, and Senator Travis have 33 delegates out of a total of 142, the other 109 will all support the Kings County organization and vote to ratify the votes of the State committeemen from Brooklyn in the selection of Vice President Sherman for Temporary Chairman of the convention.
> The returns from New York County indicate that one State committeeman, Harry W. Mack, has lost his place in the State Committee, and that a number of the delegations to the State Convention will support the State Committee in the position it has taken in the matter of the temporary Chairmanship.
>
> The returns show that all four districts in Queens were carried by the organization forces, thus insuring a solid delegation for the support of Vice President Sherman in the State Convention.
> In Richmond there was no contest, but the delegation is understood to be for Vice President Sherman, thus indicating that in the Greater City a considerable majority will support the State organization.

President Griscom of the Republican County Committee, after all the returns had been received, said at that committee's headquarters in the Metropolitan Building:

> I am sincerely gratified by the vote of confidence which voters have given to-day to the present administration of the Republican County Committee.
>
> All efforts to break the solidarity of our county have proved futile, and I and those associated with me must naturally feel greatly encouraged in our work for clean and decent party management.
>
> Our county will continue in our loyal support of President Taft, and will lend our best efforts to upholding his hand in carrying out our party's pledges to the Nation.
>
> In the State we will continue our efforts to bring about such change in the party management as will restore the confidence of the Republican voters and bring about success at the polls in the Autumn. We welcome the aid which ex-President Roosevelt will give to bring about this success.

> I see by the newspapers that Mr. Roosevelt and his leading supporters in New York City have had a talk, and Mr. Griscom said that the action of the State Committee in selecting Mr. Sherman as Temporary Chairman will certainly be overturned by the convention, and that Mr. Roosevelt will preside, which means that he will appoint the Committee on Resolutions.
>
> The determination of this matter will place the Republican Party squarely before the people without evasiveness. If Mr. Roosevelt is temporary Chairman and if the convention adopts the report of a radical Committee on Resolutions, New York will place herself alongside of Kansas and Iowa, and the conservative element of the Republican Party, which for years has been its backbone, will be invited to the rear, and the new Nationalism, coupled with the Bryanite pronouncement against the decisions of the Supreme Court will take its place.
> If the action of the State Committee in unanimously selecting Mr. Sherman, after Mr. Roosevelt's name was voted down, should be ratified by the convention and if a committee on resolutions is appointed which will draft a platform indorsing the Administration of President Taft in forcible language, declaring opposition to the political hysteria of the hour, and firmly planting itself upon the sane Republicanism of the past, then the party can enter the campaign with respect for itself, which ought to command the respect of the majority of the electorate as it has before.
>
> Some of the men who are urging Mr. Roosevelt's candidacy for temporary Chairman of the convention against Vice President Sherman have little realization of the rising tide of popular disapproval which Mr. Roosevelt's speeches in the West have caused. His assumption of power is looked upon with wonderment. His ability to arouse the passions of the mob is dreaded in every quarter of the State, and every day the menace of his political ascendency to business and to labor is more thoroughly appreciated.
> I do not believe that his name will ever be presented to the convention against the recommendation of the State Committee for Mr. Sherman. If it is it will as certainly be voted down in the cause of true Republicanism as that the convention will convene. Thoughtful men all over the State are aroused to the regrettable fact that Mr. Roosevelt is to-day the most dangerous foe to the world of business and labor in the United States. They hope with earnest solicitude that the Republican Party in this State will not in its convention permit him to be the arbiter of its policies and the mentor of its thought.

CALL TO STATE LEAGUERS.

They Are to Assemble Ahead of the Regular Democratic Convention.

The Democratic League will hold a convention of its own on the night before the Democratic State Convention. It will be called a "conference," and will be held at Rochester, where the Democratic Convention is to be held. This call was made public yesterday at league headquarters:

"The members of the Democratic League of New York State are requested to meet in conference at the Hotel Seneca, Rochester, on Wednesday evening, Sept. 28, at 8 o'clock. Members of the conference from each county will be entitled to three votes for each Assembly district.

"Dated Albany, N. Y., Aug. 30, 1910.

HOUSE ROBBED BY CARTLOAD

Returning from a trip to the West Prof. J. M. Soures of the Commercial High School, Brooklyn, and his wife discovered that their home at 909 Avenue J, Flatbush, had been looted by burglars during their absence.

Every room had been entered. Mr. Soures said the burglars must have used a wagon to cart away the goods. Furniture and bedding was gone, and the family was compelled to sleep on the floor, using a few blankets and spreads, which they had stored in the attic. The family jewelry and silverware had been stored in a safety deposit vault. This precaution prevented the thieves from making a greater haul.

Mr. Soures notified the police of the Snyder Avenue Precinct. No clue has been found. Mr. Soures said he was willing to pay a reward for the stolen articles.

MAGISTRATES UPHOLD WOMEN WATCHERS

RETURN TO POSTS IN TRIUMPH

Four suffragettes charged with the duty of watching the polls in one district, the Thirteenth, were arrested yesterday in the primary polling places, and with several others were ousted by the police. Yet the women watchers were jubilant last night, believing they had won a decided victory for the "Votes for Women" cause.

In every instance where the women were arrested the Magistrate, before whom they were taken after a ride in the patrol wagon discharged them, and they returned to their posts in the voting places, smiling triumphantly on the crestfallen Inspectors on whose complaints they were arrested. Though shoved about by the police, the women bobbed up smiling every time, and at 9 o'clock last night, when the polls closed, were at what they called "the post of duty."

The first woman watcher to be arrested was at the Democratic polling place of the Ninth Election District of the Thirteenth Assembly District, at 870 Ninth Avenue. A dispute between Chairman Robert Jackson of the Board of Inspectors and the Misses Emma Herenden and Lavinia L. Dock, Coughlin watchers, and Miss Winifred Leonard, an Independence League watcher, as to the right of the women to be present, caused the place to open ten minutes late. The three women went behind the railing, when the polls opened, and Chairman Jackson couldn't get them to budge. Jackson didn't want to start the voting while the women were there, and lost his patience when the crowd outside waiting to vote began to abuse him for holding up the line. Jackson called in Policemen Barry and Weaver of the West Forty-seventh Street Station, preferring a charge of obstructing the polls against the women. The policemen hesitated.

"I never arrested a woman in my life," said Barry, "but a drunk."

Miss Dock and Miss Leonard were finally arrested, Miss Herenden, more timid than the other two, edging out from behind the rail on seeing that Jackson meant business. The two women were driven in the patrol wagon to the West Forty-seventh Street police station and from there to the West Side Court where Magistrate Kernochan was sitting. Miss Dock said she was 53 years old and lived at the Settlement House at 265 Henry Street. She wore a yellow sash over the left shoulder with the motto, "Votes for Women" across it in bold type. Miss Leonard of 15 East Thirty-fifth Street said she was 30 years old. Miss Dock produced her certificate in court to show that she had been appointed a watcher by the Democratic faction opposed to the leadership of John F. Curry, and her friend had a certificate from the Independence League.

When the women were brought to court District Leader Curry and Deputy Attorney Moffat and Assistant District Attorney Smyth were on the bridge. Curry and the lawyers disputed warmly over the interpretation of the primary law as to watchers. Curry fought hard to have the women excluded from the voting places, but the Magistrate and Messrs Moffat and Smyth held that there was nothing in the law to prohibit the appointment of women as watchers, and so they were discharged.

"Come on," said Miss Dock to her companion as they left the court. "There is work for us over there," referring to the polling place from which they had been ejected.

Miss Dock said two fraudulent ballots had been cast while she and Miss Leonard were in the polling place. Two men, she said, whose names were not on the polling list had been permitted to vote, giving their names to the clerks, receiving ballots, voting them, and hurrying away. When the clerks looked for the names they could not be found.

"The Inspectors were a sheepish-looking lot," said Miss Dock last night, "when we came in from the court and took our places behind the rail, but the police grinned, for they were on our side all along and didn't want to arrest us."

Mrs. Nora Blatch De Forest of 15 West Ninety-first Street, wife of Lee De Forest, head of the De Forest Wireless Telegraph Company, was taken to the West Side Court late in the afternoon by Patrolman John Cullen of the West Sixty-eighth Street Station, charged with being behind the rail of the polling place of the Fourteenth Election District, Thirteenth Assembly District, at 503 West Fifty-ninth Street, and refusing to move. M. Shapiro, Chairman of the Inspectors at that precinct, made the complaint, but Magistrate Kernochan ordered her discharged at once. Edward A. Alexander of 165 Broadway was in court as Mrs. De Forest's counsel, but his services were not needed.

News of the victory for the suffrage watchers spread rapidly among the police, and when Miss Mary E. Thornton, 21 years old, of 201 West 100th Street, an Independence League watcher, was arrested in the polling place at 23 Amsterdam Avenue on complaint of the Inspectors, Lieut. Boyle of the West Sixty-eighth Street Station refused to hold her. She left the station smiling triumphantly on the police who had brought her there.

Other squabbles, though no arrests were made, occurred at 200 West Sixty-seventh Street, where Mrs Alberta T. Hill, Mrs. Helen Hoy Greely, a woman lawyer, and Miss Virginia Hudson, all armed with certificates, were stationed as watchers.

The Inspectors frowned on them, but said nothing until Mrs. Hill challenged a voter, saying he was casting a "cannon ballot." She snatched the ballot, and three or four ballots, apparently carefully ironed together, fell to the floor. This started trouble, and the women were ordered from the place. Mrs. Greely said they would have to throw her out or arrest her. She read the law to the police, and they wouldn't arrest her, but got behind her and Mrs. Hill, and, none too gently, the women say, shoved them toward the door. About the time they got outside, or nearly so, Assemblyman Hoey came up, and seemed to side with Inspector Nast and the others, but the moment police pressure was relaxed the women bounded back into the room and behind the rail, where they stayed throughout the day. Every voter had to run the fire of their challenge unless his name was on the books they carried.

CALL FOR SUFFRAGE PLANKS.

Women Will Go to the State Conventions and Appeal to Delegates.

Both the Democratic and Republican Conventions this year will be attended by delegations representing the Woman's Suffrage Party, and the committeewomen will argue for the adoption of a plank in both platforms in favor of woman suffrage. This action was decided upon at the meeting of the City Committee of the Woman's Suffrage Party held yesterday at the headquarters, in the Metropolitan Tower, where the committee reviewed the work of the Summer and made plans for the Winter campaign.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt presided. Others present were Mrs. James Lee Laidlaw, Mrs. Robert Elder, Mrs. Priscilla D. Hackstaff, Mrs. W. W. Penfield, Mrs. Martha W. Suffern, and Mrs. Ida A. Craft. The representatives of the party will not go in force to the Republican Convention, at Saratoga on Sept. 27 and 28, and the Democratic Convention, at Rochester on Sept. 28 and 29. There will be only four or five on each committee. The names of the delegates who will argue the question of the woman suffrage plank will be announced later.

It was voted to memorialize every Republican and Democratic Assembly district convention in the interest of votes for women. That will call for 126 memorials.

The committee considered plans for its own convention, which is to be held at Carnegie Hall on Oct. 28. All the Assembly districts have been organized, and 1,134 delegates will be sent to the convention. Mrs. Russell Sage, who has contributed largely to the party treasury, will be the guest of honor at the convention. Philip Snowden, an English Member of Parliament and ardent woman suffragist, will be present and make a speech, and his wife, whose sympathies are not opposed to those of her husband, may also be here to speak.

The City Committee will have another meeting next week to arrange further details of the programme.

POLICE KEPT GOOD ORDER.

Polls Closely Guarded Under the Eye of Acting Mayor Mitchel.

Owing to the elaborate police arrangements—the most elaborate in force on primary day in this city in years—there were few arrests yesterday and little disturbance. The principal excitement occurred in Tammany Leader James Ahearn's district in Harlem, the Twenty-seventh Election of the Nineteenth Assembly District. There several "guerrillas" from the Bowery suddenly appeared at the polling place and created a disturbance. One man was arrested and the others fled with the police at their heels.

Acting Mayor Mitchel upset tradition by keeping a close watch on the situation all day. While the polls were open he did not leave his office, but kept in constant touch with Police Commissioner Baker. Under the Acting Mayor's orders four policemen and a Sergeant were on duty at every polling place except in the districts where close contests were looked for. There eight policemen were stationed. Under this arrangement the Acting Mayor figured he could hold the Sergeant in charge directly responsible for any disorder or ballot-box stuffing.

The polls opened at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and closed promptly at 9. The pleasant weather brought the voters out early. In most districts the heavy voting was done at night.

Early in the afternoon trouble developed in the Thirty-fifth Assembly District. Soon after the polls opened Inspector Flood in a large automobile with several policemen went to the Fordham Square headquarters of William Morris, who has been the Democratic leader for the last four years. The Inspector told Capts. Tappin of the Morrisania Station, Place of the Alexander Avenue Station, Brennan of the Tremont Station, and Liebers of the Bronx Park Station that he had received word that a band of guerrillas were on their way to the district and ordered each of the commanders to get his reserves as well as the men on post if necessary and cover all elevated and Subway stations.

"Go at them, if you see any of the guerrillas," were the Inspector's orders. The Inspector then called up Acting Mayor Mitchel and informed him that he was ready for any developments. In each of the thirty-eight polling places in this district there were eight policemen and a Sergeant.

Before the polls opened Tammany Leader Charles W. Culkin, whose leadership of the Fifth Assembly District was contested by ex-Assemblyman John T. Eagleton, called his lieutenants about him at his clubrooms, 303 West Twelfth Street, and warned them not to permit any dishonesty.

Contrary to former years there was no disturbance in Percy E. Nagle's district, the Thirtieth Assembly, but for the first time in ten years there was no contest there. In the First Assembly District Leader Rose informed the Police Commissioner and the Attorney General that a plan was on foot to send 200 "guerrillas" to the district. No trouble developed.

Francis J. Lantry, the ex-Fire Commissioner, who fought to regain his leadership of the Sixteenth Assembly District from Edward F. Boyle, applied to Justice Whitney of the Supreme Court yesterday for a peremptory writ of mandamus compelling the Board of Elections to reinstate the Inspectors of Election who were removed on Sept. 9. Justice Whitney refused to grant the application on the ground that the Board of Elections had acted within its right and that the court had no power under the election laws in a matter of primary elections.

Robert McCue, brother of Assemblyman "Marty" McCue, was arrested in a polling place at 689 Third Avenue, charged with carrying a loaded revolver. In a row McCue is alleged to have attempted to draw the revolver.

DELAWARE DEMOCRATS FIGHT

DOVER, Del., Sept. 13.—The Democratic State Convention developed into a "wet and dry" fight late this afternoon. The wets won. The battle was over the nomination of a candidate for Representative in Congress. Ex-Attorney General Robert C. White of Georgetown, a wet supporter, defeated William Saulsbury, dry, of Dover on the second ballot. The vote was: White, 99; Saulsbury, 83; William H. Stayton, Smyrna, 2.

Millard F. Davis of Wilmington was nominated by acclamation for State Treasurer. William H. Walker of Dover, brother-in-law of United States Senator Richardson (Rep.) was chosen for State Auditor.

The platform adopted said, in part:

> The control of the Republican Party in the State for twelve years shows a record of incapacity and misrule which demonstrates its unfitness for power. They have made unfit nominations, debauched the ballot, and abused the election machinery so as to record the votes of dead men and of imported negroes.

After inviting co-operation in "putting an end to the rule of those politicians whose dependence is on the magnitude of the negro vote and the shameless use of money" the platform pledges its candidates, if elected:

> To repeal the infamous voters' assistant law, conceived and used solely and successfully to corrupt our elections.
> To put an end to extravagance and to return to simple habits of honest economy in the use of the people's money.
>
> To stop the wholesale increase in the number of public offices.

The construction of the proposed Delaware and Chesapeake ship canal is favored, as is a "revision and gradual reduction of the tariff."

"We recognize in the uprising of progressive or insurgent Republicans," it adds, "the same spirit of resistance to burdensome special privileges which have long found expression in Democratic platforms. The suffering of the people from the increased cost of living has caused a revolt in the Republican ranks of its most intelligent and patriotic voters."

No mention was made of the liquor issue; it was the hope of the Committee on Resolutions that the question would be avoided, but what the platform lacked the convention itself supplied.

HOTELMAN DEFEATS PEABODY

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 13.—The defeat of George Foster Peabody, the wealthy New Yorker, who holds his official residence at Glens Falls, by Thomas O'Connor, a hotel keeper at Warrensburg, for delegate to the Democratic State Convention from Warren County, has caused some local stir. The convention was held yesterday at Warrensburg, and Mr. Peabody, who is a former Treasurer of the Democratic National Committee, received twenty-three of the forty-eight votes.

The convention was dominated by Albert Newcombe of Glens Falls and State Committeeman William M. Cameron of Glens Falls. Mr. Peabody owns a large tract of land on the shores of Lake George and employs hundreds of men. Then, too, he contributed liberally to the Warren County Democratic fund last Fall. It is understood that the State delegates favor Mayor Gaynor for Governor, with Edward M. Shepard second choice.

JERSEY VOTE LIGHT; RETURNS IN LATE

Less Than 30 Per Cent. of the Last General Election Poll Cast in Some Cities.

MURPHY FOR THE SENATE

The first direct primaries in New Jersey were held in all of the twenty-one counties of that State yesterday. Because of the long ballots returns were late coming in and the full result will not be known until to-day. In many districts the Republican vote was not more than 30 per cent. of that cast at the last regular election, while the Democratic vote was heavy.

Late returns indicate that Congressman Charles N. Fowler, one of the leaders in the insurgent fight against Speaker Cannon, has been defeated for the nomination in the Fifth Congressional District by William Runyon of Plainfield.

At an early hour this morning it looked as though Franklin Murphy had won the contest for United States Senator. The heavy vote for Murphy in Essex and Atlantic City turned the tide for Murphy.

In the Democratic ranks Mayor Wittpenn of Jersey City lost in his fight against Bob Davis's forces in Hudson County. Mayor Wittpenn was an active candidate for the Gubernatorial nomination, and while he carried Bayonne and Hoboken, North Hudson and West Hudson seem to be solid for the organization. As a result delegates from Hudson will go to the Democratic State Convention unpledged, but supposedly for President Woodrow Wilson of Princeton.

It was estimated that out of 236 delegates in all of Hudson County Wittpenn would get not more than 60.

The Rotheram regular Republican forces appear to have beaten the two other factions in Hudson County decisively, and the regulars will control. This assures the nomination of Vivian Lewis for Governor. Assistant Prosecutor George T. Vickers and Frederick Schroeder will be the Republican nominees for Congress, though friends of George Record were claiming the victory for him.

The Republican organization won the Assembly nomination fight in Essex, with Murphy 20,000, Stokes 6,000, and Fowler 5,000 for United States Senator. The New Idea Republican faction won everything in Monmouth and gave 2,000 for Stokes and practically nothing for Murphy and Fowler. In Atlantic City Murphy got 6,000 and Stokes 1,000, with nothing for Fowler, but it is believed the township returns will carry the county for Stokes.

With the result in the Seventh and Eighth Congressional Districts in Essex County is somewhat in doubt the best indications are that Congressman Richard Wayne Parker of the Seventh and Congressman William H. Wiley, Republicans, who were up for re-nomination have held their own. Harold J. Howland, of Montclair, an editor of The Outlook, was running against Congressman Parker and George H. Austin against Wiley.

There is little doubt but Sheriff Harrigan's Independent Democratic ticket has been snowed under by the Democratic machine. The majority of the Democratic delegation from Essex will go to the State Convention instructed for President Woodrow Wilson of Princeton for Governor.

The defeat of Harrigan means that Dr. Wilson will get the Essex delegation in the Democratic State Convention.

James R. Nugent, Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, declared that the majority of delegates would go into the Democratic State Convention instructed for Edward W. Townsend for Congressman of the Seventh District and Walter McCoy of the Eighth District.

Cumberland County, the home of ex-Gov. Stokes, nominated a delegation to the Legislature which will vote against him for United States Senator.

Nichols, anti-Stokes Republican candidate for Senator, won in the county from 800 to 1,000. Turner and Whiticare, anti-Stokes candidates for the Assembly, also are nominated by majorities slightly less than Nichols's.

Nichols carried Bridgeton, his home, by 800, but lost Millville, where Stokes lives, by 150 and Vineland by about the same figures. The county will give Stokes about 3,000 votes as its popular preference for Senator. Few votes were cast for Murphy and Fowler.

Returns from Morris County indicate that the regular Republicans have scored a victory by a majority which will be larger than the vote cast for the Fowler and local option wings. Fowler will get few delegates from Morris County to the Congressional District Convention. He may not get any.

The polls opened at 1 o'clock and closed at 9 in the evening. The greatest interest centred in the Senate contest. There are five avowed Republican candidates for the Senatorship, but only three of them consented to let their names go before the people. These three are ex-Gov. Stokes, ex-Gov. Murphy, and Congressman Charles N. Fowler, who also had a fight on his hands for renomination in the Fifth District. The two candidates for Senator who refused to go on the primary ticket, but will take their chances with the Legislature next Winter, are Senator Kean and David Baird, the Republican leader in Southern New Jersey.

The Democrats who sought indorsement by the people for the Senatorship are James E. Martine of Union County and Frank M. McDermitt of Essex County.

DEMOCRATS CONTROL MAINE LEGISLATURE

Will Elect Senator Hale's Successor—May Resubmit Prohibition Constitutional Amendment.

PLAISTED PLURALITY 8,732

Congressmen Seem Evenly Divided, but the Two Republicans' Narrow Pluralities Are Disputed by Democrats.

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 13.—Complete returns of the vote for Senators and Representatives in the State election yesterday gave the Democrats substantial majorities in both branches of the Maine Legislature, which at the beginning of the new year will elect a United States Senator to succeed Eugene Hale, a Secretary of State, State Treasurer, Attorney General, and Commissioner of Agriculture.

The new legislative body also will be called upon probably to carry out the declarations of the Democratic Party platforms of recent years and resubmit to the people the amendment to the constitution prohibiting the sale of liquor and to repeal the Sturgis Liquor Law Enforcement act.

According to the unofficial complete returns the Legislature will have a Democratic majority of 36 on joint ballot. The Senate will consist of 21 Democrats and 10 Republicans, while the House will have 88 Democrats and 63 Republican members. The last Legislature consisted of 122 Republicans and 60 Democrats, the Republicans having a majority of 15 in the Senate and 47 in the House.

Practically complete returns to-night on the vote of the State for Governor gave Col. Frederick W. Plaisted, Democrat, 73,644, and Gov. Bert M. Fernald, Republican, 64,912, a plurality for Col. Plaisted of 8,732 as against a plurality of 8,064 for William T. Cobb, Republican, elected Governor four years ago.

The total vote of the two leading parties yesterday was 138,556. Four years ago it was 130,790.

Doubt still existed to-night regarding the result in the Fourth Congressional District, Congressman Frank E. Guernsey of Dover, the Republican candidate, and George M. Hanson of Calais, the Democrat, each claiming the victory by a small plurality. Guernsey's claim was 200 plurality; Hanson's was 152 plurality. In the First District, Asher C. Hinds (Rep.) is apparently elected by a plurality of about 300 over William H. Pennell, (Dem.) Mr. Cannon's expert parliamentarian will therefore probably occupy the seat in Congress once held by Thomas B. Reed.

The Second and Third Districts will have Democratic Congressmen. D. J. McGillicuddy of Lewiston succeeding Congressman John P. Swasey, (Rep.,) in the district which Nelson Dingley of Dingley tariff fame formerly represented, while Samuel W. Gould of Skowhegan will be the successor to Congressman Edwin C. Burleigh, (Rep.,) who has represented the Third District for the last eighteen years in Congress.

While revised returns give Hinds 324 votes over William M. Pennell, Democrat, for Congress in the First District, the vote being 17,332 to 17,008, the Democratic leaders have announced that the ballots would be examined in every city and town if necessary to make certain of the result.

McGillicuddy's plurality in the Second District is 3,421, with only fifteen small towns missing.

Figures for the Third District were still incomplete to-night, but Congressman Edwin C. Burleigh found no reason to alter his earlier estimate that Samuel W. Gould (Democrat) had defeated him by approximately 2,000 plurality.

The defeat of State Auditor Charles P. Hatch by Lamont L. Stevens of Wells, a Democrat, was conceded by Republicans to-night.

The Democratic Legislature, which is to choose a successor to Senator Eugene Hale and give Maine her first Democratic Senator since 1863, and New England the first since the election of William D. Eaton in Connecticut in the late seventies, will also have full charge of redistricting the State.

Among the appointments which rest with the new Governor are: A Judge of the Kennebec Superior Court, a State Commissioner of Industrial and Labor Statistics, a State Commissioner of Highways, and a Warden of the State Prison. All these offices are now filled by Republicans. The Democratic overturn extends also to minor state offices. To-day's figures show that the Democrats elected thirteen of the sixteen High Sheriffs in the State. Republicans elected their shrievalty candidates in Aroostok, Franklin, and Washington Counties only. In five of the counties Democratic Sheriffs were re-elected, in eight other counties the Democrats gained the office.

BOCKLAND, Me., Sept. 13.—Governor William T. Cobb's comment to-day on the Democratic landslide in yesterday's election was this:

"The people apparently wanted a change in laws and men and methods, and they made it."

DEMOCRATS HERE JUBILANT.

Defeat in Maine Almost Stuns Republicans—Roosevelt Blamed.

Jubilant Democrats and dismayed Republicans yesterday discussed the political upset in Maine and the notable Democratic triumph in that rock-ribbed Republican State. The defeat of their party seemed to have an almost stunning effect on the Republicans.

Many of the politicians in this city did a lot of figuring yesterday on the immediate causes of the Maine revolt. In both Republican and Democratic circles the insurgent speeches of Col. Roosevelt were in some instances held responsible for what has happened in Maine, as helping to keep alive unrest throughout the country.

Norman E. Mack, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, in an interview at the Hoffman House, expressed as his opinion that the speeches of Col. Roosevelt, in which he virtually admitted that the Republican Party had failed to keep its pledges, were largely responsible for the Maine election results.

"For fifteen years," said Mr. Mack, "the Democratic Party has been fighting special privilege. That fact, taken together with the fact that the Republican Party in the last platform adopted at the National Convention in Chicago promised a revision of the tariff downward—a promise which was reiterated in Mr. Taft's letter of acceptance—and instead revised the tariff upward, displeased the people. Then again the general extravagance in the administration of our affairs by the Republican Party, which has doubled the cost of the necessities of life in the last five years, is also a factor.

"In many of Mr. Roosevelt's speeches—not all of them, for there are some things he says the Democrats cannot stand for—he acknowledges in effect that the Republicans during his own incumbency of the Presidential office betrayed the people, and in effect says that the Democratic Party is right. I think these are the principal causes of the uprising going on from Maine to California."

"When Republican Maine swings into the Democratic column," said Acting Mayor Mitchel, "what may we expect from the State of New York? I am sure it will go Democratic. The result in Maine is due to the sort of legislation the Republicans have given us."

Ridder Blames Roosevelt.

Herman Ridder said: "The tariff is responsible in part; Mr. Roosevelt's speeches in part. His talk has frightened people away from him. We will win in this State if we nominate the right kind of men."

Tammany Leader Charles F. Murphy seemed happy indeed as he received a number of the district leaders at Tammany Hall.

"The result in Maine," he said, "indicates clearly that the people are getting tired of Republican misrule. With good candidates we will win not only in this State but in a number of others in the North which formerly have been Republican."

The loss by the Republicans of at least two seats in the lower house of Congress as a result of the Democratic sweep in Maine cast a gloom over the headquarters of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee, in the St. James Building, but in the absence of Representative Harry C. Loudenslager of New Jersey, Secretary of the committee, who is busy attending to his primaries at home, nobody wanted to be quoted in comment.

Controller William A. Prendergast said yesterday that he did not think the Republicans ought to be dejected by the result in Maine.

"The Republicans did not have quite enough votes to win, that's all," said the Controller. "The average Republican is dispiridted, and the average Democrat elated, but I don't see where there is much warrant for either."

Representative Richard Bartholdt of Missouri, returning from Europe yesterday, where he went as Chairman of the American delegation to the Peace Conference at Brussels, said:

"The Democratic victory in Maine may prove a blessing in disguise to the Republican Party. Maine went Democratic in 1880, and it roused the country to such an extent that they elected Garfield President shortly afterward—a thing nobody thought possible. Two years from now, I believe, the country will set the seal of its approval on the safe and sound and highly effective Administration of President Taft. More has been accomplished in the last sixteen months under his Administration in the way of practical legislation than in years before."

Representative George R. Malby said at Republican State headquarters:

"The results in Maine show what is to be expected elsewhere if this work of destroying party organization is permitted to continue. This is the first fruits of the New Nationalism."

CLARK SEES CONGRESS WON.

Says News from Maine Gives Every Democrat Heart and Hope.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Sept. 13.—Congressman Champ Clark, Democratic leader in the House of Representatives and possible successor, therefore, of Speaker Cannon, said: "The news from Maine should give heart and hope to every Democrat and to every lover of good government betwixt two seas."

"Taken in connection," he added, "with the Democratic victories for Congressmen in the Sixth Missouri District, the One Hundred and Forty-eighth Massachusetts District, and the Rochester District in New York, and also in connection with the large reduction in the Republican majority in Vermont, it indicates a sweeping Democratic victory throughout the country. The indications are that we will have a good working majority in the House and also gain six or seven Senators."

W. J. BRYAN IS PLEASED.

Says Maine Victory Seems to Make Democratic Congress Certain.

LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 13.—Regarding the result of the Maine election William J. Bryan said to-day:

"I am very much pleased to learn of the Democratic victory in Maine. The fact that we elected two out of four Congressmen, as well as Governor and Legislature, gives it a National significance which it would not have if it were merely a victory for State officers.

"Taken with the returns from Vermont, it indicates that the revolt against the Republican Party is as pronounced in the East as in the West, and would seem to make it certain that there will be a Democratic majority in the next Congress."

PUTS BLAME ON ROOSEVELT.

Maryland Leader Also Looks for Even Worse Results.

Special to The New York Times.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Sept. 13.—Former Senator George L. Wellington, Republican leader in Maryland, to-day blamed Col. Roosevelt for the result of the Maine election.

"I look for even worse results in November," he said, "with every probability of a Democratic Congress. We have the spectacle of a former President going about the country trying to make all the trouble he can, saying and doing things directly opposite to the President. The party cannot live under this condition."

Special to The New York Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 13.—"The result in Maine was neither Democratic nor Republican—it was non-partisan," said Senator Beveridge to-day. "The old time politicians absolutely refused to admit the tremendous progress, mental and moral, among the people and the complete abandonment by the people of the old time partisan methods. Therefore the voters of Maine have repudiated this leadership which so emphatically misrepresented them, and the only way they had an opportunity to do this was by voting for the opposition candidates."

PARTY IN CONNECTICUT UPSET.

Republicans as Convention Opens in Alarm Plan to Brace Up State.

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 13.—The effect of the Maine election has been to upset the Republican leaders' plan as to the make-up of the State ticket to be nominated to-morrow. The anxiety to-night was to strengthen the ticket by altering the slate, which, save the Gubernatorial place, had been prepared for the convention, nearly 600 delegates to which were present when State Chairman Michael Kenealy called the convention to order to-day and presented Congressman E. J. Hill as the temporary Chairman.

The Governorship was already giving anxiety to the leaders, who realized the strength of Judge Baldwin, the Democratic nominee, and now further anxieties are added. Aside from the convention of two years ago, when the bitterness existing between the Lake and Lilley factions was the absorbing feature, the Republican State leaders have rarely faced so difficult a situation.

Mr. Hill devoted most of his address to the Payne Tariff bill. He declared that in the twelve months it had been in operation it had brought into "our ports absolutely free of tax $768,047,231 worth of products, which is more than all the importations, free and dutiable, during any year of the Wilson bill, and $110,000,000 more than the free importations in any year of the Dingley bill. It has brought into our ports $794,573,950 worth of dutiable products, which have paid in customs duties $327,875,672, or more than in any year in the Nation's history except the boom year of 1907."

The speaker referred to Theodore Roosevelt as "a flaming torch throwing light into the dark places of greed and monopoly and arousing the sleeping consciences of a money-making and self-satisfied Nation," characterized William J. Bryan as a "peddler of political nostrums," and declared that President Taft in the eighteen months since his inauguration, "by calm persuasion, infinite patience, and unfailing tact, had hammered out of the white heat of popular passion more corrective law and constructive legislation than have ever come from any other Congress in its entire existence."

Mr. Hill's reference to Col. Roosevelt brought out great cheering, and a minute later he led three cheers for President Taft.

Aside from Mr. Hill's address the interest naturally centred on the doings of to-morrow. The best prediction on the outcome of the vote for first place was that not over twenty votes would separate ex-Lieut. Gov. E. J. Lake and Charles A. Goodwin. Only the bias of favoritism led to prediction as to the winner. The Senatorship contest stalked into this fight, and it was freely said that United States Senator Morgan G. Bulkeley held the balance of power.

ROOSEVELT SEES POLITICIANS HERE

SILENT ON MAINE RESULT

Congressman Cocks Going Ahead of Him to Syracuse "to Do a Little Reconnoitering."

Col. Theodore Roosevelt, for the first time since he returned from his Western trip, went to the office of The Outlook, of which he is contributing editor, yesterday, and had a conference with a few politicians. Among his visitors were Congressman Hamilton Fish, who has been mentioned as a possible Republican gubernatorial candidate; Congressman W. W. Cocks of Long Island, Frederic J. Paxon, President of the Atlanta, Ga., Chamber of Commerce, and Gen. George B. Lowd of the G. A. R.

Mr. Lowd asked Col. Roosevelt to address a gathering of the war veterans at Atlantic City soon, while Mr. Paxon saw him in connection with the Colonel's contemplated visit to Atlanta next month.

The Colonel was asked if he had anything to say regarding the news from Maine.

"Not a word," he replied. "I have just returned from a hygienic tour to steep myself in literary calm."

Mr. Fish admitted that he had talked politics with the Colonel, but he added that he had nothing to give out for publication.

"I had a long talk with Mr. Fish," explained Col. Roosevelt, "but I have nothing to say about it."

Col. Roosevelt intends going to the Suffolk County, L. I., Fair at St. James on Thursday morning, where he is to make a political address. On Saturday he will go to Syracuse to make an address at the State Fair there.

Congressman Cocks went to Syracuse yesterday "just to do a little reconnoitering," as he expressed it.

DOUBT TAFT'S APPROVAL.

Special to The New York Times.

BEVERLY, Mass., Sept. 13.—No one at Beverly to-day would affirm or deny yesterday's statement from Oyster Bay that Col. Roosevelt is proceeding in his fight against the Old Guard with the full approval and with the spirit of President Taft.

If there has been any communication between the President and the ex-President of late on that subject, it has been without allowing the fact to reach the public. It is assumed in some quarters that Col. Roosevelt may have permitted the statement to go forth solely on the authority of the President's letter to County Chairman Griscom, growing out of the episode with Vice President Sherman.

WILL ANSWER ROOSEVELT.

Gen. Keifer Is Opposed to Fortifying the Panama Canal.

Gen. J. Warren Keifer, Congressman from Ohio and former Speaker of the House of Representatives, arrived yesterday from Europe on the North German Lloyd liner Kronprinzessin Cecilie. He has been attending the Interparliamentary Union in Brussels, and is one of the Congressmen who oppose the fortification of the Panama Canal. He said that all of the delegates to the union were opposed to the fortification of this waterway, and added that he intended to reply to Col. Roosevelt's recent pronouncement for the fortification of the canal.

"This seems," said Gen. Keifer, "a surprising change on the part of Col. Roosevelt on the question of fortifying the canal, coupled with a willingness to break faith with Great Britain by violating a treaty largely of his own making. To fortify the canal would be to reverse the policy of the United States and to carry it out would require the expenditure of a huge sum of money and the presence on the isthmus of a large number of soldiers, besides the maintenance of two fleets to guard the ocean entrance to the canal."

A fellow-passenger of Gen. Keifer was Congressman Richard Bartholdt of Missouri, who was Chairman of the American delegation to the Interparliamentary Union. Mr. Bartholdt said the American delegates had placed two important proposals before the union, in one of which they urged the adoption of the Knox plan to invest the International Prize Court with jurisdiction in arbitration as well, thus having one instead of two international tribunals.

The other proposal was to urge other countries to follow the example of the United States in establishing peace commissions. The second proposal was adopted, but the first one was not.

CALL ROOSEVELT DELIVERER.

Wayne Republicans Indorse Him as the Man to Restore Harmony.

LYONS, N. Y., Sept. 13.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt was indorsed as the "great deliverer to restore harmony in the party in Nation and State" by the Wayne Republican District Convention, held here this afternoon. At the same time the delegates went on record as opposed to primary reform, for which the former President stands. The convention was dominated throughout by "organization" leaders, and Charles H. Betts, State Committeeman, heads the delegation to the State Convention.

James D. Bashford, County Treasurer, was indorsed for State Treasurer, and the delegation was instructed to vote for his nomination. Delegates to the Congressional and Senatorial Conventions also were pledged to Representative Serano E. Payne and Senator F. W. Winter, respectively.

The resolutions indorse both the National and State Administrations, approve the stand taken by the last Legislature in refusing to pass a direct primary law, and declare for the retention of the present delegate convention and the perfection of the system.

BLEASE IN SOUTH CAROLINA.

Local Optionist Probably Has Defeated Prohibitionist in Second Primaries.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBIA, S. C. Sept. 13.—Another picturesque figure probably has been elevated to the Governorship of this State in the person of Coleman Livingstone Blease, Mayor of Newberry, who, on a local option platform, is believed to have been chosen to-day at the second primary to head the Democratic ticket at the State election. This is equivalent to his election. Blease's opponent was Claudius C. Featherstone of Laurens, a prohibitionist.

With more than 93,000 out of probably 110,000 voters accounted for, the tabulation at 11 o'clock to-night shows these results:

Governor—Blease, 48,384; Featherstone, 45,313. Adjutant General—Moore, 60,901; Richardson, 29,220. Railroad Commissioner—Hampton, 47,070; Cansler, 42,898. For Congress, Second District—Patterson, (incumbent,) 5,610; Byrnes, 5,649. Sixth District — Ellerbee, (incumbent,) 7,717; Hodges, 6,621.

Blease, who always has been a picturesque figure, whether serving in Democratic National Conventions, in the Legislature, or as Mayor of Newberry, made his campaign for Governor on a platform opposing prohibition and the higher education of negroes. He announced his stand on these matters in many speeches, and distributed them in the form of a tract entitled, "The Platform of Cole. L. Blease." It was an ingenuous tract, reciting the victories and virtues of the candidate without anything approaching reserve. In it he said:

> We are told that South Carolina needs sound and economical government. But who first called attention to this condition? Blease did it on the floor of the Senate.
>
> Two years ago I enforced the immigration law so completely that the Legislature was forced to repeal the act and abolish the Immigration Bureau. Had it not been for my fight that abomination would still be with us.
>
> I fought for the inspection of our mills. I fought against the effort that was made to keep thousands of our white people from voting in the primaries.

Among the things for which Blease stood, he ranked his opposition to negro education and prohibition as most important.

DEMOCRATS SWEEP ARIZONA.

Have at Least 36 Out of 52 Delegates to Constitutional Convention.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Sept. 13.—Democrats will write the Constitution of the new State of Arizona. Nearly complete returns from yesterday's election of delegates to the Arizona Constitutional Convention confirm reports of the overwhelming victory. The Democrats have elected a total of 36 delegates out of 52; the Republicans have elected 11. Republicans, Democrats, and leaders of the Labor Party are each claiming the five Gila County delegates, but the result will not be known positively until remote precincts are heard from.

If campaign platforms and pledges are carried out to the letter the constitution will not be the short, plain instrument pleaded for by those who expressed the fear that any other sort might be frowned on in Washington. It will establish the principles of the initiative, referendum and recall, the direct election of United States Senators, and the direct primary.

The questions of State-wide prohibition and woman's suffrage may be fought out on the floor of the convention or submitted as amendments to a popular vote simultaneously with the Constitution.

A RAP FOR WICKERSHAM.

Voted for Parker, Says Bristow—Tried to Read Republicans Out of Party.

GRAND JUNCTION, Col., Sept. 13.—In a speech advocating the nomination of Merle D. Vincent for Governor of Colorado on the Republican ticket, Senator Joseph L. Bristow of Kansas said:

"When we determined to put the long and short haul clause in the Railroad bill we were threatened by Attorney General Wickersham with the veto of the bill. I am informed he did not vote for Roosevelt, but for Alton B. Parker, yet he had the presumption to try to read us out of the Republican Party. Why? Because we fought for the interests of our constituents and refused to bow to the special interests."

Special to The New York Times.

CLORADO SPRINGS, Col., Sept. 13.—Senator Joseph L. Bristow of Kansas refused to say to-night where he got the information that Attorney General Wickershame voted for Judge Parker for President.

"I did not say at Grand Junction last night that Wickersham voted for Parker," said the Senator. "I said I was told that Wickersham did not vote for Roosevelt in 1904 and that I believed he voted for Parker. I was told by several persons that Wickersham did not vote for Roosevelt. I must decline to give you the names of any of them. I believe they knew what they were talking about, and my impression now is that some of them said Wickersham voted for Parker, but I am not positive about this.

"Of course at that time none of us had any idea that Wickersham would ever become a member of the cabinet. I mentioned the matter in my Grand Junction speech as showing that there were some shining lights in the Republican party who did not approve of the party's course at that time and did not vote for its candidate for President."

POINDEXTER IN THE LEAD.

Oregon Primaries Seem to Favor Insurgent for Senate Nomination.

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 13.—The first returns in the Washington State primaries put Miles Poindexter of Spokane, insurgent Republican candidate for United States Senator slightly in the lead over James H. Ashton of Tacoma. The Spokane vote is heavy for Poindexter.

Scattering returns from Seattle precincts indicate the defeat of Congressman William E. Humphreys, stand-patter, by Thomas Revelle, insurgent.

The labor unions supported Poindexter, and Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor urged his election. The unions worked hard, too, to defeat Humphreys, who is the author of the Ship Subsidy bill pending in Congress. He was attacked for his friendliness to Speaker Cannon and for alleged hostility to labor bills. The Coast Seamen's Union led the fight against him in favor of Revelle.

There is no contest for nominations on the Democratic ticket.

GRAPE-NUTS.

"NO FRILLS"
Just Sensible Food Cured Him.

Sometimes a good, healthy commercial traveler suffers from poorly selected food and is lucky if he learns that Grape-Nuts food will put him right.

A Cincinnati traveler says: "About a year ago my stomach got in a bad way. I had a headache most of the time and suffered misery. For several months I ran down until I lost about 70 pounds in weight and finally had to give up a good position and go home. Any food that I might use seemed to nauseate me.

"My wife, hardly knowing what to do, one day brought home a package of Grape-Nuts food and coaxed me to try it. I told her it was no use, but finally to humor her I tried a little and they just struck my taste. It was the first food that I had eaten in nearly a year that did not cause any suffering.

"Well, to make a long story short, I began to improve and stuck to Grape-Nuts. I went up from 135 pounds in December to 194 pounds the following October.

"My brain is clear, blood all right, and appetite too much for any man's pocketbook. In fact, I am thoroughly made over and owe it all to Grape-Nuts. I talk so much about what Grape-Nuts will do that some of the men on the road have nicknamed me 'Grape-Nuts,' but I stand to-day a healthy, rosy-cheeked man—a pretty good example of what the right kind of food will do.

"You can publish this if you want to. It is a true statement without any frills."

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

African Game Trails

We believe it true for many reasons; chiefly because,—The writer of the book had all his heart in the writing of it as these words of his show:—

"I regard this book as a serious thing. I have put my best into it."

Because he was inspired by the tremendous romance of his subject. As these words of his show:—

"'I speak of Africa and golden joys,' the joy of wandering through lonely lands; the joy of hunting the mighty and terrible lords of the wilderness, the cunning, the wary, and the grim."

Because, as the Evening Sun finds, his book is:—

"One of the handsomest volumes, if not the handsomest volume, that ever came from the press of CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS. The page is most gratifying to the eye of the reader, and the closed book would be an ornament to any drawing-room table."

GRAHAME-WHITE GOT $31,000 FOR FLYING

NO CONTEST FOR $10,000

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Sept. 13.—The Harvard-Boston aero meet ended its ten days' competitions to-night, but will continue two days longer, though the real contests are over. It is the first financially successful show of its kind. In it Claude Grahame-White scored more points than all the other aviators combined and won in prizes twice as much money as they did. He won The Boston Globe prize of $10,000 for the race twice around Boston Light without meeting a single competitor. Twice he entered the race against time, leaving a record of 33 miles in 34 minutes 1 1-5 seconds for other aviators to better ,an exhibition of speed never before witnessed in America for the distance.

The prize of $3,000 for the best speed laps also went to Grahame-White, with a record of 5.25 miles in 6 minutes 1 second. In the altitude duration and distance events he won second prizes, $1,000 each for duration and distance and $2,000 for altitude.

In the bomb dropping contest, the first held in this country, and not before tried by Grahame-White. he won the only prize of $5,000 with twice the score of his nearest competitor.

In all Grahame-White will take away with him $22,100 in prize money, in addition to the $7,500 guarantee, and by taking passengers he has also earned nearly another $2,000.

Against the showing of Grahame-White, the achievements of American aviators are small. The Wright men, Brookins and Johnstone, with the two biplanes that showed great efficiency, take $9,250 in all, being first prizes in five events and second prizes in two. It was by the Wright team that the only world's record was beaten at the meet, that of accuracy in landing. Ralph Johnstone established it at five feet four inches. He also made a new American record for duration and distance by remaining in the air 185 minutes 40 seconds, covering a distance of 101 miles 389 feet.

There has been no accident or loss of life at the meet. So successful has it been that the aviators have agreed to give exhibitions for the next two days to test the possibilities of an attack by as airship fleet. Although the regular contests are all closed, special prizes will be given to the best aerial warships, and $1,000 will be offered to any who betters a world's record in altitude, duration, distance, and speed.

To-morrow and Thursday will be devoted to fancy flights. The aviators who have been busy making scores will then put their machines through less strenuous exhibitions. Harmon, the only amateur in the professional class, will join the air fleet. It was he who won the first prize in every amateur event—the $3,000 Harvard Cup for bomb throwing, the $1,000 cup for speed, the $1,000 cup for duration, and the $500 cup for slow laps.

W. Starling Burgess, as professional and amateur, won most prizes with least effort. He also holds the record of being the only Harvard graduate at the meet to fly at all.

The field has been leased to the Harvard Aeronautical Society for five years at a nominal figure. It is the property of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, which also benefited financially by the meet. Never before in its history have so many people used the place in any event. Special trains were run, and although great crowds heavily taxed the facilities of the railroad there was an excellent service.

The succession of engine troubles that prevented Glenn H. Curtiss from competing against Grahame-White in The Boston Globe prize of $10,000 was a great disappointment.

To-day's bomb-throwing was shared by Grahame-White and Brookins, the latter with Wilbur Wright as a passenger. Johnstone also went up to amuse the crowd with his stunts and, incidentally, to join in throwing bombs at the battleship. In thirteen throws he scored 24 points.

The President's daughter, Miss Helen Taft, motored to the field with Mrs. Levi S. Leiter, Miss Colton, and Lieut. Rowcliffe of the Mayflower, and Grahame-White showed and explained his Farman machine to them.

Glenn H. Curtiss, who secured a fast motor for his Hudson River flyer too late to contest White's rights to The Globe's $10,000 prize, has challenged the Englishman to a match race, the latter to use the Blériot with which he won the prize.

MARS SANGUINE OF WINNING.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—J. C. Mars, the young Western aviator who will take part in THE NEW YORK TIMES-Chicago Evening Post race from Chicago to New York, arrived in Chicago to-day, and after inspecting the exhibition field at Hawthorne race track, pronounced it better than any from which he has ever flown. He is very hopeful of success by following the part-water route he has chosen, first proceeding from Chicago to Toledo, thence to Buffalo, skirting Lake Erie, and then following the Lackawanna Railroad in the flight from that city to New York.

"Regardless of weather conditions, the people of Chicago are going to see some flights that are worth while," he said. "With ordinarily favorable weather, the exhibition should surpass anything that has been seen before.

"The flight under the conditions named is perfectly practicable. Barring accidents, a large proportion of those entered should make it. Of course, there is nothing that requires so much skill, versatility, and control over your nerves as navigating an aeroplane. I have been a contortionist, a high diver, and a balloonist, and I need every bit of that training. If a man is all that, and also a lightning calculator, he may qualify to run an aeroplane. A flight without an accident means practically a flight without a mistake, and you are using every faculty you have every minute you are in the air. Forget yourself for a moment, or make a false motion, and you are lost. You must maintain your balance every instant. Once you lose it you cannot regain it, and all that if left is a mad plunge to earth.

"You must be ready at an instant's notice to change every plan. Without warning an air current may change and you will drop fifty feet. You must be ready for it and maintain your balance, although it lifts you out of your seat. Air currents may tilt up one corner of your machine and threaten to turn you over, but you mst know just what you are doing and why you are doing it.

"I always prefer to fly high. I inherited this partly from my ballooning days. The balloonist is afraid of the earth; never of the air. Then in an aeroplane, if you are high you have a chance to recover on a drop before you reach the earth, and if something is wrong you may glide and pick an easy spot to land. Of course, if your rudder breaks or a similar accident occurs you are done for anyway, and it doesn't make much difference whether you fall hundreds or thousands of feet."

Those who follow the water route to New York will have the best chance of winning the race, Mr. Mars believes.

"The air currents on land are treacherous," he said. "Even a barn in a field will send a billow of air up hundreds of feet when the wind is blowing hard. Hills and other elevations cause even a greater disturbance, and are likely to whirl and twist an aeroplane about in the most unexpected manner.

"Over the water the currents are much more constant and calculable. While my route is somewhat longer, I think it is much safer and more likely to get me to New York without accident."

Referring to the dispute between the Wrights and Glenn H. Curtiss, for which he blamed their financial backers, Mr. Mars said:

"The advance of aviation is being immeasurably held back by patents. If a man could use all the best ideas that have been developed and employ them in the construction of a single aeroplane it would almost fly itself. But he is held back by patents.

"One of the greatest contributors to the progress of flying is Capt. Baldwin. He invented some of the most important devices used in aeroplanes, and he gave them to the world absolutely free. If that spirit prevailed we would be much further along."

READY FOR THE AVIATORS.

T. F. Ryan Offered to Help Belmont Park Meet—No Help Needed.

Allan A. Ryan, J. C. McCoy, James A. Blair, Jr., and others in charge of the International Aviation Tournament, visited Belmont Park yesterday and found the old racetrack practically ready for the flying machines and the big crowd that will be there from Oct. 22 to 30.

Word was received from Boston last night that following the close of the aviation meeting there Claude Grahame-White and several other aviators will come to New York to inspect the field at Belmont Park.

Several letters and cablegrams were received telling of promising negotiations with European aviators, including a letter from Frank S. Lahm, dated Sept. 6, in which he writes: "You can be sure that the French team for the International Trophy will be full and a very strong team, and we will be able to send you besides several stars of the first magnitude."

Thomas F. Ryan, who is traveling abroad, has joined the large group of Americans actively interested in aviation. Yesterday he cabled his son, Allan A. Ryan, asking if he could not contribute in some way to the success of the Belmont Park meeting.

Allan A. Ryan, who has now substantially assumed business control of the tournament, cabled his thanks, but assured his father that all needs for the undertaking were well supplied.

WELLMAN AIRSHIP TEST SOON.

Dirigible Will Be Tried Out for European Trip Next Week.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 13.—Walter Wellman, who is preparing the airship America here for his attempt to fly from this country to Europe, announced to-day that he would make his first experimental flight early next week.

If the weather permitted, Mr. Wellman said, the flight would probably be made Monday or Tuesday. The great bag is now filled with gas, and to-day mechanics began soldering the joints of the truss work which will connect the car with the bag. A new system of soldering, known as the Otorgen process, is being employed.

"It is the working out of these details which has delayed us beyond our expectations in getting ready to try the air," Wellman explained to-night. "We are getting along famously, however, and when we take the America out of the hangar next week for the first try out of the motive power, steering gear, and course finders, we expect everything to be in perfect trim."

Mr. Vaniman, engineer of the craft, will take the America out over the sea for ten or maybe twenty-five miles to see how the wind currents over water compare with the land breezes along this part of the Jersey coast. He expects to circle about over the city two or three times, take a run out over the Atlantic, and as a wind-up may go back over the State for twenty-five miles in the direction of Philadelphia, if the engines work smoothly.

AVIATORS LOST IN FOG.

Shriver and Seymour Narrowly Avoid an Accident at Mineola.

Special to The New York Times.

HEMPSTEAD, L. I., Sept. 13.—Tod Shriver and Joe Seymour narrowly escaped getting into collision to-day in their machines while flying in the heavy mist and fog. Seymour went up a distance of about fifty feet and made a circle of the field. Shriver held his machine at about the same altitude. They took different courses, but as Seymour was about to land Shriver loomed up in front of him, traveling at a fast gait. In order to avoid what appeared to be a certain collision, Seymour sent his machine on the up grade until it passed safely over Shriver's aeroplane.

Later in the day, when the fog lifted, Shriver engaged in duration practice. He made nine laps of the two-mile course at an average altitude of 200 feet.

TAFT ORDERS BIG LAND SALE.

1,500,000 Acres at Auction, 800,000 in Montana and 700,000 in Utah.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—What is declared to be the largest auction sale of lands ever ordered at one time will take place on the Crow (Mont.) and the Uintah (Utah) Indian Reservations on Oct. 15 and Nov. 1 next, respectively.

The land represents about 1,500,000 acres, mainly suitable for dry farming and grazing, the sale of which was ordered by the President and the Secretary of the Interior under directions from Congress.

The lands on the Crow Reservation, which amount to about 800,000 acres, will be sold at Billings, Mont., at not less than $2 per acre, one-fifth payable in cash, the remainder to be paid in four annual installments, without interest.

The Uintah lands, approximating 700,000 acres, will be sold at Provo, Utah, at not less than 50 cents an acre, entire payment to be made in cash.

PACKERS GIVE BONDS; MORE TO BE INDICTED

THREE FAIL TO ANSWER

Swift and Another in Europe and One Who Is Ill Get an Extension of Time.

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—Seven of the ten officers of Chicago meat-packing companies indicted for violation of the Sherman anti-trust law appeared in the Federal Court to-day and gave bond for their appearance for trial. Each furnished bonds for $30,000—$10,000 on each of the indictments found. The three who failed to furnish bail are Louis F. Swift, President of Swift & Co., who is in Europe; Thomas J. Connors, Superintendent of Armour & Co., now returning from Europe, and Francis A. Fowler, department manager of Swift & Co., who is ill.

Judge Landis at the morning session of court ordered warrants issued for the three, but after their attorneys explained the order was recalled. The packing company officers who appeared in court refused to discuss the indictments. All gave personal bonds, surety company bonds having been refused by Judge Landis a year ago.

The next step will be a motion by the Government attorneys that the packers enter a plea, but when this will be done has not yet been decided.

Two more packers are expected to be indicted for illegal monopoly, though it is intimated that this may not come until the three not yet under bond have appeared.

Nothing was said as to when the defendants should appear for trial, but Attorney Levy Mayer, for the packers, said no delay would be sought.

J. Ogden Armour, head of Armour & Co. and the heaviest holder of the stock of the National Packing Company, was the first to appear to give bail. With him was Arthur Meeker, superintendent of Armour & Co., and Attorney Alfred Urion, general counsel for Armour & Co., who recently was accused of destroying records.

Bonds for Armour and Meeker were furnished by George B. Robbins, President of the Armour Car Lines, and Robert Dunham, Assistant Treasurer of Armour & Co.

When Prosecutor Pierre P. Garven of Hudson County learned that a Federal Grand Jury in Chicago had indicted J. Ogden Armour, Louis F. Swift, Edward Morris, and Edward Tilden, the Beef Trust "Big Four," and others for being in a combination in restraint of trade he sent this telegram to William S. Kenyon, Assistant United States Attorney General, who has been in charge of the prosecution:

> Heartiest congratulation. Your work in the Beef Trust fight will not be forgotten by the people of this country.

Several months ago Prosecutor Garven investigated the operations of the Beef Trust in Hudson County and placed the matter before the Grand Jury, asking for the indictment not only of the corporations, but of twenty-one officers and Directors. This, it is said, was the first case where individuals were indicted.

Garven planned to bring the "beef barons" to a speedy trial, but Gov. Fort refused to sign requisition papers for the men, among whom were Armour, Swift, Morris, and Tilden. Attorney General Wickersham became interested, and when the case here fell through, sent for Garven, who turned over to him all the testimony taken at the Hudson County inquest. This was a part of the testimony placed before the Chicago Grand Jury.

Instead of having the prosecution conducted by the local District Attorney in the Windy City, Attorney General Wickersham placed the matter in charge of his assistant, Mr. Kenyon. He and Garven have had several conferences in the last two months.

CABIN PASSENGERS IN CUSTOMS NET

went to United States Commissioner Craig, who issued a warrant against her on a smuggling charge. Walter Chance, Special Agent of the Treasury Department, served the warrant, and to-morrow the mysterious woman will have a hearing.

Mrs. Moser told the police that she was German and a widow. She says that she has one son, a motor car agent in Chicago. For herself she claims no home, saying that she has traveled the globe and settled nowhere. Her linguistic powers extend from the provincial dialects of India to English.

On Aug. 5, according to the charge, Louisa Moser was helped down the gangplank of the American liner New York by the ship surgeon. The illness was not feigned. Two days before the steamer entered New York Bay Mrs. Moser collapsed on deck and the surgeon treated her for an attack of nerves, brought on, they say, by reports that never before was Collector Loeb's men so persistent in their efforts to locate smuggled goods.

According to her confession, she has been making a regular practice of smuggling jewels from abroad and selling them in Chicago, New York, Baltimore, and Newport. This was her first visit to this city.

She arrived here from Baltimore last Thursday and took apartments on Arch Street. While there she became acquainted with a young school teacher and tried to sell her a diamond ring. The teacher became suspicious and informed detectives. She admits, the police say, purchasing the jewels in Holland and smuggling them into this country after having them set in Paris.

WEIGHERS GOT EASY GRAFT.

James P. Hyland Says Underweighing Was the Rule in Customs Service.

How easily the Government had been swindled out of duties due it on Mediterranean imports reaching here was told yesterday to Judge Martin and a jury, in the United States Circuit Court, by Andrew J. Parker, at one time acting foreman of United States Weighers and by James P. Hyland, who was an assistant weigher from 1891 to 1909.

Parker's testimony implicated Charles D. W. Drew, an ex-weigher, and Hyland's ex-weigher Charles H. Wardell, who, with George E. Bedell, ex-chief clerk under Deputy Surveyor of the Port Vail, are on trial for underweighing imports of figs, macaroni, and other products of Mediterranean ports.

Parker told of ticketing cartons of figs at 100 pounds when they really weighed 140 pounds, and named among the importers who gave him money for so doing Gaetano Brothers, Calinopoulo, Econumo, the Italian-American Trading Company, A. Musica & Son, Cusimano, Dornado Brothers and Cologero. He got about half the duties that should have been paid to the Government and divided with Drew, he said.

Hyland astonished the court by his reply to Special Prosecutor Stimson's question, "Did you ever do any underweighing?"

"I underweighed the very first cargo I was assigned to weigh," he said.

Hyland worked at the Forty-second Street (Brooklyn) piers and said he went to Bedell and asked to be transferred, as there was no money there. Hyland said he promised to give Bedell $50 a ship for each one he covered, and presently he was transferred. Hyland said he always paid Bedell. He told how they had had to get rid of an old soldier who had a job as weigher because he was honest. He told of his promotion to have charge of the South Brooklyn district in 1905 and of the arrangement made then by which he was to pay Vail's clerk $100 a month.

In 1907, he said, there was a rearrangement between himself and Bedell, and he raised the payment to the clerk to $150 a month. Hyland brought Wardell into the case by testifying that Wardell had come to him in 1907 and told him that he wasn't making any money and thought he ought to have a chance at the profits. To appease him, Hyland said he let Wardell make collections in his own district in December, 1907, and that he gave him $400 of the $1,200 he collected.

Hyland declared that it never was necessary to ask for payment from the importers.

"I never approached an importer," said Hyland. "His wife, sister, brother, aunt, cousin or mother would come tagging around after me begging me to take their money. Why, some of them used to kick because I'd only underweighed a 150-pound importation by 50 pounds. They seemed to think that I could take off all the weight if I wanted to."

The trial will be resumed at 10 o'clock this morning.

ASSIGNS NO REASONS FOR RATE INCREASES

QUICK RETORTS TO LAWYERS

Counsel for Shippers Seek Specific Causes Underlying Proposed Advance —Cost of Operation Is Disputed.

The admission was obtained from Charles F. Daly, Vice President of the New York Central Railroad in charge of traffic, at the rate increase hearing before the Inter-State Commerce Commission yesterday, that, so far as his system was concerned, he could assign no reason for the increases in the rates on class traffic which have gone to make up the increases on all of the railroads east of the Mississippi, of which the shippers complain, except the judgment of the officials of the railroad. This was under cross-examination by Louis T. Brandeis, counsel for the New England shippers. The battle between Mr. Brandeis and the New York Central traffic expert proved the feature of the investigation as thus far conducted.

The cross-examination was undertaken on the basis of direct testimony by Mr. Daly, in which he justified the increased freight rates upon class traffic, and particularly the higher classes of freights, to the exclusion of commodity traffic, by the assertion that the class rates were too low in contrast with the commodity rates, and had remained largely unchanged during a period of years in which the commodity rates had been increased. The attorneys for the shippers have attacked this theory, on the basis that the modifications in classification whereby articles have been transferred to higher classes have had the effect of materially increasing the rates on class traffic.

Mr. Brandeis, however, in his engagement with Mr. Daly yesterday undertook to go beyond this and inquire what were the factors of increased expense incident to class traffic which justified the extra burden which the railroads seek to place upon it. In his direct testimony Mr. Daly had mentioned several, such as increased terminal costs peculiar to class traffic, decreased trainloads incident to faster express freight service, and improvements on the physical lines of the road to enable the faster service to be run.

The Rail and Water Rates.

Mr. Brandeis began by asking whether the witness knew why lake and rail rates on first-class goods had been increased 25 per cent., whereas all-rail rates had been increased only 20 per cent. under the proposed schedule. Mr. Daly said he was not aware that such was the case, as he had not figured it out, whereupon Mr. Brandeis mentioned an increase in the all-rail rate of from 75 to 90 cents, first class, between New York and Chicago, as contrasted with an increase in the lake and rail rate of from 62 to 77 cents. He wanted to know why the higher rate of increase was imposed upon the latter kind of traffic.

"Because," said Mr. Daly, "the relative conditions made it advisable. The lake and rail rate was so low that it justified the increase."

Q.—On what do you base your statement? A.—On the figures 62 as contrasted with 75 cents.

Q.—But the mere assertion does not carry conviction. What is the reason? A.—Because the lake and rail rate was so far below the all-rail rate.

Q.—Will you explain that beyond mere iteration? A.—I cannot say anything different except that it was our experience.

Q.—But I want to know the facts behind your experience. A.—It was the best of our judgment.

Q.—But there must be some facts aside from your innate intelligence, if you are to have a judgment on which this commission can be expected to rely. What was the basis of your judgment? A.—The basis of my judgment was the same as that of a man who plays a good game of golf. He knows how from his long experience.

Q.—But you only became Vice President in charge of traffic in 1908, so your immediate judgment only goes back to that year. A.—I beg pardon; I have been in the traffic department for twenty-five years, and have been familiar with these matters.

Q.—Now I want to know, can you give a single reason other than your arbitrary judgment for these rates of increase as between all-rail and lake and rail traffic? A.—None whatever, except that they were too low.

Q.—Is one reason for the difference between the percent. of increase in the all-rail and in the lake and rail rates that you added 15 cents arbitrarily in every case? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Then, why was the ocean and rail rate increased from 62 to 77 cents? A.—I could not say. I did not make it.

Q.—Then, so far as the rates you do make, all you know is your inner feeling that they were too low? A.—I know it just as you know the things which make you such a clever lawyer.

Increased Terminal Cost.

Mr. Brandeis asked the witness if he would repeat one or two of the factors which, in his direct testimony, he had said contributed to the increased cost of service in the class business. Mr. Daly mentioned the increase in terminal cost among others. Mr. Brandeis asked that he separate the total first class rate of 90 cents so as to indicate what proportion of this rate represented the total terminal cost. The witness, as an approximation only, said that he might assign 45 cents to represent this element. Then Mr. Brandeis asked him to separate the less than carload rates into the terminal charge and transportation charge by some fairly definite division.

"I shall have to say frankly that I do not know," replied Mr. Daly.

Q. But I ask you as one high in the counsels of the New York Central lines how the commission can pass upon your increase of rates if, as one of the elements in fixing the proposed rate to distant points, you are unable to make any figure to represent the cost of the terminal service? A. In my judgment the common sense of the commission will be all that is necessary to determine the great increases in cost of less than carload freight.

Q. But I assume that you have always had a difference between the rate on less than carload and carload freight to represent this increase. Now I want to know what the reasons are for placing an even higher expense upon the less than carload business? A. I may say, frankly, that I have never attempted to segregate those items of cost.

Q. Now you have spoken of increases in the cost of conducting your sixty-hour service between New York and Chicago. Are not these elements of increase entirely absent from the lake and rail service? A. Not entirely, for we have to bring that service to the lake ports by rail.

Q. But very largely? A. That is true, yes, Sir.

Mr. Brandeis next learned that whereas it has been the custom of the railroads to confer with the shippers in regard to modifications of commodity rates, such a practice had not been generally followed by the railroads in deciding on the present increase of the class rates. The witness said that it would have been impossible to consult with all the class rate shippers on account of their multiplicity. Mr. Brandeis retorted:

"If it is impossible to consider these various industries involved in these increases would it not have been more reasonable not to have placed a burden upon these industries in which the disturbance due to the change of conditions could not be estimated and to have taken the matter up with the shippers of commodities where the facts in each case could be considered?"

Burden of Proof on Railroads.

Mr. Daly replied that he did not think Mr. Brandeis's clients had proven, any more as to their sufferings under the new rates than the railroads had done with respect to their necessity for rate increases, if they had proven as much.

The examining lawyer replied that his clients were not obliged to do that as the law placed the burden upon the railroads.

Mr. Daly rejoined that the roads had nothing further to offer, whereat Mr. Brandeis closed his cross-examination.

As Mr. Brandeis sat down, Clyde Brown of counsel for the New York Central rose to remark that he thought the place for the attorneys for the shippers to argue their case was before the Commission and not while the evidence was being taken.

Mr. Brandeis delivered this final shot:

"I would have been pleased to comply with the suggestion of counsel if he had made it before I concluded my argument."

Vice President Daly had another session with Francis L. James, attorney for the shippers of the Middle West, in which he was called, under pressing cross examination, to defend his direct testimony. Mr. James took up, among other things, the statement of Mr. Daly that the increased rates imposed upon the upper classes of freight were collected to quite an extent from the luxuries of life, and asked:

"The luxuries had already been taken care of in the rate making, had they not through higher classifications?"

Mr. Daly replied that they had.

Lawyer James Takes His Turn.

"You don't want us to understand—" began Mr. James.

"I don't want you to understand anything but what I said. I'll not have you putting words into my mouth," interrupted Mr. Daly.

"You don't want us to understand that the higher class rates are confined to luxuries," persisted Mr. James.

There was no reply from the witness and Examiner Brown snapped out:

"The witness hasn't said so."

"You don't want to have us infer," continued Mr. James, "that there is not a large class of necessities affected by the higher class freights on which increases have been made."

"There are necessities among the higher priced articles which feel the increases," admitted Mr. Daly.

"And whoever buys such articles, for instance as shoes and gloves, will feel something of the increase?"

"Yes," said the witness, "but it will cost so little more as to be inappreciable."

"How about the retailer?" Mr. James demanded.

"He will pay a little more also," said Mr. Daly, "but so little that it will amount to nothing compared with the improvement of railroad conditions."

"How many years have you had a sixty-hour service between New York and Chicago?"

"We have been trying to maintain it for some fifteen years, but until recently with but indifferent results."

"Then the sixty-hour train is not a matter of yesterday or to-day?"

"No, it has been a gradual improvement, accomplished by large expenditures for extra tracks, larger cars, the elimination of curves, and the rearrangement of schedules of operation."

"The extra track, the elimination of curves, the larger cars, and the better operating schedules have, however, all resulted in more economical operations," Mr. James rejoined.

"They have to some extent," admitted the witness.

SILK WORTH $30,000 STOLEN.

Employe of Simon & Co. and Two Others Arraigned on Indictments.

Harold Harris and Nathan Spellman appeared before Judge Rosalsky in General Sessions yesterday and pleaded not guilty to an indictment charging them with grand larceny. They are charged with stealing silk to the value of $350 from the firm of J. R. Simon & Co., by whom Harris was employed. Isidor Miller, who has a store at Park Avenue and 103d Street, was also arraigned before the Judge on a charge of buying stolen goods from the two men. He has not pleaded yet. Harris and Spellman were held under $6,500 bail each.

The firm says that the loss will reach about $30,000, as a very large amount of the most valuable silk was stolen. They said that they first discovered the theft last month, when they received a large order. They opened the storeroom and found that many of the shelves had been cleared of their contents. They say that Harris broke down and confessed, saying that he took a roll whenever he got a chance and passed it Spellman, who in turn sold it to Miller at $3 a roll.

One of the witnesses, William Denfeld, testified before Magistrate O'Connor in the Harlem Court that he saw Miller give Spellman $30 in a saloon at 103d Street ,and heard them discussing the business.

DOG BITES 23 PERSONS.

A stray mother dog with her litter of pups roused the animal spirits of a group of small boys at the foot of Fifteenth Street, Bensonhurst, on Monday night, and they threw stones at her. Deserting her litter, the dog rushed at the group and all other persons she met between that point and Bath Beach, snapping right and left, and sending some twenty-three persons to near-by physicians and drug stores, as well as some to the Brooklyn Board of Health yesterday for Pasteur treatment.

Nine of the victims came to the office of Dr. Frank J. Duffy, 146 Bay Sixteenth Street, where their wounds were cauterized, and they were advised, by way of further precaution, to go to the Board of Health for Pasteur treatment. A dozen other victims had their wounds dressed in the drug store of A. J. Rabinovitz, 1,648 Bath Avenue, and two more came for treatment to Dr. I. R. Shapiro at Cropsy Avenue and Bay Twenty-fourth Street. None was badly hurt.

The dog escaped. The police do not believe it was mad, but only driven into a vicious mood by the stones cast at it and its pups. Later, they think, it returned and carried away its young.

REPUBLICANS REBUKE BALLINGER ACTION

Six of Committee Resolve That Democrats Condemned Themselves, Not the Secretary.

LAW AND JUSTICE DEFIED

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—Six Republican members of the Ballinger investigating committee met to-day and issued a statement condemning the action of the four Democratic members and the one Republican insurgent member who delivered a report at Minneapolis last Wednesday, demanding the retirement from office of Secretary Ballinger.

Those present to-day were Senators Nelson, Sutherland, and Root, and Congressmen McCall, Olmsted, and Denby. They declare the action of what they term the "minority" at Minneapolis to have been "according to the worst methods of ward politics." The evidence in the Ballinger case was discussed, but in the absence of a quorum, they state, no action on the case itself was possible. It was reported that Senator Nelson had authority to act for Senator Flint, a member of the committee, who is in Europe. This could not be confirmed, but in any event no attempt was made to use the alleged proxy. Adjournment was taken subject to call of the Chairman, Senator Nelson.

As the "minority" declined to attend to-day's conference, and took their adjournment at Minneapolis until the next meeting of Congress, it is probable that Senator Nelson will not call another meeting until the return of Senator Flint, who, as the seventh member, would make a quorum.

The statement issued to-day declares as a preliminary that "the committee is the creature of a special act of Congress which fixed the number of its members at twelve, six Senators appointed by the Vice President, and six representatives elected by the House. The act carefully defined the powers and jurisdiction of the committee and contained a mandate that it should report its findings and conclusions to this Congress." It goes on to say that a great mass of testimony has been taken, "making a direct and collateral record of about seven thousand closely written pages," and that the committee "determined to devote some of the time during the recess of Congress" to deliberation on this evidence and decided to meet in Minneapolis on Sept. 5 for this purpose.

The report proceeds:

"The day of the meeting found the membership widely scattered and only seven of the twelve members present. Three other members were detained by brief but peremptory engagements. Senator Flint was in Europe and Senator Root on the sea returning from arguing a case for the Government before The Hague Tribunal. Upon reassembling, two days later, eight gentlemen were present and two more were reported on the way.

"The eighth member to appear happended to be a Democrat, and the members of that party found themselves in temporary control, and promptly proceeded to turn the circumstance to what seemed to them a party advantage. In advance of any consultation whatever upon the evidence, which never had been weighed and discussed in committee, then demanded the passage of resolutions of the most sweeping character, formally finding Secretary Ballinger guilty, not merely of charges that had been made but of charges that had only been implied, and of things which never have been charged, but which persons appearing at the hearing had alleged against him.

"Other members of the committee present protested against such proceedings, which would dispose of the case in the absence of four of the twelve members, making it possible for a minority of the committee to find the committee verdict, and this, too, without any consultation or discussion.

"But the partisan political end to be gained by the Democratic minority became all the more urgent in proportion as the railway trains bearing other members of the committee were approaching Minneapolis. The minority refused even to take a recess, and the other members, protesting against the evident determination to take a snap judgment by a minority in the absence of a third of the whole tribunal and declining to bear any responsibility for thus converting the investigation into a travesty anad for a violation of the fundamental principle which should govern the proceedings, withdrew from the meeting, and thus deprived the Democrats of their temporary control of the committee.

"The meeting being left without a quorum, any attempted decision of the case would have no more validity than would like action of a similar number of men collected at random in the streets, but the spectacle was presented of five gentlemen out of a tribunal of twelve, created by the Congress of the United States, assuming to act as the tribunal itself. These five gentlemen continued their proceedings to the end, according to the worst methods of ward politics; and, after pretending to adopt a report of eighty-nine pages which they brought to the meeting already prepared, and which was never the subject of consideration or discussion, or even read in committee, they gave it to the newspapers, although the law required it to be rendered to Congress; and they completed their perversion of the purpose of the meeting by adjourning to Dec. 3, so as to foreclose, if possible, any action or consideration or discussion of evidence by the committee in the meantime, and by solemn vote they graciously extended to the majority the leave to file a minority report.

"It does not need to be said that such action in both form and substance is wholly lawless, and it leaves it entirely unnecessary to ask what sort of justice any public servant could look for whose character was on trial in such a proceeding in the excitement of a political campaign. If there is any relation between lawless methods and the character of the results which they accomplish, this so-called verdict condemns its authors rather than the official under investigation.

"This action of the minority in no way relieves us from our responsibility under the law. We conceive that we are still bound to follow an orderly procedure and, indeed, the only procedure that is open under the law. It is incumbent on us to sift the great mass of evidence and to attempt to reach and render a just verdict.

"Every effort was made to induce the minority members to agree to a meeting on some early day at Minneapolis, or Chicago, as might suit their convenience, but without avail. The Chairman called the present meeting. The members whose names are herto affixed have spent the day reviewing the case, but, being without a quorum, are powerless to act, and have adjourned subject to the call of the Chairman.

"The report of the committee cannot be made until Dec. 5, when Congress meets, and the meeting called for Sept. 5 was for the purpose of considering and discussing what the report, to be made three months thereafter, should be. There was, therefore, no haste or pressure for time. The pretended adoption of a report by a political minority and its publication, as if it were the report of a committee, exhibited a willingness to sacrifice the rights and injure the reputation of the officers investigated in order to obtain a supposed party advantage in the pending political campaign. We cannot reconcile such a course with our sense of justice and of our duty."

GETS BROKERS' BOOKS.

J. S. Bache & Co. Permit Inspection of Their Accounts Under Compulsion.

When the legislative graft investigation committee resumes its public hearings today it will be with the way cleared for an examination of the books of the brokerage firm of J. S. Bache & Co. M. Linn Bruce, chief counsel for the committee, in the expectation that he would find among the accounts of the firm some that would come within the scope of the committee's work, subpoenaed the books last week.

Leopold S. Bache, a member of the firm, at the time refused to produce them, and it was not until after the aid of District Attorney Whitman had been obtained that the firm yielded.

The surrender occurred yesterday after a conference of District Attorney Whitman, M. Linn Bruce, and Isidore Kresel of counsel for the committee and W. J. Wollman, counsel for J. S. Bache & Co. Mr. Whitman at the close of the conference made this statement:

> Mr. Bruce and Mr. Kresel demanded the right on behalf of the committee to examine the list of the firm's customers, which was refused. J. S. Bache & Co. have agreed to let Mr. Kresel examine the list of their customers, he agreeing to keep strictly confidential any names except those for whom the committee issues subpoenas as hereinafter set forth.
>
> If in the list Mr. Kressel finds the names of persons who are in any way connected with the investigation, the committee will then issue a subpoena to Bache & Co. to produce before the committee the specific account of such person, and upon such subpoena being served upon Bache & Co. they will simply comply.
>
> Bache & Co. have maintained that they had no right to produce the account of any of their customers unless a subpoena was issued for that specific account.

Jules S. Bache, head of the firm, who returned from Europe yesterday, supplemented what the District Attorney had said by this statement with reference to the effort of the committee to examine its books:

> I found upon returning here a tempest in a teapot. We have agreed to give the committee what we would have given them from the start, and what we have constantly offered them if sought in the manner provided by law. We have submitted to them a list of some 25,000 names now on our books or at some time during the period in question, and when they have selected from these names the accounts which they desire to investigate, these accounts will be submitted to them, unless the owners of such accounts shall file proper objections.
> I desire this opportunity of assuring them that the books of J. S. Bache & Co. are not and never have been a political clearing house, and that they are quite safe in examining them, as they will find out nothing detrimental to their friends.

BOY HYPNOTIST ARRESTED.

Tried to Cure a Medical Society Agent of Nervousness.

A newspaper advertisement having made it known that "Prof. Hillman, hypnotist, 468 East 139th Street, removed nervousness," Mrs. Frances Benzecry, an agent of the County Medical Society, visited him and told him that she was nervous, could not sleep, and had lost her appetite. He told her, she alleges, that he could cure her in six treatments, for which she was to pay $10. She paid $2 down and took a receipt.

She had the young man in the Morrisania Court yesterday on the charge of practicing medicine without a license. The prisoner, who is only 20 years old, said he was Paul J. Heine, and that he had been a hynotist with curative powers since he was a mere boy. He was held in $500 bail.

Mrs. Benzecry told Magistrate House that she had taken with her to see the hypnotist James Vincent, another agent of the society. She said the first treatment consisted in the regulation motions that go with stage hypnotism, except that she was not hypnotised.

Stole Doctor's Auto While He Dined.

Dr. Charles Meisley of Manhasset, L. I., went into a restaurant at Broadway and Thirtieth Street yesterday morning at 2 o'clock, for supper, leaving his automobile standing unguarded in front of the place. When he came out it was gone. He reported the loss to the Tenderloin Station, from which he was notified later in the day that the machine had been found in Twenty-fourth Street, near Ninth Avenue. It had been stripped of its lamps, tires, robes, tools, and the doctor's two surgical cases.

MERRYMAKERS FIND SUICIDE.

Stumble Over a Dying Man in Jersey City Summer House.

A party of young merrymakers ran into the Summer House of the West Side Park, in Jersey City, yesterday morning, and stumbled over the body of a dying man. Apparently he had shot himself a few minutes before, through the right temple, with a pistol that was lying near by. He was taken to the City Hospital, where it was said that he could not live.

He wore a cheap, black, threadbare suit, and weighed 180 pounds. He had a card in his pocket on which was printed, "B. J. Starr, Insurance, 141 Broadway, New York." Mr. Starr is an agent of the United States Casualty Company. He sent an assistant to look at the wounded man, but said he could not recognize him from the description brought back.

SENDS T. C. DAWSON TO HELP NICARAGUA

State Department Appoints New Minister to Panama as a Special Commissioner.

MARSH TO LEAVE ISTHMUS

Due to Interview in Which He Spoke of Annexation—Cromwell Involved in Election?

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—There were important developments to-day in connection with the relations between this Government and Central America, both Panama and Nicaragua being affected.

The most important incident is the announcement of the appointment of Thomas C. Dawson, the new Minister to Panama, as a Special Commissioner to assist in the reorganization of Nicaraguan affairs.

At the same time Francis Marsh, Chargé d'Affaires at Panama, has been recalled on account of the published interview in which he was quoted as threatening the annexation of the country to which he is accredited. That interview, on instructions from the State Department, Mr. Marsh at once repudiated, but while his friends assert that he was innocently duped by Señor Arosemena, a prominent candidate for the Vice Presidency of Panama, it is felt that his usefulness in his present post is ended. In announcing his recall the State Department gives no reason, but adds that he will be attached to the Department at Washington for the present.

Minister Dawson will sail from New York for Panama to-morrow, but he will stop only a few days at his new post. He will proceed to Managua, and will probably remain there until after the Nicaraguan elections have established a constitutional Government, which will immediately be recognized by the United States. In his absence the legation at Panama will be in charge of Charles Campbell, Jr., of Missouri, who has been transferred to that post from his present assignment as Third Secretary of the Embassy at Tokio.

By the time Mr. Dawson reaches Panama the elections for Vice President will have been decided. The prompt recall of Mr. Marsh is interpreted to mean that the United States is anxious to remove the impression that it has dictated the election of a special candidate. Mr. Marsh was quoted as saying that unless Panama showed proper gratitude to the United States by acting according to this country's wishes she must expect drastic action—either annexation or the establishment of a protectorate.

It is said that the announcement from Beverly that the President was determined not to interfere in the Panama election has already reacted heavily against Lewis, the naturalized American, on whose behalf Mr. Marsh, William Nelson Cromwell, and other Americans were said to be using the weight of the name of this Government. However that may be, Mr. Marsh's recall is expected to reassure the Panama voters.

Between now and the election of a new Government in Nicaragua there will be much for Mr. Dawson to do. He will have powers to arrange for the settlement of American claims, including indemnity for the execution of Cannon and Groce by order of ex-President Zelaya.

It is hinted here to-day that part of the reparation to be demanded from the new Nicaraguan Government may be the extradition of Zelaya from his present asylum in Belgium and his punishment by Nicaraguan law. It is doubted, however, whether in spite of the civil and criminal offenses of Zelaya, Belgium would consent to give him up in response to a demand from Nicaragua. His most obvious offenses, it is pointed out, were of a political character, and extradition would simply mean his surrender to personal or political foes, who are only awaiting an opportunity to treat him with the utmost severity. Once in the hands of his enemies Zelaya could, it is said, expect no penalty less than death.

Mr. Dawson also will have to deal with the refunding of the Nicaraguan debt, the scaling down of padded claims against the little republic, and probably—though this is not admitted—he will give advice to Gen. Estrada and his supporters as to the new laws that must be framed in order to give greater personal guarantees to the citizens of the republic as well as to foreign settlers.

While Mr. Dawson will go as a "diplomatic Commissioner" to Nicaragua, his mission is practically a recognition of the de facto Estrada Government. At the same time Nicaragua will be represented here by Señor Arellano, who will soon be recognized as Minister. Already officials of the State Department have entertained and accepted entertainmen from he Estrada representative, and it is simply a formality to wait for the election in Nicaragua.

KAISER'S GIFT TO MEXICO.

Statue of Humboldt Unveiled in Grounds of National Library.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 13.—This was "German Day" in connection with the Mexican centenary celebration. The chief event was the unveiling of a statue of Von Humboldt, the scientist and traveler, who more than one hundred years ago made a journey of research through Mexico. The statue is the gift to the republic of Emperor William and the formal presentation was made by Carl Bünz, the German Minister to Mexico. The speech of acceptance was delivered by President Diaz.

The work of the sculptor has been placed in the grounds in front of the National Library, in the auditorium of which building the exercises incident to the presentation were held. The hall was filled with Government officials, diplomats, cadets, marines from the German schoolship Freya, and German military officers.

Afterward the German representatives gave a luncheon to the Presidential party at the German Casino.

In the evening there was a performance of "Lohengrin" under the auspices of the German colony in honor of the representatives of this and other Governments.

All the German business places here were closed throughout the day.

AMERICAN COUPLE ARRESTED

Caught in Russia—Charged with $50,000 Swindle in Berlin.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 13.—On the request of the Berlin police an American citizen named Margolin and a woman companion were arrested here to-day.

SEARCHING KIEFF FOR JEWS.

Police Capture Many Who Had Escaped Expulsion by Hiding.

KIEFF, Sept. 13.—The round-up of Jews listed for expulsion continues, and from Sept. 9 to Sept. 12 fifty were hustled out of the city, thirty-two others were notified to depart within a given period, and nine departed voluntarily. In the same time forty-eight Jews were expelled from the suburbs of Solomenka and Demieffka.

The authorities are now giving their attention to those who have thus far escaped expulsion by hiding. On Saturday night the police made an excursion into the suspected quarters of the city and captured twenty-eight Jews. A similar battue last night resulted in the apprehension of forty-six persons, mostly youths, who had concealed themselves.

The duplicate of Robert Fulton's original Clermont which was used in last year's Hudson-Fulton Celebration has been turned over to the Hudson River Day Line for safe keeping. It will be tied up at Debrosses Street. It may be inspected there for a small fee. In the Summer it may be run between New York and Poughkeepsie.

GERMAN STEEL TRUST BUSY.

Report for Last Month Shows Considerable Increase in Business.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 13.—The report for last month of the German steel trust shows, in striking contrast to the recent report of its American rival, a substantial increase in business both over the preceding month and over the same month in 1909.

In August, 1910, 446,589 tons of raw steel were sold, against 393,799 tons in July, and against 419,016 tons in August, 1909.

There was a particularly heavy increase in the sales of railway materials in August, the total being somewhat larger than in the previous record month, March, 1910.

REFUSE TO ADMIT OUR MEAT.

Yet German Officials Say They Recognize Gravity of Situation.

BERLIN, Sept. 13.—The agitation against the restrictions placed upon the importation of foreign meats is increasing.

To-day Baron Schorlemer, Prussian Minister of Agriculture, received a deputation from the National Butchers' Association, which presented a memorial on the subject.

Baron Schorlemer said he recognized the seriousness of the situation throughout the country, but intimated that the veterinary limitations placed upon the importation of foreign live stock could not be qualified, as such a course would fail to bring the relief desired.

STUTTGART, Sept. 13.—Herr Dolbrück, Minister of the Interior, in addressing a public meeting at Würtemberg to-day, referred to the proposal to admit American frozen meat into this country.

He said there were important sanitary objections to the project, which, moreover, would retard the increase of the German live stock supply. The development of the domestic output would, he said, be the safest and best method of alleviating the present situation, as it would be followed by a gradual reduction in the price of meat.

$689,000 TO CORNELL.

Goldwin Smith Wills This Sum Unconditionally Out of $832,859 Estate.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept., 13.—Cornell University receives $689,000 unconditionally by the will of the late Prof. Goldwin Smith, probated here to-day, in which the value of the estate is indicated as $832,859.

"I do this," the will says in reference to the Cornell bequest, "to show my affection for the University at the foundation of which I had the honor of taking part; to pay respect to the memory of Ezra Cornell, and to show my attachment as an Englishman to the union of two branches of our race on this continent with each other and with their common mother."

Relatives and old servants received $60,550 and Toronto University Prof. Smith's library valued at $9,300. Pictures and statuary, valued at $5,000 go to the Art Museum of Toronto. The will confirms the will of Mrs. Goldwin Smith, bequeathing his home, the Grange, to the city of Toronto.

The succession duties to the Ontario Government amount to $83,285.

Papal Envoy at Rites Over Mother Bourgeois Before Canonization.

MONTREAL, Sept. 13.—The next Eucharistic Congress to be held on this continent will take place at New Orleans, probably in 1914. This was the statement made by Cardinal Gibbons just before his departure for Baltimore to-day. Next year's Congress and those of the two succeeding years will be in Europe.

Cardinal Vannutelli presided this morning at the disinterment of the body of Mother Marguerite Bourgeois, founder of the Order of the Congregation of Notre Dame, who will be canonized to-morrow. The remains were identified by the Cardinal, who subsequently placed his seal upon the casket. Ceremonies, held in the Seminary Chapel of Notre Dame de la Pitie, were preceded by a solemn procession about the chapel yard, in which the coffin was borne, accompanied by the Cardinal, Archbishop Bruchesi, and 200 Bishops and priests.

REVISED BIBLE IN CHINESE.

New Testament Completed and Work on the Old Testament Begun.

PEKING, Aug. 17.—The final revised edition of the New Testament, together with the first completed book of the Old Testament, the Psalms of David, is now issuing from the press in Chinese, and stacks of the volumes are being shipped to the remotest parts of China.

The special committee of translators are now gathered together at Che-Foo at their annual conference on the work, which, they hope, will be to China what the authorized version of the Gospel is to the English-speaking world.

The project was inaugurated in 1890 at a conference of all the missionary bodies at work in China, and is being done at the expense of the Bible societies of the world. Several books are added each year, and it is estimated that the whole volume will be complete about the year 1915.

PLASTER CASTS NOT JUNK.

50 in Pension Office, Thought Valueless, Represent Indians and Notable Whites

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—More than fifty plaster casts, mostly heads of American Indians, which have reposed in the cornices of the Pension Office hall will become the property of the Bureau of Ethnology. Interior Department officials recently ordered a complete renovation of the building, and had expected to dispose of these casts as junk until manuscripts found under a bust of Sir Walter Scott gave identity to the faces.

The manuscripts describe the life masks as those of Indian prisoners in custody at Fort Marion, near St. Augustine, Fla., and of Indian children at the Hampton (Va.) Indian School. Several white faces are represented in the collection, including Gen. Meigs, architect of the Pension Building; Sir Walter Scott, Alexander Hamilton, and John Slidell, once United States Senator from Louisiana.

The Bureau of Ethnology will place the busts on exhibition.

FIGHT BREAD-WEIGHT LAWS.

Master Bakers Will Ask Supreme Court to Rule on Them.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 13.—The National Association of Master Bakers in convention here has completed plans for testing the constitutionality of a new law in Illinois regulating the weight of loaves of bread. The Executive Committee reported that all bread-weight laws would be contested to the Supreme Court.

The bakers held such laws to be an injustice, and an attorney has been retained who will argue the question before the Supreme Court in a few months.

Rain Ruins Crops in Sweden.

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 13.—Destructive rains have caused heavy losses in the southern Province of Scandia, the most fertile in Sweden. Much grain has been ruined and the sugar beet crop has suffered severely.

MRS. JULIA CHANLER MAY TAKE A HAND

HARD TASK FOR THE DIVA

Robert Chanler's Property Tied Up in Such a Way That it Appears Impossible for Her to Get at It.

Following the admission by Oreste Cavalieri, brother of Mme. Lina Cavalieri, the opera singer, that Robert Winthrop Chanler had settled upon the singer previous to his marriage to her at least a part of his fortune, counsel for Mrs. Julia Chamberlain Chanler, the first wife, announced yesterday that he was ready to take legal action to protect his client's interests. When the divorce between Chanler and his first wife was granted by the French courts, Mrs. Chanler received an allowance of $20,000 a year, but no provision was made for her two children, Julia, aged 12, and Dorothy, aged 7. The children are now in Paris with their mother. A private agreement regarding the children, it is said, was made by Mr. Chanler and his first wife.

Mrs. Julia Chanler's lawyer is Frederic H. Watriss of the firm of Alexander, Watriss & Polk of 32 Nassau Street. Mr. Watriss's connection with the Cavalieri affairs began two days ago, when he received a cable message from Mrs. Julia Chanler retaining him to look after her interests, and to see that her right to the alimony granted to her was not jeopardized by the agreement Mr. Chanler made subsequently with Mme. Cavalieri.

"Does Mrs. Julia Chanler contemplate taking court action to upset the pre-nuptial agreement between Chanler and Mme. Cavalieri?" Mr. Watriss was asked.

"I am not prepared to say at present," replied the lawyer, "whether or not it will be necessary for my client to start any action in court."

While Mr. Watriss would not discuss the situation further, a friend of Mrs. Julia Chanler went more into details regarding the information that has been obtained in reference to what Mr. Chanler intends to do in the immediate future. It was hinted that Mr. Chanler intends to keep out of the limelight for the time being in the hope that other interests will step in and break his ante-nuptial agreement. No direct information from either Mr. Chanler, his relatives, friends, or lawyers was forthcoming yesterday. Mr. Chanler remained in retirement and made no effort to contradict the innumerable stories regarding the terms of his now famous settlement upon Mme. Cavalieri.

According to Mrs. Julia Chanler's friend, a copy of the ante-nuptial statement drawn in Paris has been served upon the Union Trust Company, which is the trustee for the Delano estate. From that and the Chanler estate, it was said, Robert W. Chanler derives the greater part of his income, estimated at $40,000 annually. Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler and Winthrop Chanler, brothers of Robert W. Chanler, are the trustees for the Chanler estate. The incomes from the properties held by these two trust bodies are collected by authorized agents, and the amounts are paid to Robert W. Chanler and the other beneficiaries. At a recent meeting of the trustees, it was stated, it was agreed that whatever money was due to Robert should be turned over to him, as formerly, so that if Mme. Chanler-Cavalieri should complain that she was not getting all that was due to her she would have to look to her husband personally and not the trustees.

According to Mrs. Julia Chanler's friend, it is probable that the terms of the Chanler-Cavalieri pre-nuptial agreement will not in any way affect Mrs. Julia Chanler's allowance, but much will depend upon whether or not Mme. Cavalieri succeeds in establishing the right to have her money paid out of the Chanler estate first. If she fails to establish such a right, then, it is pointed out, it is a question if Chanler's income would be sufficient to provide for the amounts covered by the two agreements.

If Mrs. Julia Chanler's attorneys decide to take legal action to protect her interests, the procedure, according to custom, will be about as follows, according to a lawyer: A claim by the creditors is reduced to a judgment and then a lien is made on the other person's real estate. After that an action can be started to set aside the pre-nuptial agreement on the ground that it is a conveyance in fraud of creditors.

According to one of Mr. Chanler's friends, he owns, besides his share in the Chanler and Delano estates, more than 800 acres in Dutchess County, as well as a piece of ground in this city known as the Cosine Farm. This is in the neighborhood of Fifty-fifth Street and Tenth Avenue. Both the Astor and the Delano properties, it was said yesterday, were placed by Mr. Chanler's father in a trust, which holds the property for management, investment, and reinvestment. The proceeds are divided equally between Robert Chanler, his brothers, and his sister. None of them is at liberty to terminate the trust or to draw out his share of the funds, or even to assign his own income. The real property law prevents the assignment of Robert's share of rent and profits from real property, while the personal property law applies in the same way to the income from personal property. Thus, in order to get anything from the Chanler estate, under the pre-nuptial agreement Mme. Cavalieri will have to prove that the income from the trust is in excess of the needs of the beneficiary.

Mr. Chanler's attorneys characterized yesterday as ridiculous a report that the Chanler family had decided to "buy off" Mme. Cavalieri to save their name from being taken into court. He insisted that there is no disagreement between Mr. Chanler and his bride, and that both will soon be together in this country. It was also denied that Mr. Chanler is in ill-health. The lawyer refused to state, however, where the ex-Sheriff is staying at present.

OPPOSES FREAK SIGNS.

Business House Using Them Indorses Movement to Protect Times Square.

The suggestion by Arnold W. Brunner, Vice President of the Municipal Art Commission, for the organization of a Times Square association for the protection of Times Square from freak electric signs and architectural monstrosities, seems to have met with widespread approval. This willingness to co-operate extends to advertisers by electric signs themselves, who wish the best results, as will be shown by this letter from Williams & Humbert, United States agents for the Perrier table water:

To the Editor of The New York Times:

We have read with considerable interest the article in regard to electric signs in your issue of Saturday, Sept. 10, together with your editorial on the subject.

In many ways this is in accord with ideas which we have had for some time past. Being users of large electric signs facing on Times Square, and having a new one in prospect at this time, it is a subject which is of considerable interest to us at the present moment. Therefore, as an electric sign advertiser we welcome your suggestion, and are pleased to place ourselves on record as willing to co-operate with such a Times Square Association as you suggest.

We believe such an association does not exist at the present moment, but should you care to be instrumental in forming one composed of such men as Mr. Arnold W. Brunner and others who you might suggest, we will be very glad to submit our designs to them.

We are endeavoring in the sign now in prospect to combine advertising value with a pleasing appearance and a feature of distinct educational value.

We would appreciate having your views on the subject as soon as possible, as we have contracted for our space beginning Oct. 1, and we must have plenty of time to carry out the mechanical features of the design which is selected.

New York, Sept. 12, 1910.

Other similar proposals have been reported, and apparently only a leader is needed for the perfection of such an organization.

AGAINST ROBERT W. GOELET.

Decision Orders Him to Pay $79,378 to Builders of His Garage.

Referee Jerome S. Hess, who was appointed by the Supreme Court to decide a suit brought against Robert W. Goelet by the General Supply and Construction Company, submitted his report yesterday. Referee Hess decided that Mr. Goelet should pay the company $79,378.

The company took a contract to construct for Mr. Goelet a garage at Broadway and Sixty-fourth Street by July, 1907. The company obtained extensions of time, and in March, 1908, Mr. Goelet evicted them and finished the garage himself. The company presented a bill for the work done to that date, which Mr. Goelet refused to pay.

The company then began suit for breach of contract, and the case was referred to Mr. Hess. He found that Rudolph Miller, now Superintendent of Buildings and then supervising architect on the steel work construction, held up the plans four months longer than was necessary, and that the delay was no fault of the construction company. His report was filed yesterday with the County Clerk.

FOR NEW SHORT-WEIGHT LAW

Reichmann Would Make Possession of Short-Weight Articles an Offense.

ALBANY, Sept. 13.—As a result of his crusade against false weights and measures, Supt. Reichmann of the State Department of Weights and Measures favors making a misdemeanor of the possession, for purposes of sale, of any articles found to be under weight. He proposes to call a conference of persons interested with a view of discussing the question.

"The majority of the bushel baskets used," said Mr. Reichmann to-day, "hold one-eighth of a bushel less than the represented capacity. At present the department is required to prove criminal intent on the part of the person selling the short-weight package before a conviction can be obtained."

PRICES HIGH ABROAD, TOO

R. M. Haan, proprietor of the Hotel St. Regis, returned yesterday in the Kronprinzessin Cecilie after a three months' visit in Europe. He said he found prices over there at the hotels and restaurants about the same as in New York. In Austria and Hungary, he said, the reins and the price of food had gone up 200 per cent. higher than they were twenty years ago, when he lived in Eudapest.

The hotels in Paris and Berlin, and many other European cities and resorts, he said, depend entirely on American patronage, and they all did a remarkable business this Summer.

Prof. Peck May Amend His Answer.

Prof Harry Thurston Peck of Columbia University, whom Esther Quinn of Boston is suing for $50,000 damages for breach of promise, got leave yesterday from Justice Bijur in the Supreme Court to amend his answer to the Quinn woman's complaint. He will be allowed to plead the woman's alleged unchastity before and after the alleged offer of marriage in mitigation of damages, but not as a complete defense, as he attempted. He is not allowed to urge this as a complete defense, because he failed to allege that it was unknown to him at the time of the alleged offer of marriage.

Night Sessions at City College.

The City College will open next Monday the second year of its evening sessions, begun in 1909. The courses are free, and the prerequisite for admission is a high School education or its equivalent, the only limit being an enrollment of 300 students. All the courses of freshman year will be offered, and some advanced courses for students prepared for them. Applicants for admission are asked to assemble in Main Building, Convent Avenue and 140th Street, at 8 P. M. next Monday. Those who would take the City College entrance examinations are asked to assemble at the same place and hour the following evening.

The Giants and the Pirates were a leg-weary lot when the sun dropped back of Washington Heights last evening. The double-header was the biggest run-getting carnival of the season and thirty scores were hung up during the long matinee. Each team gave and took a jolly trimming. The Pittsburgs took to violence first and pummeled the peerless Matty until he gave way to Dickson, the collegian. A Mardi Gras of base hits followed and the Pirates won the clash 11 to 1. The second game was a runaway romp for Giants. The score of 15 to 3 was due to the wildest waving of bats that has taken place in the shadow of Coogan's Cliff since the last time Rube Marquard blew up.

You don't often see two major league clubs in such a fine old slugging exhibit of back-lots baseball. It was slug, slug, slug all the time and if Governor Gillett of California had seen it he would have probably labeled it brutal. Hits from sassy bunts to three-baggers and home runs splashed in all corners of the lot. If you took your two peeks off the diamond for a minute, you'd then look up and see two or three new runners on the bases. The trails from sack to sack were ploughed up like a cabbage patch from the incessant digging of the players' spikes. The ball spent much of its time in the air. And there were errors, too, huge juicy ones, and several of them. It was the kind of baseball the Never-slips of Murray Hill and the Eat-'em-ups of Avenue A, revel in on any Sunday afternoon.

The visit of the herd from Murkytown revived interest in the doings at the Polo Grounds. There must have been more than 12,000 spectators yipping and yodeling as Dame Fortune scowled on the Pirates and grinned at the Giants.

There was a new face on the Giant team in the first game. Gowdy from Texas, disported at first base. His big league bow was attended with a débutante's nervousness. He had a tendency to avoid slapping the ball, and at times threw it to places a ladder wouldn't reach. Larry Doyle kindly saved the New Yorks from a whitewashing in the sixth inning when he lifted the ball into the right-field boxes, and smiled his way around for a homer.

Babe Adams pitched better than Matty. A single by Adams in the third, followed by Gowdy's wild throw and Leach's double, gave the Pirates Run No. 1. Byrne's two-bagger, Leach's single, a sacrifice, and a sacrifice fly gave two more in the fifth. Smart batting off Mathewson's fade-aways drove in a couple more runs in the eighth, and in the ninth Mr. Dickson went to the mound.

The ninth was a nightmare. Adams and Byrne singled. Gowdy held Leach's grounder instead of relaying it to first, Adams got home on Wagner's sacrifice fly. No one covered first when Miller hit on the ground. Hyatt walked, forcing in Byrne. Wilson lined to Snodgrass, and the ball went through the darkest centre field. Wilson went all the way around clearing the bases ahead of him. Six runs were culled in that shower.

Wiltse pitched for New York in the second game, and he had the Pirates baffled, except in the ninth, when they got a pass, a double, triple, and single, and three runs. By that time New York was so far ahead that it didn't matter. Murray sauntered, and Bridwell singled in the second, went along on a sacrifice, and both scored when Wagner mussed Wiltse's grounder.

A screeching triple and a wild heave by Wagner allowed Devlin to make the circuit in the fourth. The fifth saw the finish of Leifield. New York peppered out a meteoric shower of seven safe hits, which, with some wobbly fielding, gave the Giants seven runs in one cluster. Leever, the veteran, who succeeded Leifield, couldn't stop the Giants, and they got two more in the sixth and three in the seventh. It was so easy.

Just before the second game started somebody sent Fred Clarke a big bunch of fragrant roses. Details attending the gift are not given. The assortment of vegetable beauty was a "jinks," anyway. Next time all bouquets for Fred will be received at the inn, where he hangs his hat for the night.

McMillan Helps Beat Old Teammates.

At Washington Park, Brooklyn, yesterday, McMillan's triple, following a base on balls, coupled with Rowan's single, gave Cincinnati a [illegible] over Brooklyn in the opening game of the series. Brooklyn had many chances to score, but could not bat Rowan opportunely. Score:

Wyatt Lee Holds Orioles Safe.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 13.—The Indians made the Baltimoreans look like a lot of back-lotters this afternoon. Wyatt Lee kept up his record of being the Birds' chief hoodoo. He simply toyed with the locals. Heine Heitmuller was the only Oriole that was able to solve the southpaw's curves. He drove in both of the Baltimore runs with a two-bagger and a three-base hit. Adkins was hit hard from the start. He was relieved by Maroney in the sixth inning, and the Newarks' run-getting stopped, as the side-wheeler only allowed two hits the remainder of the game. Score:

Grays Pull Skeeters Down.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 13.—In marked contrast to yesterday's performance, Providence played excellent ball to-day, taking the game from Jersey City 4 to 2. Sline twirled for the Grays and in the first inning the Skeeters landed on him hard, scoring two runs. After the first inning, however, he had the game well in hand. Providence knocked Manser out of the box in the first inning, scoring three runs. Sitton was substituted, and he pitched good ball. The score:

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 13.—The Yankees climbed back to second place by defeating the Red Sox here to-day, 7 to 5. The New York team is now tied with Boston for the position of runner-up to the Athletics in the American League pennant race.

It was the Red Sox's last home game, the first of the major league clubs to wind up the season's performances on its native heath. The remaining twenty-one games will be played away from home. Both teams did plenty of hitting, but the Yankees bunched their bangs and coupled them with the Red Sox mistakes. Each team used three pitchers, Hunt, Wood and Cicotte trying hard to hold the Yanks in check, while Warhop, Hughes and Ford worked for New York.

Boston was the first to make an impression. Hopper got in the way of one of Warhop's curves and he went around to third base on Speaker's single. Stahl lifted a high fly to left field which Daniels muffed. Hooper scored and Speaker went to second base. Lewis singled to left field scoring Speaker. New York reached Hunt in the third inning. Warhop singled to left field, and Daniels beat out a bunt. Hunt made a wild throw to first base, and the runners advanced a base each. Warhop scored on Wolter's sacrifice fly and Chase's single sent Daniels home. Chase stole second base and went to third on Madden's wild throw. Knight's long sacrifice fly scored Chase.

Each team added one run in the fourth inning. Sweeney was safe on Wagner's low throw to first base. Warhop walked. Daniels doubled, scoring Sweeney. With two out in the same inning, Wagner doubled to left field and scored on Speaker's single. Boston tied the score in the fifth inning. Hughes replaced Warhop on the slab. Lewis walked and Purtell sacrificed. He went to third base on Gardner's out, and scored on Madden's single.

The Yankees clinched the game in the seventh inning. Wolter singled and scored on Chase's two-bagger. Chase went through on Knight's safe hit. Hunt was yanked from the box and Joe Woods went in to pitch. Laporte flied to Hooper and Cree singled, sending Knight across the plate. Lewis got Austin's hoist and Sweeney fanned.

Boston's last run came in the same inning when Lewis leaned against the ball for a terrific smash to the fence for a home run. The crowd at the last home game was about 6,000.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 13.—Washington was again shut out by Philadelphia to-day, 6 to 0. Dygert, who has pitched very seldom this season, was in grand form and held the Washingtons to four hits, none of which was obtained until the seventh inning.

DETROIT, Sept. 13.—The champions secured a lead of six runs in the third inning to-day, but Cleveland got to Loudell in the sixth inning and scored seven runs. Bush was injured in sliding to first base in the fifth inning, and had to retire. Cobb went to bat for O'Leary in the eighth inning and struck out. Score:

Luck Breaks Well for Browns.

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—Although Walsh struck out thirteen batsmen to-day, Chicago was shut out, 1 to 0, by St. Louis. A base on balls, a passed ball, and Northen's single in the first inning gave the visitors the lone tally of a cold and listless game. Nelson, a recruit from Akron, allowed only three hits. Both teams tried out recruits, Graham of Jackson playing first base for St. Louis and Bowser of Flint left field for Chicago. Score:

Pittsburg Printers 'Pied' Their 'Takes.'

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 13.—The New York and Boston printers' baseball teams were forced to quit at the end of the third inning in the second day of the annual tournament this afternoon on account of darkness and a thundershower. The score stood 1 to 1, with every indication that New York would win, as the Bostons could do nothing with Pitcher Anderson, while Murray of the bean-eaters did not seem to be much of a puzzle. This game will be played to-morrow morning, and Manager Bailey of the Gothamites is confident of victory.

Only one full contest was played this afternoon. Chicago defeated Pittsburg 20 to 6. The former team, picked by many as the winner of the Western division, batted Hughes for 17 hits, while his team mates behind him made 14 errors. Score by innings:

DWYER'S 15-MILE RACE.

Thomas Dwyer of the Mohawk A. C. won the fifteen-mile foot race held yesterday along Surf Avenue, Coney Island, under the auspices of the Brighton Beach A. C. There were forty-two entries and among them were many prominent amateur long-distance runners.

Dwyer won easily in 1 hour 29 minutes 49 3-5 seconds. He was more than two minutes ahead of the second man, Harry Jansen of the Pastime A. C., and the latter was two minutes ahead of George J. Obermeyer of the National A. C. Three dropped out before the eighth mile was reached. They were James Clark and Edward P. Carr of the Xavier A. C. and Sam Mellor of the Mercury A. C. After fifteen of the runners had finished no record was kept of the others, as the race was declared over by the judges.

The start was made at 3:17 P. M. at West Eighth Street and Surf Avenue, and the course lay from there down Surf Avenue to Sea Breeze Avenue, on Ocean Parkway, thence back up Surf Avenue to Twenty-second Street, and ended at a point nearly opposite Dreamland at 4:46:46 P. M.

The streets over which the race was run were thronged with people, many having left the beaches to witness the contest, and the police had quite a good deal of trouble in keeping a path clear for the participants, and at many places traffic became so conjested that the runners had to wait for an opening or fight their way through the crowd. At the finish line about twenty policemen had all they could do to keep order.

Harry Jensen took the lead at the start, which he held until the fourth mile, where Dwyer overtook him, and from here on it was Dwyer's race. Although Jansen pushed him hard and was close behind him until the thirteenth mile, he could not close the distance between them, and Dwyer won easily.

The winner was presented with a diamond ring valued at $100, and the first ten to finish received prizes. The Mott Haven A. C. won the most points and was awarded the team prize. The finishing order of the first ten men is as follows:

	H.M.S.
Harry Jensen, Pastime A. C.	1:31:51
George J. Obermeyer, National A. C.	1:33:28
Claude Ressonico, Irish-Am. A. C.	1:33:58 4-5
H. Strydio, Mercury A. C.	1:36:24 1-5
Charles Appleyard, Mercury A. C.	1:36:41 2-5
F. P. Devlin, Mott Haven A. C.	1:37:17 2-5

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Sept. 13.—Coach Reed lined up the first football eleven of the year on the Cornell Field this afternoon and put them through signals. Forty men were out to-day, and the squad practiced both morning and afternoon. The first team lined up with Whyte and Baker, ends; Munk and Zeller, tackles; Wilson and Hale, guards; Seagrave, centre; Davidson, quarter back; Robb and Bates, half backs, and Simson, full back. Seagrave, Simson, Munk, and Robb were members of last year's 'Varsity team. Bates was a star half back on the freshman team, and Whyte and Zeller also played on that eleven, while Wilson and Hale were former substitutes. Baker tried for quarter on the 'Varsity last Fall, but is now out for end, while Davidson is a "find" of Coach Hutchinson's. Other good men to report were Gass and Teagle of last year's 'Varsity squad and Capt. Bennet of the basket ball team, Stimson, a crew man, and Don Champaign, last year's freshman guard.

Yale Squad at Lakeville.

LAKEVILLE, Conn., Sept. 13.—Under direction of head coach Edward H. Coy and Capt. Frederick J. Daly, the advance guard of the Yale University football squad to-day began its preliminary practice on the grounds of the Hotchkiss School in this town. It is expected that about fifty men will be on hand by to-morrow. The work here, which will continue until Sept. 27, when the squad will be taken to New Haven, will consist largely, it is expected, of a thorough tryout of the new rules. Coach Coy has expressed the opinion that while Yale has lost many of her best players by graduation, this fact will make it much easier to teach the new rules, as a majority of the men will be new and will have less to unlearn about football under the old rules.

Berrien Picks Navy Squad.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Sept. 13.—Head Coach Berrien to-day selected fifteen members of the fourth class squad of fifty men who will be permitted to try for the first football team when the squad assembles next Thursday. They are Brown, Howe, Ingram, Gilchrist, McReavey, Beard, Redman, Latimer, Walker, Nelley, Wilson, Russell, Calahan, and King. Howe and Brown are the giants of the squad, weighing 208 and 206 pounds respectively. Ingram is a brother of Jones Ingram, who as full back of the team in 1906 and Captain and stroke of the eight was one of the most notable athletes who ever represented the Academy.

FIGHTER WELLS QUITS IN NINTH

Declares He Was Struck Foul Blow by Howard in Bout at Fairmont A. C.

The bout between Matt Wells of England, and Jimmie Howard, of Chicago, at the Fairmont A. C. last night did not go the prescribed ten rounds, but was stopped in the ninth after Wells, who was in bad shape from the beating he had received, dropped to his knees from what he said was a foul. The men had clinched and were fighting at close range, Howard landing hard right and left hand blows to the stomach, and had not the supposed foul come about Wells would have surely been knocked out. None of the spectators saw the blow Wells said was foul as the boxers were very close. When Wells sank to his knees he gave every indication of being hurt. His seconds quickly hurried to him as he rolled over on his back and moaned. The club physician had a look at him and gave it as his opinion that Wells was really hurt.

There was no doubt about one thing, however, and that was that Wells was completely outclassed by Howard and could not have gone through the last round anyway. Howard used his right and left by hooking to the face in the clinches, which Wells was unable to avoid, and the latter bled freely from the nose, while the best blow used by the Briton was a left-hand jab that he got over often to Howard's face. The first round ended evenly, as both men were a bit cautious and only exchanged light blows. Wells had a shade in the second by his clever jabbing, while the crowd hooted at Howard for using his elbow. He was cautioned by the referee. The Chicagoan took the upper hand after the second and won in every period until the seventh. In this round Wells landed two stiff jabs on the nose that sent Howard back, making a good rally that brought the crowd around to him again. Later Howard swung a wicked right that crashed into Wells's face. The Englishman came back strong and sent in two more jabs. It was Wells's round. After this Wells was out of the running and completely at the mercy of Howard.

Biz Mackey Beats Morrissey.

The scheduled ten-round bout between Biz Mackey of Cleveland and Tommy Morrissey of this city at Brown's Gymnasium last night came to an abrupt ending in the fourth round, when the New Yorker quit after he declared his opponent had fouled him. The claim was disallowed by the referee. The first three rounds were lively, Mackey forcing the fighting in the first two chapters and having a decided advantage in the milling. Morrissey showed up strong in the third and pounded the Cleveland boxer so hard he had to hang on to save himself. Morrisey claimed he was hit low in the fourth, and went to the mat. He was up again, and after a lively mix-up stopped short and walked to his corner.

Goodman Comes Home to Vote.

Jack Goodman is something of a politician as well as a clever boxer. He broke training for a couple of hours yesterday to come all the way up from his quarters at Fair Haven on the Shrewsbury to cast his vote in the primary election of his district. Incidentally, Jack gave the boys a chance to look him over and marvel at the good condition he is in for his ten-round bout with Fighting Dick Hyland at the National Sporting Club on Friday night. Goodman is going to fly high this Fall and Winter. After he beats Hyland, as he confidently expects, he is going after the top notchers. Billy Gibson of the Fairmont Athletic Club, who has Packy McFarland signed for a series of local bouts, has picked Goodman as the first opponent for the Chicago lightweight.

Patsy Kline to Box Young Pierce.

The feature of the boxing stag to be given by the Long Acre Athletic Association to-morrow night will be a ten-round bout between Patsy Kline of Newark and Young Pierce of Philadelphia. Pierce has been in several fast bouts before the Quaker City clubs and will find a sturdy opponent in the Newark boxer. At the Long Acre on Thursday, Sept. 22, Battling Hurley of Passaic will meet Willie Beecher in a ten-round mill.

Wolgast-McFarland Bout Oct. 6.

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—Lightweight Champion Ad. Wolgast and Packey McFarland of Chicago will meet at Milwaukee in a ten-round no-decision fight on Oct. 6.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Happenings of a Day in London, Paris, and Berlin.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—Money was abundant and discount rates were weak to-day.

The settlement restricted business on the Stock Exchange. Carry-over rates were easy, for Americans ruling at 3 per cent. Business for the new account was fair, with a firm tone, especially in home rails and foreign bonds, while Consols advanced three-sixteenths on the easy monetary situation. Speculative issues were neglected.

American securities opened quiet, but a good tone prevailed throughout the forenoon and prices advanced from ¼ to ¾ above parity. Wall Street offerings caused a setback in the afternoon, but prices hardened in the late trading, and the market closed steady.

MAINE LEADS THE WAY.

Those who with futile pains are seeking in local questions and State issues the cause of the appalling Republican reverse in the State of Maine should lift up their eyes to the true explanation, which lies plainly in the view of all save those who refuse to see it. There is but one explanation. It is to be sought in the present demoralized and broken condition of the Republican Party. The party is rent and smitten with divisions and discords, and not merely its dominance but its very existence is menaced as in its life of more than half a century it has never been menaced before. State elections have been held many times in which local issues and questions that divided Republican sentiment have been presented, and yet the Republican Party has carried its candidates to victory. It triumphed because of the enduring loyalty of Republican voters. It has from the very beginning been the best political instrument known to our history, thoroughly organized, led by men of commanding ability, who had the confidence and unswerving support of the mass of the voters, who have always been taught to believe that the worst Republican in office is better than the best Democrat. It has maintained upon the power of the offices a grasp so firm that only with difficulty, and upon rare occasions, has the Democracy been able to shake it off.

What is the condition now? It is the condition of the Democratic Party at the time when Mr. CLEVELAND despairingly pointed to the strange symbols of Bryanism which had been written all over the banner of Democracy, from which the precepts of the old faith had been erased. To the amazement of many Republicans, but to the evident joy of others, those symbols have now been written and smeared across the Republican banner. They see it seized and frantically waved aloft by one man, who is raging up and down the land filling the air with his passionate and reckless appeals for the acceptance of the new and strange principles, the principles of a faith invented by himself which he describes as the "new Nationalism," a faith subversive not merely of the older faiths but of American institutions themselves. With an energy far surpassing that of Mr. BRYAN, and with much greater ability, Mr. ROOSEVELT has detached a great part of the Republicans from their old faith and their old leaders, he has filled their minds and hearts with a romantic, unreasoning, unquestioning faith in himself and in what he preaches. He has not merely divided the Republican Party and broken and destroyed its organization and discipline, he has to a very considerable degree effaced the very party lines, so that in the West Democrats and Republicans touch elbows and shoulders in the vast throngs that send up hats and hurrahs wherever he speaks. A party subjected to such a terribly disturbing influence ceases to be a good political instrument save for the one man who is using it for his purposes.

In Maine the oldtime loyalty that has kept Republicans in line and in step, notwithstanding local differences, has this year been fatally impaired. There are minor causes, of course, that helped swell the Democratic majority. The enforcement of the liquor law by central State authority was distasteful, and there was opposition to the new Republican machine. The tariff, too, played its part, for wherever Mr. PLAISTED, the victorious Democratic candidate for Governor, spoke to an audience of the broken tariff pledges of the Republicans and of the high cost of living the applause was instant and convincing. But when has it happened before that a Democratic candidate could make headway in Maine with an argument against the Republican protective tariff? All other causes put together would have failed but for the deep-seated fundamental cause of Republican disorganization.

It is well-nigh impossible that the Republicans should profit by the lesson of this defeat in Maine, for the forces that have overthrown them are beyond arrest. But the teaching is too plain to be missed by the Democrats. There is no hope of Democratic rehabilitation and victory in following the principles of Republican insurgency, of the "new Nationalism," or in further dalliance with the kindred and practically identical principles of Bryanism. The West is possessed by those beliefs, and in the West it is most improbable that Democratic effort would be rewarded. But have the Democrats forgotten the days when their hopes of victory rested upon the four States of Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, and Indiana? They have more Northern States upon which they can confidently count now, but at least a study of the temper of those four States will furnish them a sure guide in the adoption of party policies.

They have the South. It is now evident that they no longer need leave New England out of their calculations. The election of a Governor, two Congressmen, and a Legislature in the Republican stronghold of Maine furnishes the best possible basis for the belief that other New England States may be won. To begin with, the Democrats nominated in that State their best men. That is an obvious precaution which they cannot afford to neglect in New York, in Ohio, in Indiana, in Massachusetts, even, and in other States where they see any possibility of victory. We are speaking not merely of this year and its Congressional elections, but of the campaign of 1912. Not merely political expediency but patriotism and the loyal desire to preserve the institutions of the country as they were wisely created should supply the Democrats with their platform principles and with their inspiration to victory. That part of the Republican Party which accepts the new volunteer leadership, the "new Nationalism," proclaims and accepts principles that, applied, would destroy our representative institutions, that would undermine their chief bulwark by transforming the courts into tribunals not for interpreting and declaring the law, but for substituting in its place the raw, unformed, shifting doctrines of those apostles of innovation who have confused and addled the popular mind by their ravings. Against these agitators, against the dangerous delusions they preach, and against the wave of popular passion they have stirred up until it threatens to overwhelm the country, the Democratic Party, under leaders of sanity and of wisdom, must arm itself and present a solid front for the defense of all that is most precious in the heritage that has come down to us from the founders of the Republic.

THE INDICTED BEEF MEN.

The ten big packers indicted in Chicago—not Trusts, but men, responsible officials—should go to jail if the charges of crime lodged against them are true. If the charges are false the men will be exculpated. But accusations against the "beef barons" have been multiplying for over twoscore years. They deserve vindication or heavy punishment—neither can be obtained without a searching criminal prosecution.

No immunity bath, such as the Administration of President ROOSEVELT gave them, will wash the beef men clean of these indictments. Without requiring their personal testimony or the production of documents by subpoena, the Federal Grand Jury upon evidence accuses President L. F. SWIFT, Vice President EDWARD SWIFT, Director CHARLES H. SWIFT, Director FRANCIS A. FOWLER, President EDWARD TILDEN, President J. OGDEN ARMOUR, General Manager ARTHUR MEEKER, Supt. THOMAS J. CONNERS, President EDWARD MORRIS, and Manager LOUIS HEYMAN with criminal restraint, conspiracy, and monopoly of the inter-State trade in fresh meats and in the purchase of live food animals. These men are personally guilty, the Grand Jury declares.

Whatever the result of the trials, no harm can result from them. Monopolies have for centuries been held to be lawless and oppressive. The officials of the "Beef Trust" will command the ablest legal defenses that their cases admit and that money can buy. They can afford the trials. If innocent they have everything to gain by clearing themselves in the eyes of the public. If guilty and put in jail no sympathy need be wasted upon them. Their splendidly organized business will not suffer. Able officers, taught by their example to obey the law, will be ready to step into their places.

URGENCY OF THE RAPID TRANSIT SITUATION.

The incurable defect of the tri-borough route has worried the Public Service Commission into making a statement, through its spokesman, Mr. BASSETT, regarding the connection with the Pennsylvania station. After making and condemning several substitutes for the extension of the Interborough route in the familiar H scheme the Commissioner adds, "Although the situation is urgent it is not the purpose of the Commission to give away valuable rights simply because of that urgency."

As the guardian of the public interests he could say neither less nor more. The Commission would expose itself to criticism if it gave away anything, or even if it sold rights for less than could have been obtained by diligent bargaining. The city, and those who use the Subway, alike are in need of all that can be obtained for them. Support for this position of safeguarding the public interests is furnished by the richness of the business done by the Interborough Company, as revealed in its annual report published yesterday. The system carried more than half a billion passengers, and doubled its surplus. The increase of its gross business was less than 10 per cent., but the increase of its net was almost 14 per cent. The passengers carried increased 48,000,000, the Subway contributing to the growth almost two passengers to one for the elevated lines.

Strictly speaking, the Subway is entitled to all it gets. It ventured where others were afraid, and it has rendered the city an almost incalculable service. Its profits are proportioned to that service and not to its capital. Were its capital halved and its profits doubled, the fare would remain five cents, and the value rendered would equal value received. In a legal sense neither the city nor the Subway owes each other anything. But the city still wants something not stipulated in the contract, and despite its overflowing coffers the Subway needs something more than money, although it would be worth much money. The city wants an extension of the contract, and the Subway, which wants to make that addition to its service and its profits, is debarred by an adverse state of public opinion. The conditions are such that both parties could and should deal liberally with each other. Nobody knows what the Subway expected to receive from its contract with the city, but it is sure that it received more than anybody else expected. And it is equally true that the city received more than it expected. The Subway is carrying twice as many as its estimated capacity without any additional burden to the city, or indeed without any burden, since the contract provides that the Subway shall revert to the city without any payment by the taxpayers. But the increase in tax valuations, and the worth of the service to the Subway riders, rivals the company's substantial profits.

Under such conditions it becomes both parties to be candid and liberal toward each other. The Subway should make the best offer it thinks it can, and the city should not haggle overmuch. There is no profit to the public in disagreement between those whose effort should be to get together. The public officials have at times seemed animated by a purpose vicariously to punish alleged corporate malefactors, rather than to provide rapid transit additions in the most natural manner. The Subway has responded to such treatment so poorly that its successive offers have been thought progressively rather less than more in the public interest. Until the bids are opened all the trumps have been and will be in the hands of the Public Service Commission. After the bids are opened its power is gone. It can threaten no more. If the bids are prohibitory the Subway will have the game all in its own hands. If the bids are attractive they will commit the city to an enormous expenditure upon a second-best plan. And, as the Bronx Transit Association remarked yesterday, the public funds thus consumed will be diverted from other hardly less pressing uses.

The Public Service Commission should beware of pressing its advantage too hard. President SHONTS professes readiness to double his service, and to make a substantial beginning within a few months. The Subway is doing so well that it can afford to go on as it is. The urgency in the situation is not for it, and is not created by it. The urgency exists only for the unaccommodated riders, for the city's hindered growth. The attitude of public opinion toward this deadlock would be clarified if it were once appreciated that the situation offers alternatives only. The city cannot have both the Subway's offer and the Public Service Commission's proposals. One excludes the other. If the city shall proceed with its competitive enterprise the Subway will gather its remaining profits, but will not add to them by enlarging its facilities.

A TAX ON SPEED.

John Bull is slow, and Americans are hustlers, as everybody on this side the Atlantic is well aware. Yet it must be admitted that John has beaten Jonathan in the attempt to control speed madness as manifested in the automobile craze. While we are still wondering what to do about it our English cousins have put a discriminating tax upon extremely high-powered cars, irrespective of the use made of them. The tax rises so much faster than the horse power that the burden is larger than the satisfaction of having more power than most drivers can use with advantage to themselves or with safety to the pedestrian public.

The consequence is that there is a lessened demand for high-power cars, and a large increase in the use and sale of cars rating down to fifteen horse power. A four-in-hand team is about all that any horseman can manage. Sixty in hand is more than the average chauffeur is competent to be trusted with, or than is necessary for the good of the industry. Fifteen horse power will give considerable speed to small cars on the flat, at the sacrifice only of hill-climbing power. If anybody wants to run up hills at the rate of a mile a minute there is no reason why he should not pay for the privilege, besides paying the other bills, either in "time" or dollars, for personal damages to innocent walkers along the highways.

THE BLACK HAND.

The immigrants from Italy who yesterday shattered with a bomb the storefront of a fellow-countryman, menacing the hundreds of occupants of nearby houses, will probably not be caught by the American uniformed police, or by the few well-known Italian members of the force. This city's secret police may catch them.

An appropriation of $100,000 intrusted to Commissioner BAKER for the employment of a secret force, and spent under the supervision of the Mayor and two other high city officials, would go far toward stopping the systematic levying of blackmail, bomb-throwing, and assassination among the Italian immigrants of New York. The detailing to the aid of the Immigration Bureau of a strong detachment from the Federal Secret Service would go yet further.

But the extinction of the Mafia and the Camorra by the authorities in Italy is even more to be desired. At least, the members of these criminal organizations could be prevented by the Italian Government from embarking without detection for these shores at any port in Europe. When Italy and the Italian community here are brought to understand that an outrage by the Black Hand in this city above a certain specified maximum will automatically close our gates against Italian immigration, we shall cease to be troubled by this objectionable and un-American form of crime.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Definitions Made by an Expert.

Since Prof. BRANDER MATTHEWS found it possible, with the consent of his professorial conscience, to use in describing the Narragansett Club words that most of us—when the public can hear us—have avoided as slang, there seems to be no reason why we should not confess to admiration, first, of his courage, and then of his language as a plain and forcible expression, not only of what he meant, but of the exact truth.

The club, he said, was a "joint," and a "joint" he defined as "a place where people are steered in, drunk or sober, to lose money." This definition, he added, was true of every gambling place in the world, and, so far as his observation went, the drunker the people steered in the warmer the welcome.

To the people more or less socially eminent who were pinched when the Narragansett Club was pulled—we are only following the Professor's brave example—his terms will not be pleasant, but about the accuracy of the terms there is no doubt whatever, and it is well, we think, that they and others like them should have forcibly and publicly impressed upon their minds that when they succumb to the steerer's blandishments they are not larkily taking a sporting chance, but are the dull dupes of men who never dream of giving them any such chance.

For the only difference between a "straight," sometimes called an honest, professional gambler and a "crooked" one is that the former is content with robbing his patrons to the extent of the "percentage" in his favor which the game, as he arranges it, invariably gives him. Of gambling places where this much of decency is constantly observed there may be two or three in the world, though that is doubtful; in all the rest much greater advantage is always or often taken of the player than the one coming from a computable percentage, and the probability that he will make even an occasional winning is reduced so closely to nothing that it is negligible. Nobody ever did or ever will make a living by taking fair chances, and yet many men do live by gambling. They do it simply because people like those caught in the raid on the Narragansett Club can be deluded into the notion that they are having fun when they are merely subjecting themselves to larceny, grand or petty, according to the height of their folly or the depth of their intoxication.

Invited a Reproof and Got It.

Advised by Col. ROOSEVELT to "Go after those fellows"—the fellows in question being the rioters who for months have made the City of Columbus a disgrace to Ohio and the country—Mayor MARSHALL was moved to take immediate action. Unfortunately for him and his reputation the action he took was not that which he was advised to take. Instead of going after the rioters—instead, that is, of enforcing the law and restoring order, which is what the Colonel said should be done first of all—the Mayor went after Gov. HARMON and asked that official to call a special session of the Legislature for the purpose of passing some new laws. He suggested, as needful, one law providing for compulsory arbitration and another prohibiting overcapitalization.

That the Mayor, knowing Gov. HARMON, did not foresee the inevitable answer to these suggestions is amusing or pathetic, according to the point of view. Of course the Governor told him that it would be time enough for the Mayor to ask for new laws after he had shown his inclination and ability to enforce those already in existence, and he coldly added that the public in general charged the Mayor with showing neither.

Thus Mayor MARSHALL received the dreadful snubbing which he had invited, but that, unfortunately, will not put an end to the rioting in Columbus. Just why that has been allowed to continue so long it is impossible to understand from this distance, for the inhabitants of the city are presumably much like the common run of American citizens. Yet they have tolerated, week after week, a seemingly intolerable state of affairs, and though they have protested, their protests have been neither very loud nor very articulate.

That public sympathy was with the strikers in the beginning is a fact not without precedent, but one would have expected it to wane as business suffered from the constant violence, and no doubt it has. Still, nothing effectual has been done, and with a curious submissiveness the people of the city go about its streets in constant peril of their lives. Pistols crack, dynamite explodes, and bricks fly through the air, while the Mayor talks compulsory arbitration and overcapitalism! It is all very puzzling.

Distributing the Money of the Sultan.

What ABDUL HAMID thinks of the use that has been made of the $40,000,000 he had on deposit in Germany before he toppled from his throne is a matter of small consequence, but the news that with $5,000,000 from Turkey the Ottoman Government has paid for two antiquated German warships to serve as the beginning of a Turkish navy is enough to make one wonder if what Europe is fond of calling "Yankee tricks" are not sometimes played outside of the United States.

It is reported that both Germany and Turkey are delighted with the queer transaction, the one at getting a big price for something it didn't want and the other because the difficult problem of how to make a public use of private funds sent abroad by the late Sultan has thus been solved. Solutions more satisfactory to Turkey can easily be imagined, however. She might, for instance, have taken back the $40,000,000 into the national Treasury, where it undoubtedly belonged, and with the extra $5,000,000 have bought more than two up-to-date warships if she really had to have expensive toys of that kind. Germany, on the other hand, will not quite like the comment that will be excited by its fine bargain, or the intimation in the cable dispatches that only in some such way could the German bankers have been persuaded to give up the money placed by the Sultan in their hands for use by him in just the emergency that afterward arose.

But perhaps the story is not correct in all its details. It is a story of the kind that usually receives a prompt official denial. One can only be sure that ABDUL HAMID will never see his $40,000,000 again, or any part of it.

THE ITALIAN CLINIC.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I thank you for your article in the "Topics of the Times" column on "That Italian Clinic." I am with you, heart and soul, in your ironical insinuations and your dagger piercings concerning the harsh and boisterous tongue of silly war that makes havoc among the Italian people in New York. We see the pitiable spectacle of newspapers that should be the guides and organs of public opinion lined up on opposite sides, in all the pomp and circumstance of war, horribly stuffed with bellicose epithets, charging into each other with all the fervor of the fanatic, and with his little reason, too.

I do not wish to be unjust to the Italian newspapers. I should say that on the whole they do more good than harm. It is true that squabbles, personal and professional, occupy a dreadful amount of their attention. But then sometimes some of these fights must be fought, and so rise to the dignity of righteous battles fought in the ranks of the God of Truth. And the general run of the work is good. I am now judging by the strictest standard. I wish to see them better, and for this reason I chime in with you in your digs.

But, now, are the newspapers and no others to blame for the general ignorance of the clinic? Is it upon them only that our cudgels of ire must fall? If we brain them, have we done the deed? Alas! no. We have scotched the snake, not killed it. Provincialism is rife among us. Narrowness is the bane of the Italians of our colony. And the narrowness of professional men, especially medical men, is most discouraging and appalling. The means open to these latter to get information are various and many. Yet, upon their own implied admissions in your paper, and from what I know of that class in general in one colony, they depend wholly and solely upon the newspapers in their own language. If these doctors who write to you in such complaining tones had taken the trouble to go down to the opening of the Tuberculosis Exhibition at 217 Grand Street a couple of months ago they would have heard reference made to the clinic in Harlem. They would have brought away with them an idea and a cue for action. Their careers for the last few months would not have been so barren of results. How many tuberculous patients might they not have sent there!

If I am not mistaken I saw a three hundred-word notice in your paper some time ago about the Tuberculosis Clinic on 109th Street. If medical gentlemen of the class who get their education abroad and their licenses to practice here devoted more time to the understanding of their new surroundings, gave more time to the learning of the language of the people among whom they have cast their lot, and tried to find out something at least about our social and political institutions, instead of incasing themselves in the impenetrable cysts of self-sufficiency, such ignorance as is now displayed to the wonder of the amazed world would not be.

ROBERT FERRARI.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A stranger here subscribed to a paper in a real estate office before a notary public, who accepted the quarter supposedly due for the service. A similar charge was made in other offices. One day, by chance, a clerk swore the stranger and took but thirteen cents, which he said was the legal fee. The next notary employed was a bank officer, who smilingly pocketed the quarter handed him for payment. Our bewildered swearer thought it time for an explanation, and in response to his inquiry the banker admitted that the legal fee was thirteen cents, but pleaded that it was customary to take a quarter, and graciously added, "you are entitled to the change if you wish it." He was not fishing for twelve cents change, and foolishly allowed the high (?) finance man to keep it. This disregard for law is not so surprising in real estate men, perhaps, for they own the earth, and may do what they will with their own; but the banker handles other people's money and is to be trusted, or holds out that he is, and it gives us a jolt when he grabs a twelve-cent tip, without even saying "by your leave." When officers of the law despise the law, who shall respect it?

OCCASIONAL.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

What a difference between the New York Washington saw and the New York Roosevelt sees.

In Washington's time New York was a quiet town, peopled by men living tranquil lives. Yet Washington believed that the sedate, phlegmatic people of his day needed judicial and constitutional safeguards and restraints.

The New York that Roosevelt sees is a distracted metropolis, filled with rushing, nervous men, dissatisfied in their trades, worried in their business, feverish in their amusements, frantic in their greedy speculations. Yet Roosevelt tramples on the Constitution and insults the Supreme Court. The people of his day need no safeguards, no restraints.

The difference between the New York of 1790 and the New York of 1910 is great, but not so great as the difference between Washington and Roosevelt.

EGO.

Barnum Thought to be Right.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

P. T. Barnum, the greatest showman the country ever produced, was a keen judge of human nature. One day some one said to him: "Is it right, Barnum, on your part, to so deceive the public with this show of yours? You know it is all humbug."

"Granted it is humbug," he replied, "all humbug. But it is what the American people like; they like humbug; they like to be humbugged."

And that is what we are witnessing to-day. A humbug is humbugging the people and they seem to like it. True, he has been President of the United States, but he was humbugging the people then, is trying to humbug them now, and will try to do so to the end.

Tired of Being Cheated.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have read with interest all that has been published in your paper about the investigation of "weights and measures" by Commissioner Driscoll, but I have not observed that this expensive investigation has made the slightest difference in my bills. I am quite tired of paying for three pounds of chicken and getting only two pounds, and similar matters. It is not alone the high prices of food that are bringing us to destruction, but any housekeeper knows, especially one who is country-born, that she is being robbed on weights in every direction and with a most glaring and "what are you going to do about it?" air on the part of the dealers.

If Commissioner Driscoll will furnish me with a guaranteed scale, for which I am willing to pay, I will show a few of these grocers and marketmen what one woman can do about it.

Tennessee Illustrations.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I think you are somewhat unfortunate in your Tennessee illustrations in this morning's editorial article. Secretary Wright was the gentleman who, when Mr. Roosevelt's Secretary of War, remarked: "Whatever he [Mr. Roosevelt] says is right." Secretary Dickinson was last heard of floundering, fully clothed, in a tank of water on the Pacific. I think a better Tennessee illustration could be found.

DISPUTE CENSUS RETURNS.

Middletown and Newburg, Not Satisfied, Will Count Noses.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Sept. 13.—This city and Newburg do not believe the National census just taken is correct and will take a private census to find out if the figures are correct. The announcement that Middletown has a population of only 15,313, an increase of only 791 in ten years, was a great shock to the citizens who expected the census would show a population of 18,000.

An argument showing the census is defective is that in Middletown the number of taxpayers has increased 612 in the six years. Four hundred houses have been erected in ten years and all are occupied. The same feeling exists in Newburg, which the new census gives a population of 25,473, or an increase of only 530 in ten years.

Judge Fitzgerald Neither Dead Nor Ill.

Dame Rumor killed Supreme Court Justice Fitzgerald yesterday afternoon at the County Court House. Later she revived him, and placed him on a sick bed, seriously ill with malaria. Some afternoon newspaper reporters rushed biographies of the Justice to Park Row offices. Joseph McDonough, secretary to the Justice, put the rumor to flight with an authoritative denial from his chief that he had been or was ill.

Baseball Ruining the Parks.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I would like to call the attention of those interested to the change in the aspect of the once beautiful section of Morningside Park from 110th to 116th Street. It has apparently been given over to baseball, which is a fine sport in its proper place. A good lawn has been ruined, "trees and shrubs defaced and injured. Noisy gangs of what may safely be called "hoodlums" overrun the place and render the park uncomfortable, to say the least, to the rest of the people.

One Crowned Head.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your yesterday's paper you say that no crowned head has ever visited the United States. In reply to this, I beg to inform you that the Emperor of Brazil has been once in this country, if I am not mistaken, at the time of the Philadelphia Exhibition.

THE BUILDING OF THE PLATFORM

"Build me straight, O District Leader!
Stanch and strong, and hale and hearty,
Not of oak or pine or cedar,

The Voters' word
Delighted the Bosses heard,
For their heart in the work was rooted,
And they feared lest their pow'r be disputed.

So first a plank of a general nature,
Not touching on laws or the Legislature,
But rehearsing the rights
Of the blacks and the whites,
The right to live and the right to earn money,
They put in the Platform, and murmured, "It's funny!"
Then a larger and broader plank they took—
Regarding Reform, and straightaway
Laid it down, then they said, "That's enough for one day!"
But the morrow once more to the task they went,
And they took up a plank that was battered and bent,
For it dealt with the Tariff and showed very plain
It had been in a platform and ripped out again.
"It's got to go in!"
They declared, "if we'd win!
Of course it's a joke, but it's clever as sin"—
So down went the plank,
That worm-eaten plank,
And they made it fit in by a jerk and a yank.
Next a plank smoothly planed on Abuse of Injunctions
They put in regarding the Courts and their Functions—
"That will catch us the vote of the Laboring Class!"
They cried with delight, "for the Public's an Ass!"
A number of other planks galore
They put in the platform, some twenty or more,
With several condemning the Administration,
And a lovely new plank that was marked Conservation.
"It's done!" they declared, and with pride in their eyes
It was crooked and rickety, unsafe and twisted,
There were cracks at the joints, and badly it listed,
It wouldn't "hold water," 'twas likely to fall,
But still they were sure it would do, after all.
So they called to the Faithful, "We're off, all aboard!"
And onto that Platform the Faithful all poured,
And despite its condition,
Suggesting Perdition,
They sailed out to battle and victory scored.

WILLIAM WALLACE WHITELOCK.

BLAME THE JUDGES IN STREET GRANT GRAFT

Their Favors to Corporations Have Brought About Franchise Evils, the City Club Hears.

CITY BOUND HAND AND FOOT

Committee Named to Obtain the Nomination of an Attorney General Capable of Coping with Situation.

A determination to do all in their power to put an end to the exploitation of the city's streets by public service corporations which have no right there, and, incidentally, to drive out the horse cars, brought together many prominent persons at the City Club yesterday afternoon. It was decided that the chief point of attack was through the Attorney General's office, and that it was important to have the next occupant of that office a lawyer of marked ability, regardless of party connections, and a man pledged to carry out the programme proposed.

Delos F. Wilcox, Chief of the Bureau of Franchises of the Public Service Commission, declared that the city had been for nearly a century bound hand and foot by illegal corporations. No other community in the land could equal it in this respect, he said. C. M. Sheehan, President of the Brooklyn Allied Boards of Trade, aroused his hearers by criticising severely the judiciary and Supreme Court.

The meeting was called by Raymond V. Ingersoll, who presided; Hamilton Holt, J. Howard Melish, Homer Folks, and George W. Alger. Some of the others present were Prof. Frank J. Goodnow, Prof. V. G. Simkhovitch, James B. Reynolds, Benjamin C. Marsh, C. M. Sheehan, B. J. Wright, Lincoln Steffens, Harry P. Nichols, John J. Flynn, F. H. Whitten, ex-Borough President Jacob A. Cantor, F. A. Austin, M. Allen Robinson, Dr. E. W. Bemis, R. B. Brubaher, W. H. Wilson, and William Jay Schieffelin.

"New York," said Mr. Wilcox, who had been invited to make the principal address, "is the most conspicuous example in the world of the exploitation of the streets by public service corporations under perpetual franchises. In the last eighty years the grip of these companies upon the public highways of this metropolis has been extending and tightening, thanks to the indifference, near-sightedness, timidity, and the confusion of authority of Aldermen, Legislatures, Corporation Counsels, department officials, Attorney Generals, and courts of this city and State, and in many cases the corrupt complaisance of some or all of these authorities.

"The surface and elevated railroads, the electric light and power systems, and the gas works of the city, with unimportant exceptions, are operated under what are claimed to be perpetual grants. Moreover, there are still more than 400 streets and parts of streets, with a total length of 240 miles, upon which no streetcar tracks have been laid, but which are covered by perpetual franchises dating back of 1897. These streets are distributed through all the five boroughs, but Brooklyn has almost one-half of the total. Some of these franchises are known to be void, but inconsistencies in the judicial decisions, jokers in the railroad law, the unblushing assertions of the companies, and the continued acquiescence of the public authorities tend every day to make good, claims that are utterly inexcusable in theory and unsound in law. It is a well-established rule of law that public grants of special privileges to private parties should be strictly construed in favor of the public. This rule has been almost reversed in New York."

Mr. Wilcox declared that the public utilities of this city are now being operated under franchises variously granted by the Legislature and by the local authorities of at least forty different communities which were consolidated into the city under the new charter. The result is that not only were the proceedings to get the franchises in many cases notoriously corrupt or irregular but that the franchises have been used [illegible] in part, and in some cases not at all. The speaker pointed to the Consolidated Gas Company as a conspicuous example of an existing corporation whose old grants were being made good by acquiescence or by the city's failure to take the necessary steps to revoke or forfeit them, notwithstanding the fact that the State established the policy of limited term grants in the New York charter in 1897.

"The Consolidated Gas Company's franchises," said he, "are notoriously weak, and many of them are based upon claims so absurd that they would not even be thought of in a community intelligently alive to the fundamental necessity of maintaining public control of the streets. Yet to-day the Consolidated Gas Company is taking proceedings to build new tunnels under the East River that will be worth millions of dollars to it, under a notorious franchise granted by the Legislature in 1892 to the East River Gas Company of Long Island City. By this franchise the East River Gas Company acquired the right forever to invade all the streets of old New York for the distribution of both gas and electricity. Soon afterward the East River Company fell under the control of the New York and East River Gas Company, and the latter was consolidated with the New Amsterdam Gas Company, which in turn fell under the control of the Consolidated Gas Company.

"At the present time the East River Company is a mere name. It has no real existence as an independent corporation. In a recent proceeding to compel this company to make a separate statement of its property in its reports, the Public Service Commission was informed by the company's lawyers that the properties of the East River Company were so mixed and merged in Siamese relations with the property of the New Amsterdam Company as to make a separation impossible. At the same time the two companies were so distinct that they could not possibly be legally united. Counsel admitted that the company feared a merger would invalidate this famous franchise. Nevertheless plans are now being carried out to use this franchise to make perpetual the privileges of the entire Consolidated Gas system in Manhattan and The Bronx."

Mr. Wilcox pointed to the horse cars on New York's streets years after they had been abolished in almost every hamlet in the country as "a notorious legacy of perpetual franchises."

"For the last eight years," said he, "there have lain unused in the city's streets more than twenty miles of horse car tracks constructed under perpetual franchises and which the city authorities have not dared to move. When the Attorney General brought suit to put the Consolidated Gas Company out of business on the ground that its local franchises had expired, the court held that the action should have been brought by the city authorities. When the city brought action to forfeit the franchise and property of the Steinway tunnel, the court held that the Attorney General should have brought the action."

This confusion of authority and the fact that a number of such suits, already brought but so far undecided, would be the heritage of the Attorney General to be elected this Fall, made it urgent, in Mr. Wilcox's opinion, that extraordinary care to elect an able and honest man should be taken.

C. M. Sheehan, who spoke next, said that while it was important to elect an able Attorney General, the judicial branch of the Government was equally important.

"The real 'nigger in the woodpile,'" said he, "is the judiciary. The judiciary of this city is owned body and soul by the corporations."

Mr. Sheehan named a Justice, saying that he was especially favorable to railroads. "If a railroad wants a decision, he is the man to go to for it," he declared.

He added that while there was talk about the respect due the courts, as a matter of fact the courts ought not to receive any more respect than they deserved. Some thought he had Col. Roosevelt's recent criticism of the Supreme Court in mind as he said this. Resolutions were adopted providing for a committee of nine to urge the nomination by all parties of good candidates for the office of Attorney General, to warn the voters against unfit men, and to prepare a programme which should eliminate perpetual franchises. Similar movements will be started throughout the State, it was said.

GEORGE J. GOULD BACK FROM EUROPE

BUSINESS OUTLOOK GOOD

He Wouldn't Like to See Mayor Gaynor Leave City Hall for the Governorship—Conditions Abroad.

Among the passengers arriving from Europe on the North German Lloyd liner Kronprinzessin Cecilie yesterday, was George J. Gould and his family. In the party were Mrs. Gould, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony J. Drexel, Jr., the latter of whom was Miss Marjorie Gould; George J. Gould, Jr., Miss Vivian Gould, and little Miss Gloria Gould.

The Goulds have had a most pleasant time this Summer spending most of it cruising in the yacht Atalanta and automobiling through Europe. One of the first things that Mr. Gould heard with great interest on his arrival was the news from Maine, and he said he was not greatly surprised at the unexpected Democratic sweep. Mr. Gould thinks it is a Democratic year, although he is a Republican.

"The people are not satisfied," he said, "with the revision of the tariff laws, and they want a change. I should say that the result in Maine presages a Democratic victory in the next National election. People are down on present high prices. Business conditions generally, I believe, will improve after the elections. Underlying conditions are good, and I think that everything will work out all right."

Speaking of the railroad situation Mr. Gould said that reports from the railroads in which he is interested showed that they were doing well in gross earnings, but that there was some falling off in net returns. Crop conditions, he said, were good, and that this applied to corn, wheat, and cotton.

"During my absence," continued Mr. Gould, "the stock market has apparently been rather flat, and I attribute this largely to political causes.

"Foreigners are waiting anxiously for the United States Supreme Court decisions in the American Tobacco and Standard Oil cases. They do not feel like investing heavily in American securities until the questions involved in these cases are settled. Much the same attitude seems to be taken toward this matter abroad, as is held by the business interests of this country. In the past, however, we have encountered just as serious problems as those now presented, and have worked out a satisfactory solution. I am confident that the present difficulties will likewise work themselves out satisfactorily in time."

Mr. Gould was rejoiced to hear that Mayor Gaynor was getting along so well, and in referring to the fact that the Mayor was being discussed for the Democratic Gubernatorial nomination, said that while the Mayor would undoubtedly make a great Governor, he would regret to have the city lose him.

Of the foreign countries that he visited Mr. Gould said that Italy was forging ahead rapidly, that her manufacturing interests were growing, and in education she was taking care of her people well. Germany, he added, was very prosperous, France had plenty of money, despite the fact that the French crops this year were bad, and England was still troubled politically.

MRS. VON CLAUSEN AGAIN.

Woman of Much Litigation Wants Former Friend Arrested.

Mrs. Ida Von Clausen, who has attained much notoriety of late, was in the Yorkville Court yesterday to ask that a former associate should be arrested. Mrs. Nellie B. Van Slingerland of 119 East Twenty-seventh Street, editor of the Joan of Arc Magazine, one of the chief pillars of the Joan of Arc Woman Suffrage League, last week accompanied Mrs. Von Clausen to the United States Mortgage and Trust Company's office at 55 Cedar Street and stood by while Mrs. Von Clausen attacked Vice Presidents Calvert Brewer and Carl G. Rasmus.

In her complaint Mrs. Von Clausen alleged that, being in need of ready cash, on Aug. 18 she gave a draft for $500 and a note for the same amount to Mrs. Van Slingerland, who was to get them cashed. If she did get them cashed, went on the complaint, she was to have $166 out of the money. Mrs. Von Clausen alleged that she hadn't received any money on the papers and that now Mrs. Van Slingerland refused to give them up.

"You should bring a civil suit," said Magistrate Feschi. "Case dismissed."

"I expected to lose this case," retorted Mrs. Von Clausen, stamping her foot. "I haven't been successful in a case in ten years."

An admirable performance of Sardou's famous play "Diplomacy" was given by a special cast at the Maxine Elliott Theatre last night. So much at least may be freely admitted. And what advantage is to come from discussing whether or not it has been better done? Certainly under the conditions—with less than a week of preparation—the players acquitted themselves excellently, and in several instances the individual performances were brilliantly successful.

What the play chiefly lacked last night was pace—the sort of rapid playing in the less important scenes which might prevent too much inquiring into ways and means and which would serve to conceal the machinery of preparation. This at times, as in the earlier parts of the second act, is Sardou and the old melodramists at their worst.

At its best, however, this melodrama can certainly hold its own with anything that went before or has come after it. For the framework is strong and the filling in highly powerful and effective. One could search far without finding two better acting scenes than those in the second and third acts of this play, in which there is first the discovery of Dora's supposed duplicity, then the Baron's blunder in surrendering the letter sent to him by Zicka and containing the stolen plans. These are big, vigorous scenes for men—and after all "Diplomacy" is to-day, as it has always been, the men's play from the acting point of view.

It must have been a rare personality that made Countess Zicka effective as she is said to have been made effective by Genevieve Ward, and subsequently by Rose Coghlan, but somehow one cannot help doubting if these artistes or any others could cover the rôle's artificialities now. And certainly Miss Florence Roberts, who is a very excellent actress in other parts, did not do it, though she played discreetly, and at times with genuineness of touch.

As the men go the artificiality of the characters does not so much matter; they have the big situations, and in big situations people do not have time to discount the effects. Possibly for this reason Miss Chrystal Herne's exquisitely modulated and varied performance of Dora seemed rather the finest achievement of the performance. For Dora, except in the one flare up has no situations, and either overplayed in her big second act climax or monotonously played—as she could be very easily—she would be an awful bore. Miss Herne has not the frame nor the method for blatant Sardoudling, but a screaming finis was well worth sacrificing for the variety of delightful moods—now touched with humor, now with tenderness—which this young actress put into her playing. And she looked a picture—or rather several of them—in the lovely frocks and hats she wore.

Mr. Richman, too, played with a capital blend of strength and humor, just the right sense of reserve and the suggested repression that gives Henry Beauclerc his power and weight as contrasted with his brother. And this brother, Julian, is rather a trying part in the present scheme of things. For it has an emotionalism too suggestively Gallic to ever sit quite easily on an American or Englishman. Mr. Milton Sills was by no means bad in the part—in fact he is a young actor of whom splendid things may be expected,—but here his color is still to draw to a fully present the picture that he strives for. Mr. Bergen's difficulties as Count Orloff are not so great and he gives a fine virile representation of the rôle.

In fact the three men playing the big second act scene are to be freely commended, since none of its values were lost. Throughout Theodore Roberts in an amazingly interesting makeup played with grimly suggested cunning and duplicity, and yet with a conveyance of a peculiar charm which alone would make Baron Stein persona grata in circles where he was not above suspicion. Mrs. Sarah Cowell Lemoyne's return to the stage was agreeably accomplished, and Mr. Pinto, Miss Ballou, and Miss Power are to be credited with doing pleasant work in the lesser rôles.

There are undoubtedly many theatregoers to-day who never have seen "Diplomacy," and in the lookout for entertainment they might do a lot worse than avail themselves of the present opportunity.

GERMAN NIGHT AT OPERA.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 13.—Members of the German colony in Mexico were hosts to-night at a gala performance of Wagner's "Lohengrin" presented by the pick of the singers brought from New York for the Mexican centennial opera season. The entire house was reserved by them, their guests being high Mexican officials, visiting diplomats and commissioners.

The opera house was aflame with German and Mexican colors. Every seat was occupied. The performance was the climax of a series of observances of the day set apart by the centennial commissioners in honor of the German people. The exercises began with the unveiling of the statue of Baron Alexander von Humboldt and included a luncheon to the distinguished visitors in the capital.

MAHLER SCORES TRIUMPH

MUNICH, Sept. 13.—Gustav Mahler scored an immense triumph as a composer at the initial performance of the Eighth Symphony last night in the presence of 4,000 persons, including many distinguished musicians, and at the second rendition to-day all the seats were sold. There was a children's chorus, eight solo voices, and a greatly augmented orchestra.

More than 1,000 performers were required for the two parts that constitute the work. The first is based on the hymn, "Veni Creator Spiritus," with the closing scenes of Goethe's "Faust," part two supplying the text. For the second hour and a half required for the performance the use of the same thematic material, as well as adherence to fundamental tonality, gives a unity and directness melodious to a degree. There are some remarkably beautiful tonal effects, and both parts culminate in masterly climaxes.

The audience was vociferously enthusiastic, and Mahler was recalled countless times.

DISORDER AT CONEY CARNIVAL

Police Do Little to Stop Overstrenuous Merrymakers.

Despite the presence of 600 extra uniformed policemen at the Coney Island Mardi Gras carnival, much disorder and practically no arrests marked the second night of the celebration, which was attended by some 150,000 persons. There was much rough jostling by the crowds, and straw hats were seized everywhere along the avenue and destroyed.

Until late last night only one arrest had been made by the police, and that was investigated by Inspector Russell. Henry Reihl, Superintendent of Luna Park, who with his wife was escorting another man and woman to the West End Station early yesterday morning, was arrested by Policeman Felix Rasch of the Bedford Avenue Station on the charge of attacking another man. Reihl told Magistrate Voorhees in the Coney Island Court yesterday that the man had tried to kiss his wife and that he had merely shoved him back. Thereupon, he said, Rasch struck him in the face and arrested him. Magistrate Voorhees discharged Reihl and censured the policeman.

VISCOUNT SONE, DIPLOMAT, DEAD

Ex-Resident General in Korea Was the Successor of the Late Prince Ito.

WAS PRIVY COUNCILLOR

TOKIO, Sept. 13.—Viscount Arasuke Sone, Privy Councillor and ex-Resident General in Korea, died to-day.

Arasuke Sone was born in 1849 at Hagi, Choshu Province. He came of a high class Samurai family of the Choshu clan, which took a prominent part in the great drama of the restoration. Viscount Sone succeeded the late Prince Ito as Resident General of Korea. He himself was succeeded last May by Gen. Viscount Terauchi. Prior to leaving Korea Viscount Sone suffered a serious illness, and was said to have been afflicted with cancer of the stomach.

From 1868 Arasuke Sone served the Government in various capacities, and in 1892 he was elected a member of the House of Representatives, and the House elected him Vice President. He was Minister to France and Spain from 1893 to 1897, and the following year was appointed Minister of State for Justice. He was named at the same time Vice President of the Commission for the Codification of the Laws of the country.

In 1899 Viscount Sone was appointed Minister of Agriculture and Commerce under the Yamagata Cabinet, and when Marquis (then Viscount) Katsura succeeded Prince Yamagata and formed his Cabinet in 1901, Viscount Sone was given the important portfolio of Minister of Finance. He held this office during the Russo-Japanese war. When the Anglo-Japanese alliance was concluded in 1902 he was created a Baron.

The Katsura Cabinet resigned in 1905 and Sone was appointed a Privy Councillor, and in the year following he was created Viscount in reward for his services during the war. In September, 1907, he was appointed Deputy Resident General of Korea and later succeeded Prince Ito as Resident General.

During his incumbency he was perhaps the most outspoken opponent of annexation among all those who gave public utterance to their opinions on this subject, and in an interview shortly before he gave up this office, he said: "The decision now rests with the Koreans. If they make it impossible for Japan to accomplish her plans, and within the next few years bring about complete order for the benefit of the Korean people a change will be inevitable, but otherwise, notwithstanding the outcry, there will be no annexation, no absorption, and no amalgamation."

BREAKS AN OCEAN RECORD.

Kronprinzessin Cecilie Has Big Passenger List on Fast Trip.

The North German Lloyd liner Kronprinzessin Cecilie, in yesterday from Bremen, broke the speed record for the westward passage from Cherbourg, France, to Sandy Hook. She made the voyage, which was over the short course, in 5 days 10 hours 23 minutes, which is 46 minutes faster than the voyage she made in August, 1908, the best previous record. The big liner came in booked to capacity, there being 600 passengers in the first cabin alone.

Among these passengers were many well-known persons, including E. B. Thomas, President of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company; Daniel G. Reid, a Director of the Rock Island system; George J. Gould, Congressmen J. Warren Keifer and Richard Bertholdt, James Gordon Bennett, and S. M. Rice of the Distilling Company of America.

Mr. Thomas had been away twenty-seven days, thirteen of which he spent on the ocean. He suffers from hay fever, and he said the ocean air always relieved him.

Prince Henry of Prussia was a passenger on the Kronprinzessin Cecilie from Bremen to Southampton, England.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 13.—Margaret Illington, who appeared last night in her new play, "Until Eternity," had a painful experience during the play. After the third act she was feeling the strain of the play and requested her maid to prepare a dose of aromatic spirits of ammonia. Her directions were to "fix half a glass of ammonia for me." The maid, instead of putting less than a teaspoonful, the usual dose in a half glass of water, brought the actress half a glass of the nearly straight drug.

Miss Illington took two swallows before she found the mistake, and was almost strangled. She received prompt aid and recovered.

D'Annunzio, the Italian poet and playwright, who is coming to America to assist in the production of his new play by Charles Frohman, will while here deliver a series of lectures, the tour having been arranged by Signor Del Gozzo, an Italian impresario. The poet will first visit South America, and will then come to New York.

Lottie Gilson's Condition Serious.

Lottie Gilson, the actress, who was taken to Bellevue Hospital Monday night suffering from gastritis, was reported to be in no immediate danger last night, although her condition is serious. The attack of gastritis is complicated with neuritis, and Miss Gilson's constitution is likely to make her recovery problematical.

BIG BRITISH LABOR PLAN.

Suggested Combination of All the Unions Under One Control.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—The labor situation remains practically as it was last week, but the Trades Union Congress, which is sitting in Sheffield, to-day by a large majority adopted resolutions authorizing the taking of steps to inquire into the practicability of combining all the trades unions in the Kingdom under one supreme control.

The idea underlying this far-reaching proposal is to form a more effective means of bringing about a general strike, but it is doubtful whether all the trades can be brought to agree on this.

HERRESHOFF LEADS IN AMATEUR GOLF

WESTERN CRACKS BEATEN

BROOKLINE, Mass., Sept. 13.—Two fast rounds of medal and match play ruthlessly mowed down champions and former champions in the sixteenth annual championship at the Country Club to-day with the result that only sixteen well-seasoned players remained to-night of the 209 who drove off from the first tee in the initial round yesterday. And among those who fell into the deep traps that profusely puncture the broad greensward of the Country Club links, were Robert A. Gardner of Hinsdale, who wrested the title from the East last year, and H. Chandler Egan of Exmoor, who has twice won National honors. Of the sixteen survivors of the 36 holes of medal and the 18 holes of match play, six are practically local golfers, four claim New York as their golfing home, three came on from Chicago, while Philadelphia, Toledo, and Vermont have one each.

The sturdy sixteen includes only one former champion, Walter J. Travis of Garden City, a three times winner, but the little gathering also numbers Charles Evans, Jr., the Chicago stripling, who is a hot favorite among the Westerners for the championship, and Frederic Herreshoff of New York and Ekwanok, who won the gold medal in the qualifying round with a brilliant 152. After scoring a 78 yesterday and a 74 to-day, Herreshoff, in his match with J. F. Shanley of Deal, N. J., made a 72, or an average of 74⅔ for the three rounds. The bogey for the Country Club course is 80, and only a few players, and those few professionals, have broken 75.

The playing started even earlier than yesterday, for there was an uncompleted first round of medal play, and such players as Gardner and Tom Fuller of Wollaston were still with cards uncompleted from Monday. So the field started shortly after 7 o'clock, and from that time the driving from the first tee out into the broad polo field was at four minutes' intervals with clock-like regularity.

Gardner played poorly not only early in the forenoon but subsequently, while Chandler Egan, that brilliant but erratic driver and wielder of the cleek and the midiron, was even further off his game. Egan failed to get into the first 64, and was eliminated before 10 o'clock. Gardner held on until luncheon, when the committee decided that 168 was the highest score possible for continuation, and as the champion had one stroke more he put his clubs back in the bag.

There was some remarkably steady playing during the forenoon. Warren K. Wood of Chicago was a close second to Herreshoff, with a 154; W. C. Fownes, Jr., of Philadelphia had a 155, and Walter J. Travis of Garden City, whom all hands call "The Old Man" because of his devotion to the game, turned in a 156.

J. F. Shanley, Jr., of Deal was the last man to squeeze into the charmed circle of 32 for the afternoon's match play. He had a score of 168, while Gardner, Stiles of Brae Burn, Claflin of Wollaston, and Hyde of Bay Shore, L. I., were just barred out with 169 each.

The afternoon matches proved less interesting than was expected, probably because nearly all players underwent a relaxation from the tension of the medal play. Only two contests reached the home green and three more were settled about the seventeenth hole. The others were soon over.

Chicago suffered severely in the draw for the match play, for four of the six survivors were paired in the first round, Sawyer meeting Sickle and Evans playing Bob Hunter. The draw brings Evans and Sawyer together in the second round tomorrow, but Wood is in the lower half of the draw—a circumstance which may help the West. The players will meet at 36 holes match play to-morrow, and the same will obtain for the rest of the week.

H. H. Wilder, Vesper, (162,) defeated M. Whitlatch, Apawamis, (165,) 4 up and 3 to play; R. W. Brown, Meadow Brook, (167,) defeated W. Van Amringe, Commonwealth, (161,) 5 up and 3 to play; W. C. Fownes, Jr., Philadelphia, (155,) defeated Ellis Knowles, Pensacola, (164,) 2 up and 1 to play; A. M. Reid, St. Andrew's, (160,) defeated R. Weir, Wilmington, (167,) 5 up and 4 to play; P. W. Whittemore, The Country Club, (157,) defeated E. M. Byers, Allegheny Country Club, Pittsburg, (160,) 2 up and 1 to play; Frederic Herreshoff, Ekwanok, (152,) defeated J. F. Shanley, Jr., Deal, (168,) 5 up and 3 to play; D. E. Sawyer, Wheaton, (163,) defeated A. Sickle, Riverside, Chicago, (167,) 5 up and 3 to play; Charles Evans, Jr., Edgewater, (161,) defeated R. E. Hunter, Midlothian, (161,) 5 up and 4 to play; Warren K. Wood, Homewood, (154,) defeated S. D. Bowers, Brooklawn, (163,) 5 up and 4 to play; Percival Gilbert, Brae Burn, (166,) defeated G. W. White, Oakland, (163,) 2 up; Walter J. Travis, Garden City, (156,) defeated C. G. Waldo, Jr., Brooklawn, (161,) 7 up and 6 to play; J. G. Anderson, Woodland, (158,) defeated John M. Ward, Garden City, (167,) 1 up; H. Weber, Inverness, (166,) defeated T. M. Sherman, Yahundasis, (163,) 5 up and 4 to play; R. R. Gorton, Brae Burn, (166,) defeated Paul Hunter, Midlothian, (161,) 6 up and 5 to play; W. R. Tuckerman, Stockbridge, (162,) defeated H. Schmidt, Worcester, (162,) 3 up and 1 to play; F. A. Martin, Ekwanok, (164,) defeated G. A. Ormiston, Oakmont, (164,) 3 up and 2 to play.

WESTERN WOMEN IN GOLF.

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—Playing remarkably fine golf, Mrs. Luther Kennett of Pasadena, Cal., to-day led a field of seventy starters in the qualifying round of the eighth annual championship of the Women's Western Golf Association at the Skokie Country Club. Mrs. Kennett, who was Miss Isabella Smith of Chicago, turned in a card of 82, leading her nearest competitor, Mrs. Thurston Harris, formerly Miss Sallie Ainslie of Westward-Ho, the Chicago champion, by ten strokes.

Miss Katharine Forrest of Skokie was third with 94, and Mrs. E. T. Perkins of Glenview Club, Chicago, a former champion of Southern California, was fourth with 96. Mrs. W. France Anderson of Hinsdale Club, Chicago, champion of 1908, had a narrow escape, getting the sixteenth position after the play off of a tie at 104 with Mrs. W. L. De Wolf of the Onwentsia Club, Chicago.

A chilly breeze from the north swept the course, which, after the rain of Monday, was very slow. Under these conditions Mrs. Kennett gave a fine display, her total for the 6,125-yard course being only six strokes over the men's par of 76.

Prepare for Big Polo Crowd.

Special to The New York Times.

CEDARHURST, L. I., Sept. 13.—Arrangements are being made by the Rockaway Hunt Club to handle one of the largest crowds to-morrow that has ever been present here to witness a polo game. The large crowd that was present at the Meadow Brook game last Saturday has convinced those in charge of polo here that a much larger crowd will attend to-morrow to see the second game of the series that will be played between the English team and a team from the Rockaway Club. The game will be played on the large field facing the clubhouse, which has been put in first-class condition for the event. After the game the Ranelagh team will be the guests of the club at a banquet held in their honor in the evening at the clubhouse. The four who will represent the Ranelagh team are Reve Grenfell, F. Grenfell, Lord Rocksavage, and F. A. Gill. Rockaway will be represented by Rene La Montagne, J. E. Cowdin, M. Stevenson, and J. Cheever Cowdin. W. A. Hazard will act as referee. The game to be called at 4 o'clock.

DIXIE II. TO RETIRE.

F. K. Burnham, Her Owner, Will Build a New Dixie for Future Racing.

F. K. Burnham, owner of the international motor boat cup winner, Dixie II., has announced that he will take the powerful 250 horse power engine out of Dixie this Winter and substitute an engine of lower power, as he intends to use Dixie II. as a runabout.

Mr. Burnham does not intend to quit racing, however, but he believes that a boat of the now common type is not capable of the highest possible speed, so he will turn his interest to hydroplanes in the future.

He may have a duplicate of the present engine in Dixie made and install both the old and the new one in a hydroplane which he expects to build this Winter.

Motor boat men in general will be sorry to hear that Dixie II. is to retire from the field of active racing, as she is the most popular speed boat ever built. In the three seasons that Dixie has been racing she has won the greatest number of prizes ever annexed by a motor boat. Twice she defended the British Trophy, twice she won the Gold Cup race on the Thousand Islands, twice she proved herself National champion on the Hudson River, and this year she won the Great Lakes championship at Buffalo. There are also a number of less important prizes to her credit, for she has only been defeated once, and that was by a 500-horse-power fifty-foot hull at Monaco in 1909. She has started in nearly 100 races, a record that has never been approached by any other motor boat, large or small.

Mr. Burnham states that he will call his new boat Dixie IV., as the present Dixie is really the third hull of that name, the first being owned by E. R. Thomas of New York City, who had a 150-horse-power Simplex engine in her. Mr. Thomas disposed of the boat to E. J. Schroeder after using her only once. Mr. Schroeder took Dixie to England and captured the Harmsworth Trophy with her in 1907. The next year Mr. Schroeder built a new Dixie and called her Dixie II., the original Dixie being sold to a St. Louis man. Dixie II. successfully defended the Harmsworth Trophy in a race against the Duke of Westminster's Woolesley-Siddeley in Huntington Harbor in 1908.

In 1909 Mr. Schroeder laid a new hull built for Dixie II.'s engine and raced her at Monaco, where the rough water materially interfered with her speed proclivities. After Dixie II.'s return to this country she was sold to F. K. Burnham early this year.

SONDER YACHTS PICKED.

MARBLEHEAD, Mass., Sept. 13.—The three yachts which are to represent America in the German-American sonder races at Kiel, Germany, next June were announced to-day by the Regatta Committee of the Eastern Yacht Club. They are Beaver, owned by George C. Dabney and others of the Beverly Yacht Club, Buzzard's Bay, Mass.; Bibelot, owned by Harry Payne Whitney of the New York Yacht Club and Robert W. Emmons of the Beverly Yacht Club; Cima, owned by Guy Lowell of the Eastern Yacht Club, Marblehead, Mass.

The selection was made on the basis of the showing of the boats in a series of trial races held in Buzzard's Bay last month.

The international races at Kiel will be held about the middle of June, 1911.

WOMEN ON TENNIS COURTS.

Engage in First Round of Singles for New Jersey State Title.

Displaying dash and slashing strokes the women made their appearance in the New Jersey State championship lawn tennis tournament yesterday, Miss Esther Smith of the Longwood Club of Boston winning her place in the semi-final round. At clean hitting combined with marvelous shooting for placement the Boston girl seemed easily to surpass any of the others of the field, and she should make a strong bid for the championship title in the challenge match, provided her skill carries her that far, in meeting Miss Marie Wagner, the State holder and former National indoor champion. Miss Smith won two splendidly played matches, first defeating Mrs. Alan Church in two love sets and then Miss Ina A. Kissell, 6—1, 6—2. In the first round Miss Elizabeth C. Bunce, the former Hudson River champion, won her match in excellent style. Her game was prettily balanced between the net and base line, so that she defeated Mrs. J. A. S. Hopkins, 6—1, 6—2.

The summary:

New Jersey State Championship Women's Singles.—First Round—Miss Elizabeth C. Bunce defeated Mrs. J. A. S. Hopkins, 6—1, 6—2; Mrs. Walter C. Aufferman defeated Miss Marjory Pierson, 6—2, 6—2; Miss Esther Smith defeated Mrs. Alan Church, 6—0, 6—0. Second Round—Miss Esther Smith defeated Miss Ina A. Kissell, 6—1, 6—2.

Suffolk County Fair Racing.

RIVERHEAD, L. I., Sept. 13.—There was a record crowd here at the Suffolk County Fair's opening to-day. The weather was exceedingly fine, and many took advantage of it to visit the fair ground and see the display, because usually there is a day or two of stormy weather during fair week that spoils the calculations of visitors. There was a large display of products, and the household arts exhibit was especially fine.

The fact that three good races were down for decision had a tendency to bring out big crowds of those who admire the work of harness horses. The events were:

MELLEN NOW HEADS BOSTON & MAINE

Tuttle Resigns and Head of New Haven Road Succeeds Him as Acting President.

THE CHANGE LONG EXPECTED

Mellen Issues Statement Saying Better Service Asked for by Massachusetts Governor Will Be Given.

BOSTON, Sept. 13.—Lucius Tuttle to-day resigned the Presidency of the Boston & Maine Railroad, and Charles S. Mellen, President of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, is to-night Acting President of the Boston & Maine, with all the powers of President. The retirement from office of the man who for seventeen years has been at the head of the great railway system of Northern New England became a fact at the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Boston & Maine Railroad held at the North Station in this city to-day. Mr. Tuttle, who is 64 years old and has been connected with railways since 1865, retires on account of ill health and because he believes the New Haven Company should assume the direct responsibility of the administration of the Boston & Maine.

Ever since the New Haven Company acquired actual control of the Boston & Maine system there has been a general expectation that President Tuttle would retire at an early date. At the last annual meeting of the company Mr. Tuttle announced that he believed that the time had arrived for the New Haven Company to take the active direction of the Boston & Maine, but in compliance with the request of the New Haven Board of Directors he consented to remain as President for another year. Frequent reports of his resignation since that time have been emphatically denied, and his retirement to-day surprised the community.

When the Board of Directors met today President Tuttle presented a communication referring to his desire to relinquish the management of the road a year ago to President Mellen of the New Haven Company, and asking that he be relieved of his duties for the remainder of his term. The Directors passed a vote expressive of their regret at President Tuttle's decision and of their appreciation of his services. Leave of absence until the annual meeting of the company in 1911 was granted him and Charles S. Mellen was elected Acting President with all the power of President.

While no official statement on the matter of his continuing to serve as a Director of the Boston & Maine was issued, it is understood that Mr. Tuttle will remain a member of the board.

The placing of Mr. Mellen at the head of the Boston & Maine means the practical consummation of the merger of that road with the New Haven Railroad, which has generally been accepted as a fact for the last year or more. The movement for this merger began when the New Haven Railroad purchased a controlling ownership of the Boston & Maine stock. When the Massachusetts courts practically forced it to relinquish this stock it was sold to John L. Billard of Meriden, Conn., and later acquired by the Boston Railroad Holding Company, the organization of which for this express purpose was authorized by the last session of the Massachusetts Legislature.

Holding this stock as security, the holding company was authorized to issue bonds to the amount of $2,000,000, the proceeds of their sale to be used for the improvement of the property of the Boston & Maine Company. These bonds, by the terms of the legislative act, could be sold to any railroad company operating in New England, and they were purchased by the New Haven Company. Thus the New Haven Railroad is owner in all but name of the Boston & Maine.

President Mellen after becoming Acting President of the Boston & Maine Railroad, issued a statement promising an improvement in the general service of the road, and announcing a change in rates for carrying milk. After declaring that many complaints of the service of the Boston & Maine had been received, Mr. Mellen said:

"The Governor of the State has called on us, as controlling that railroad, to give the people better service and see that the conditions upon that property are promptly improved. The people have a right to good service and we will try to satisfy them. It will take much time and patience to work out many of the problems that have been called to our attention, and we ask consideration of the public meanwhile."

In regard to the transportation of milk, President Mellen said that a new milk tariff will be put into effect as soon as possible, but that the rates "are not remunerative and should be regarded as only temporary." He says that the company will submit the whole question of milk rates in Massachusetts to the railroad commissioners and will petition them to name such rates as in its judgment should hereafter prevail, which rates will be made effective promptly upon receipt of the commission's recommendations.

NAME STOVER IN GRAFT CASE.

Bridge Stand Keepers Say Commissioner Told Them "to See Katz."

Commissioner of Accounts Fosdick brought out yesterday, at his first hearing on the graft charges in connection with the revocation of the permit held by John Antanopoulos for the operation of a fruit, candy, and soft drink stand under the Manhattan terminal of the Brooklyn Bridge, evidence that the Greek and his relatives are not to be shaken on their original allegations.

Antanopoulas himself identified Alfred Katz, a real estate dealer of 132 Nassau Street, as the man who told him that the "thing could be fixed up" by the payment of $1,000, and his brother testified that he was present when Park Commissioner Stover advised the visit to Katz.

The three Katz brothers, Jacob, Harry, and Alfred, had been summoned as witnesses by Commissioner Fosdick, and had all denied that they knew anything about the permit, when Antanopoulos was called. He declared that after his permit was revoked he had called upon the Park Commissioner with his brother and had been advised to "see a man named Katz at 132 Nassau Street."

"I did, and he told me that by paying $1,000 I could get the permit renewed," was the reply.

"Could you identify this man if you saw him?"

"I can. There he sits over there," and the witness pointed to Alfred Katz, who was sitting with his two brothers on a rear bench.

Katz was then recalled and denied most emphatically that he had ever seen the Greek before.

The hearing will be continued to-day.

The said premises and property will be sold subject to the mortgage dated November 1st, 1879, made by said International & Great Northern Railroad Company to John S. Kennedy and Samuel Sloan, as Trustees, and known as said Railroad Company's First Mortgage, and subject also to any unpaid indebtedness or liability contracted or incurred by said International & Great Northern Railroad Company in the operation of its Railroad, which the Court has, since the entry of said decree herein, ordered or decreed, or which it may hereafter order or decree herein, to be prior or superior to the lien of the said mortgage dated June 15th, 1881, except such as shall be paid or satisfied out of the income of the property in the hands of the Receiver herein under orders of the Court entered or to be entered herein; and subject also to such debts, claims, liens and demands of whatsoever nature heretofore incurred or created, or which may hereafter be incurred or created by the Receiver herein under orders of the Court heretofore or hereafter entered herein and which have not been or shall not hereafter be paid by said Receiver under orders of the Court heretofore or hereafter entered herein, or other parties in interest herein; or out of the proceeds of the said sale as in said decree directed; and certain specific portions of said property and premises, namely: The San Antonio Passenger Station, the Colorado Bridge and certain equipment, will be sold respectively subject to the existing recorded mechanic's lien, the First Mortgage Colorado Bridge Bonds and the unsatisfied recorded equipment liens, specifically and respectively affecting the same.

The Master Commissioner will receive no bid from any person until such person shall have deposited with him the sum of $100,000. Such deposit will be returned in case the depositor's bid be not accepted; but if his bid be accepted, then such deposit will be held by the Master Commissioner on account of the purchase price.

The purchaser, when the property is struck down to him, shall at once pay the Master Commissioner on account of his purchase a sufficient sum to make up with his deposit ten per centum of his accepted bid. The deposit required before bidding shall be paid in United States currency or in such certified draft, certificate or cheque as may be satisfactory to the Master Commissioner, or in a certificate of The Farmers' Loan and Trust Company duly made payable to the order of said Master Commissioner. Said further payment shall be made either as aforesaid, or in the bonds and coupons secured by the said mortgage dated June 15th, 1881, taken at a valuation equal to the amount which said bonds and coupons would be entitled to receive on account of the amount bid for the said property. The certificate of the said The Farmers' Loan and Trust Company that it holds bonds and coupons as therein described subject to the order of the party named therein, such certificate being by him transferred to the order of said Master Commissioner, will be accepted in lieu of such bonds and coupons. Should such further payment not be made, the property will be forthwith resold, without further advertisement, the Court reserving the right to consider such resale made on account of said successful bidder or as an original sale, and in case of such resale, the deposit received from the said successful bidder will be applied on account of the purchase price. Such further portions of the purchase price shall be paid in money as the Court may from time to time direct, the Court reserving the right to resell the premises and property herein directed to be sold upon the failure of the purchaser or purchasers, his, its or their successors or assigns, to comply with any order of the Court in that regard, and in case of any such resale or the failure of the said purchaser or purchasers, his, its or their assigns, to comply with the terms of the bid or the orders of the Court relative to such additional payments, the said money, bonds and coupons so paid in as aforesaid shall be forfeited as liquidated damages and shall be applied toward the expenses of any resale ordered, or toward making good any deficiency or loss in case the property at such resale shall bring less than at the prior sale. The balance of the purchase price may be paid either in money or in bonds or overdue coupons secured by the said mortgage dated June 15th, 1881, each said bond and coupon being received for such sum as the holder thereof would be entitled to receive under the distribution herein ordered and according to the priority herein adjudged. The certificate of the said The Farmers' Loan and Trust Company that it holds bonds and coupons as therein described subject to the order of the party named therein, said certificate being by him transferred to the order of said Master Commissioner, will be accepted in lieu of such bonds and coupons.

Within thirty days from the confirmation of said sale or such further time as the Court may allow on application of the purchaser for good cause shown, the purchaser or purchasers, his, its or their successors and assigns, shall complete payment of the entire amount bid to the Master Commissioner; and on such payment the said purchaser or purchasers, his, its or their successors or assigns, will be entitled to receive a deed of conveyance and bill of sale of the property purchased from the Master Commissioner and from the other parties to this cause as in said decree herein provided, and to receive possession of the property so purchased from the parties holding possession of the same, subject, however, to the said mortgage, dated November 1st, 1879, made by said International & Great Northern Railroad Company to John S. Kennedy and Samuel Sloan, as Trustees, and known as said Railroad Company's First Mortgage; and subject also to any unpaid indebtedness or liability contracted or incurred by said International & Great Northern Railroad Company in the operation of its Railroad, which the Court, since the entry of the said decree herein has ordered or decreed, or which it may hereafter order or decree herein, to be prior or superior to the lien of said mortgage dated June 15th, 1881, except such as shall be paid or satisfied out of the income of the property in the hands of the Receiver herein under orders of the Court entered or to be entered herein, and subject also to such debts, claims, liens and demands of whatsoever nature heretofore incurred or created, or which may hereafter be incurred or created by the Receiver herein under orders of the Court heretofore or hereafter entered herein, and which have not been or shall not hereafter be paid by said Receiver under orders of the Court heretofore or hereafter entered herein, or other parties in interest herein, or out of the proceeds of said sale, as in said decree directed, and subject also, as to certain specific portions of said property and premises, namely, the San Antonio Passenger Station, the Colorado Bridge and certain equipment, to the existing recorded mechanic's lien, the First Mortgage Colorado Bridge Bonds and the unsatisfied recorded equipment lien specifically and respectively affecting the same. And the Court reserves jurisdiction over said property, notwithstanding such deed or deeds or delivery of possession, for the purpose of enforcing such payment.

For a more detailed statement of the terms and conditions under which said sale will be made, reference is hereby made to the said decrees and each and every one of them on file with the Clerks of the several Courts hereinbefore mentioned.

HYDE ESTATE NOW $2,009,653

RIVERHEAD, L. I., Sept. 13.—James Hazen Hyde, formerly of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, has petitioned Surrogate Nicoll for a judicial settlement of his father's estate, and the Surrogate has set the case down for Oct. 10 for a hearing.

The elder Hyde owned a handsome country home at Babylon. His property went to his widow and to the son, James Hazen Hyde. According to papers filed in the Surrogate's Court to-day, the present value of the estate is $2,009,653. It is for the purpose of liquidating the estate that the son has asked the Surrogate to set a date for a hearing. The citation is returnable on Oct. 10.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Importers Win Lower Rates of Duty on Linen Drawnwork Articles.

Robert McBratney and other importers of this city won a customs victory yesterday when the Board of United States General Appraisers handed down a decision reversing the action of Collector Loeb in assessing a high rate of duty on drawnwork articles. The Collector classified the merchandise as "manufactures of flax, or wearing apparel, in imitation of lace or embroidery," with duty at the rate of 60 per cent.

The importers' contention was that the drawnwork was properly entitled to enter as "flax articles" under Paragraph 346 of the Dingley Tariff act of 1897, or as "wearing apparel" under Paragraph 314 of that act. Under both contentions advanced by the importers, the duties would be lower than under the classification imposed by the Collector.

The question of the classification appears from the decision of the board, written by General Appraiser Cooper to turn largely on the weight of the goods and the stitch count. The board finds that the weight of the goods per square yard and the count of threads per square inch are correctly stated on the invoices, and that the articles in question in the remaining protests weigh less than 4½ ounces per square yard and count more than 100 threads per square inch.

General Appraiser Cooper, in sustaining the protests, holds that a portion of the goods covered by a report from Appraiser Wanmaker and returned as wearing apparel or neckwear is properly dutiable at the rate of 50 per cent. under Paragraph 314, and the remainder of the merchandise at the appropriate rates under Paragraph 346, according to weight and count.

"My Son Having Failed Completely in his preliminary examinations for college, entered your school and in one year he covered two regular school years of work as is done at most schools, and not only passed his examinations easily for college, but also with credit to himself and his school."

This extract of a letter from the mother of a recent student is one of a hundred or more, valued by Mr. Groff, showing the high grade of success he has had for thirteen years, following the idea that the individual, and not the class, is the unit.

Timid, nervous and backward boys are encouraged and taught how to study. Bright boys advanced rapidly and thoroughly. No cramming. Secret is to make an hour count for an hour under expert teachers and an up-to-date system. The definite policy is to gain the real interest of the boys in their work, thereby making petty restrictions unnecessary.

Mr. Groff's close personal attention devoted to the two schools. Headmasters of both schools now in their offices.

Ethical Culture School

Kindergarten, Elementary
High School and Normal Departments
Founded thirty-one years ago by Felix Adler.

To meet the growing demand for places in our Elementary School, steps have been taken to accommodate about forty more pupils than formerly in Grades III—VII inclusive. Parents wishing to take advantage of this enlargement should apply without delay.

A Country Camp, to promote outdoor life and interest;

Direct and specific ethical instruction by Dr. John Lovejoy Elliott;

The democratic ideal maintained by a system of scholarships which afford the advantage of contact with companions in different financial circumstances.

In the upper grades and the High School, classes do not exceed 20 pupils; thus the instructors are able to give proper attention to individuals. By means of a broad course of study, a large and well trained teaching staff, and a complete modern equipment in all departments, the School prepares students for various life callings as well as for any college or technical institution.

The School has certificate privileges in colleges where certificate are accepted.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

ADVANCE ON MAINE VOTE

The response of the stock market yesterday to the striking Democratic victory in Maine was an advance all along the line in prices and an expansion in trading to a volume which while not large in itself was far beyond anything witnessed on the Stock Exchange in recent weeks. At the opening the traders whose operations made up the bulk of the transactions through the prolonged dull period were disposed to sell stocks upon the unexpected turn of events in Maine, but it became apparent very quickly that offerings of this kind were readily absorbed and that the success of the Democrats had in no wise disturbed the larger interests of the financial district. Short sales were promptly covered and upon general buying prices rose sharply, and with the exception of a short interval of profit-taking late in the afternoon maintained the advance to the close, when in a majority of instances gains ran to a point or more. There were no particular features; the demand seemed to embrace the leading railroad stocks and a number of the better industrials, the latter being helped presumably by the publication of annual statements by several industrial concerns showing fair returns for a year of rather quiet business.

It is probable that the stock market's reception of the results in Maine is a fair reflection of the opinion of the financial community as a whole upon that election. It is even safe to argue that a repetition of the outcome there in other States will be similarly greeted, for the reason that Wall Street has come to the conclusion that the implied rebuke to the Republican Party will have a chastening influence upon it in respect to a number of policies much disliked generally and may possibly insure the election of a sufficient number of Democratic Congressmen to bring about a practical deadlock between the two parties in Congress. It was at least along these lines that Wall Street's reasoning proceeded yesterday, and unless it exercises the privilege which it always reserves of changing its mind without notice it may be that from this time forward politics will become a less important factor in market affairs than heretofore. Other matters engaging attention, while overshadowed by the news from Maine, included the August report of the Bureau of Statistics on exports of domestic products, which was unexpectedly favorable solely because of an increase of $12,000,000 in cotton shipments over the exports of that staple in the same months of 1909. This enlargement of cotton exports was the only expansion disclosed by the report, and its value as an indication of the character of the forthcoming August statement on our complete foreign trade is diminished by reason of the confused cotton trade of that month with its almost unprecedented imports of cotton in connection with the manipulation on the Cotton Exchange.

No changes of importance were noted in the money market position. Rates on time loans for certain maturities were somewhat easier but not notably so, and the banks again reported substantial losses to the Sub-Treasury on routine transactions. Foreign exchange was once more firm, with demand sterling up 10 points on the day. In London carrying-over charges on American stocks were level with those on domestic issues for the first time in a number of months, and the Stock Exchange there was unusually strong in consequence of the cheerful appraisal of the Maine election results by our own market.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 13.—Lehigh Valley lifted sharply to-day into new high territory for the present movement. Several important houses figured in the transactions, which, of course, were accompanied by a variety of more or less reliable rumors. Nobody apparently doubted that an increase would be ordered, and the exact amount seemed to be the only problem.

CHICAGO STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—Swifts stock opened at 101⅞, a decline of ⅛, then dropped another ⅛. Sears-Roebuck was slightly firmer. People's Gas was ⅛ lower, McCrum-Howell unchanged and Commonwealth Edison steady. Comparatively little change was noted in quotations up to the noon hour. A fair business was done. Swifts held about steady at the early decline. Can shares were up ⅛ on the common and ¼ on the preferred. Brick was off ⅞ on a few transactions. Sears dropped back to 157¼. Title and Trust was traded in at a 2 point gain. There was some selling of Chicago Railways, Series 2, and the price set a new low record.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Tuesday.

The market on the Consolidated Stock Exchange broadened out decidedly, with commission house business showing a substantial enlargement, indicating a revival of public interest. Following a period of hesitation in the first half hour, the whole list strengthened. Traders who had sold short, when they found that all offerings had been readily absorbed, quickly shifted position, and became active bidders for stocks, with prices advancing rapidly. Transactions totaled 76,100 shares, with fifty-one different stocks represented on the list.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

More Rate Increases to Come.

President Ripley of the Atchison said yesterday that the Western rate increase investigation, which is to be resumed by the Inter-State Commerce Commission on Sept. 19, is doing little more, so far as the railroads are concerned, than establishing the need on the part of the railroads of higher rates. The rate increases which have been announced, and upon which the formal investigation is being carried on, are only a small part of the increases planned, and which the railroads will have to get, Mr. Ripley says, to meet the situation with which they are confronted. In the testimony the railroads have presented, and which they will present when the hearings are resumed, they are endeavoring to establish the principle that the railroads are entitled to an increase in rates. When this is established there will remain the work of applying this principle to many other schedules than those in which the Western roads have already announced proposed increases. The same situation applies in a modified degree to the Eastern roads. While the railroads in the trunk line territory have made a much more general increase in rates, there are still some schedules which they propose to increase, as was indicated in yesterday's testimony in the Inter-State Commerce hearing in this city.

⁂

On another point in which the banking community is much interested at present, President Ripley said that the railroads are fully prepared to take their full share of responsibility. This was in reference to bills of lading, in respect to which differences of opinion have arisen between our own bankers and those abroad accustomed to accept drafts against American cotton bills of lading. Mr. Ripley said that his road had never repudiated a bill of lading issued by its agents on the ground that the agent had signed the bill before the actual delivery of the merchandise to the railroad. Rather than seek to escape responsibility on any such ground, Mr. Ripley said, the Atchison in a single case lately had assumed a loss of $60,000. Mr. Ripley said he did not expect any trouble in moving this year's cotton crop on account of the bill-of-lading matter. The railroads, he said, were prepared to take all the responsibility in this matter which they properly could assume. Under the validation scheme which the railroads have put into effect it is considered that bills of lading have been made as safe as any such document can be made.

Cotton Exports.

One of the interesting features of the trade movement figures for August wired from Washington yesterday was the large increase in exports of cotton, the total of $19,167,248 being $12,004,525 greater than August last year. The large total of cotton, which was chiefly responsible for the better showing of domestic exports during the month, is, of course, rather the result of the successful bull campaign on the Cotton Exchange carried to the end of August than to trade conditions. The Port of New York became the greatest cotton shipping centre in the country during the midsummer period, as the cotton accumulated here to satisfy the July and August contracts was sent out of the market by the buyers.

Another Fruit Company Distribution.

The United Fruit Company, which distributed 10 per cent. to stockholders in the form of a stock dividend in 1908, and again in 1909, has called a special meeting of stockholders for Oct. 14 to vote on another increase in the capital for the purpose of a further distribution. The increase in capital is to be from $25,000,000 to $35,000,000, and the stockholders are to vote on offering themselves the privilege of subscribing to 10 per cent. of the new stock at par. In the previous distributions of stock at par dividends in cash were declared to enable stockholders to pay for the new stock.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Eugene Meyer, Jr., & Co. announce that the $500,000 Bingham & Garfield Railway first mortgage 6 per cent. convertible bonds offered by them have been sold.

The Protective Committee, of which Otto T. Bannard is Chairman, representing bonds of the Sedalia Light and Traction Company, announces that $329,600 par value of the bonds have been deposited with the New York Trust Company, and $152,000 have been deposited in Chester, Penn., under an agreement to act in concert with the committee. The time for making further deposits has been extended to Sept. 27.

E. S. Mendels, Jr., will start for Los Angeles, Cal., on Sept. 20 to attend the American Mining Congress to be held there on Sept. 26. Mr. Mendels will represent a number of Wall Street firms having in mind the placing on the Curb of mining properties. Any house desiring to be represented at the Congress is invited to communicate with the Curb agent at 6 Wall Street.

THE COMMODITIES MARKETS.

The feature of the early trade was the immense increase in the European visible. The figures showed a gain of 12,148,000 bushels with the total European visible 85,576,000 bushels, against 54,400,000 last year. Later Bradstreet's visible made a record-breaking increase of 15,391,000 bushels, compared with 7,873,000 bushels' increase a year ago. These tremendous gains resulted in a little selling movement, but there was no volume of wheat on the market, and the fact of an important decrease in Western receipts for the day seemed to very largely offset the tremendous gains in stocks resulting from previous receipts. The day's receipts were only one-half of last year's, and two days' movement has decreased 1,000,000 bushels, compared with a year ago. The official Canadian report made the total crop 122,744,000 bushels, of which 99,890,000 bushels were raised in Western Canada. Last year the official total was 166,744,000 bushels. On the decline there was absence of cash interest, and no export business was reported. Cash wheat quoted No. 2 red Winter, $1.03⅝ elevator; No. 2 red, spot, nominal, new, $1.04 free on board, afloat, for export; No. 1 Northern Spring, $1.22⅛ nominal; No. 2 hard Winter, new, $1.05; No. 1 Northern, Manitoba, $1.11⅝.

The weather map showed no frosts in the corn States, and corn was active and lower early, but later steadied as the weather was generally quite cool in the Northwest and Canada. The Iowa official report stated that one-third of the crop was safe from severe frost. Later a report by a Western expert claimed that the crop would be cut short 400,000,000 bushels by a severe frost. Western receipts continue liberal, however. Bradstreet's visible increased 746,000 bushels. Cash corn was quiet with no export business reported. Cash corn quoted No. 2, 65½c nominal, elevator, to arrive, cost, insurance, and freight, domestic basis, and steamer nominal, elevator export basis.

Oats were quiet and a little easier with other grain. There was a decrease of only 1,683,000 bushels, in the visible, compared with 5,972,000 bushels' increase last week, and there was a further falling off in the interior movement resulting in a steadier tone in cash oats. Cash oats quoted standards, 38½c; No. 2 white, 39½c; No. 3 white, 38½c; No. 4 white, 38c; natural white, 38@39c; white clipped, 39@42½c.

Provisions were dull and weaker. There seemed to be considerable speculative realising and pressure on the market, while hogs were lower. There was some selling, induced it was claimed, by the indictment of the packers.

COTTON.

Price fluctuations in cotton were narrow and without tendency. There was a little buying during the morning on the reported storm off the Texas Coast and the display of storm warnings, but the later Western weather predictions did not forecast serious conditions in Texas, and the weather report ceased to have much effect. The weather conditions elsewhere in the belt were favorable, and there is tendency to increase the estimates of the possible crops. Receipts are increasing both at the interior and at the ports, and as the season advances the gains will be still more rapid. Trade conditions show but little change. Cables indicated continued uneasiness regarding the Manchester labor situation. Stocks were again reduced, losing about 6,000 bales for the day, and have decreased 89,000 bales in a week. Bull interests are rapidly distributing the cotton. Export demand is of fair volume. The Texas weather bulletin stated that 85 per cent. of the stations reported rainfall during the week, and the precipitation was quite heavy and general. Opinions differed as to the efficacy of the rain as a factor in increasing the ultimate outcome of the Texas crop. Southern spot markets were dull and unchanged to ⅙c lower.

COFFEE.

Coffee developed renewed strength on fresh buying. Sensational strength at Havre was attributed to very bullish conditions in the primary markets, although the Brazilian movement was reported heavier, with the official cables indicating rain in all districts of Sao Paulo. The market opened firm at an advance of 5@12 points and closed steady at a net gain of 20@26 points. Sales were reported of more than 80,000 bags.

The French market opened ¾@1f lower, but advanced very sharply and closed at a net gain of ¾@1f. Hamburg was ¼@¾ pfennig higher. The Brazilian markets were lower by 50 to 100 reis, but the rate of Brazilian exchange on London was 7-32d higher, at 18 7-32d. Spot coffee firm, 10½c for Rio No. 7. Contract prices follow:

AUGUST EXPORTS INCREASE.

Greater Than Any for Several Months and More Than Last August.

The country's exports of agricultural products during August, according to the returns made public yesterday by the Department of Commerce and Labor amounted to $45,671,277, which exceeds the total for each of the several preceding months as well as the total for August last year, when the exports of domestic products amounted to $36,121,876. For the eight months of the year, including August, the exports of agricultural products were $385,126,889 this year, compared with $431,900,000 last year and $525,000,000 the year before.

The increase in the August exports was due principally to a large increase in the month's exports of cotton, which amounted to $19,167,248, an increase of more than $12,000,000 over the cotton exports in August a year ago.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

A $2,500,000 Deal in the Chelsea District—$3,500 a Front Foot Paid for "Penn" Loft Zone Plot—25th Street Loft in Trade—Bronx and Suburban Deals.

A deal involving $2,500,000 in the Chelsea district has just been concluded whereby the Corporate Organization Company of 30 Broad Street has acquired from the Consolidated Gas Company the latter's extensive holdings on the west side, bordering the river from Sixteenth to Nineteenth Streets. The property includes three entire blocks, bounded on the west by Marginal Street, the new avenue recently cut through by the city bordering the new steamship piers of the recent Chelsea improvement, and extending to Tenth Avenue on the east.

The lower block of the three has a frontage of 286.2 feet on Sixteenth Street, 197.3 on Marginal Street, 357.3 on Seventeenth Street, and 184 feet on Tenth Avenue. The centre block has the same frontages on Tenth Avenue and Marginal Street, 380.5 on Seventeenth Street, and 451.6 on Eighteenth Street, while the northerly block has 474.8 on Eighteenth Street, 525 on Nineteenth Street, and dimensions similar to the other blocks on the avenues. Three small plots on the Nineteenth Street side of the largest block, having a combined frontage of 125 feet, are not included in the transaction, being held by other owners. The square feet included in the blocks, beginning with the most southerly, are, respectively, 59,201 feet, 76,545 feet, and 81,829 feet, a total of 217,575 square feet for the three blocks.

The Corporate Organization Company, which has acquired the property for high-class improvement, is composed of a number of real estate men, of which Robert McM. Gillespie is the syndicate treasurer. A number of old buildings on the plots are now being removed. The parcels combined offer practically the largest available plot of river front property in the lower part of the city ready for immediate improvement for commercial uses or public institutions, and plans are already being worked out for some high-class development.

Diagonally opposite the lower extremity of the property is the big plant of the National Biscuit Company on the east side of Tenth Avenue, from Fifteenth to Sixteenth Street, while one block north is the General Theological Seminary, which occupies the entire block from Ninth to Tenth Avenues, Twentieth and Twenty-first Streets.

Marginal Street is a thoroughfare 225 feet wide, and immediately opposite the three blocks are the new piers of the Atlantic Transportation, the Red Star Line, and the White Star Line Companies.

$3,500 a Foot for "Penn." Terminal Zone Plot.

Klein & Jackson are the buyers of the plot at 261, 263, and 265 West Thirty-third Street, reported sold yesterday in this column by S. H. Stone and Jackson & Stein.

The buyers now control a plot, 100 by 100, on Thirty-third Street, with an outlet on Thirty-fourth Street. It was said in realty circles yesterday that the price paid was about $3,500 a front foot.

Buys West Side Residence.

Slawson & Hobbs have sold for Mrs. W. Virginia Hill to a client for occupancy the three-story and basement brownstone and brick dwelling, 162 West Eighty-fifth Street, on plot 18.9 by 55 by 102.2.

Trades 25th Street Loft.

An important exchange in which property valued at more than $400,000 changed hands has just been consummated between the Twenty-fifth Street Construction Company, Henry L. Felt, President, and Morris Bloch of M. Bloch & Co., waist manufacturers. Mr. Bloch acquires the new twelve-story loft recently completed by the Construction Company at 152 to 156 West Twenty-fifth Street, on plot 50 by 93.9, near Seventh Avenue, which figured in the deal at about $280,000. In part exchange Mr. Bloch gives two six-story apartment houses, each covering a plot 42 by 97, at 806 to 812 Sixth Street, between Lewis Street and Avenue D. The latter property figured in the trade at about $150,000.

Old 28th Street Dwellings Sold.

Charles H. Freeman has sold to an operator 252 and 254 West Twenty-eighth Street, a plot 49.9 by 98.9. The property is covered with old four-story front and rear buildings, and is located about 150 feet east of Eighth Avenue. Ames & Co. were the brokers in the deal.

East Side Flat in Trade.

Henry Schultz has sold 177 East Ninety-sixth Street, a five-story flat, on lot 23 by 100.11, adjoining the northwest corner of Third Avenue. Mr. Schultz takes in exchange the two-story building on plot 75 by 100, at 103 to 107 West 108th Street, near Columbus Avenue.

Construction Co. Buys Heights Plot.

The Woodmont Realty Company has sold to the Sun Construction Company, of which Benjamin Nieberg is President, the northwest corner of Edgecombe Avenue and 165th Street, a plot 80 by 140 by 100 by 116.

The buyers will break ground at once for a six-story elevator apartment house. William S. Baker negotiated the sale.

Buy Harlem Block Front.

S. H. Raphael and J. G. Bassman have sold for Schmeidler & Bachrach to a builder the block frontage on the west side of Fifth Avenue from 138th to 139th Street, a plot 200 feet front by 100 feet deep. The property is to be improved. The price paid by the buyers is said to be about $160,000.

$400,000 Mortgage on Park Ave. Corner.

Arthur Curtiss James, Commodore of the New York Yacht Club, and J. Harper Poor, both of whom recently purchased portions of the old Union Theological Seminary grounds, occupying the block front on Park Avenue between Sixty-ninth and Seventieth Streets, took titles yesterday. Mr. James, who owns the Sixty-ninth Street corner, a plot 100.5 on the avenue and 125 on the street, gives back a mortgage of $400,000 for two years at 4½ per cent. Mr. Poor's plot is 150 feet west of the avenue, 25 by 100.5, on which is recorded a mortgage of $57,500. Adjoining this plot on the east is the lot acquired by Charles Lane Poor, and plans for private residences on these two plots have just been filed.

On the Park Avenue front will be two of the finest private homes in the city. Adjoining the Curtiss house will be the George Blumenthal house, on the Seventieth Street corner, equal in size to the Curtiss property. Plans are now being prepared for these houses, which will probably cost close to $500,000 apiece.

Bronx Sales.

Leo Levinson has sold, through Lautner & Blackner, the plot 50 by 100 on the south side of 156th Street, 47 feet east of Morris Avenue. The same firm of brokers has sold for Annie Jones the three-story dwelling, on lot 25 by 100, at the northwest corner of Valentine Avenue and Bedford Park Boulevard.

John A. Steinmetz and Charles B. Coulter have sold 2,319 Prospect Avenue, a three-story brick two-family house, to John McCarthy, who gives in part payment a dwelling on the west side of New York Avenue, 40 feet north of Remsen Street, at Jamaica, L. I.

Ten Beautiful Country Homes at

offered at special sale on Sept. 17th
30 to 40% less than actual value.

SUPPOSING: A responsible, reliable person offered you a deal that would net you from 30 to 40% on the investment;

SUPPOSING: you were satisfied, beyond a shadow of doubt, that the transaction was absolutely safe and honest;

WOULD YOU NOT borrow the money, if necessary, to close the transaction, and increase your assets?

"WELL," We offer you such an opportunity, and back our statement with our reputation.

We will have completed and offer at special sale

TEN MAGNIFICENT HOMES

We give with each house a plot of land worth from $6,000 to $10,000.

This sale will nearly close out Plandome Heights, the development of which we commenced this Spring. Before the improvements were under way, already over one-half of the property was disposed of; to-day only a few one-quarter-acre plots remain unsold. A certain proof of quality.

This is a rare opportunity to secure at 30 to 40% less than actual value a refined, elegant home in beautiful and exclusive neighborhood. All improvements are there.

THE FINEST RESIDENTIAL BUILDING IN THE WORLD

THESE APARTMENTS EXPRESS EVERY EXCLUSIVE AND LUXURIOUS FEATURE OF THE FINEST PRIVATE RESIDENCE

The rooms are all light—many of the suites having four exposures. In most of the suites all of the sleeping and living rooms face the street, none open on the court. The entertaining rooms, including a Living Room 19x30, Music Room 25x17, Library or Billiard Room 18x17, and Reception Room 15x21, are arranged around a uniquely constructed conservatory. Any number of large closets—one specially for millinery, etc., divided into glass-partitioned compartments—open off from the sleeping rooms.

A kitchen 13x20, probably the largest in any apartment house in New York, completely fitted out, and excellent accommodations for the servants, largely eliminates the servant troubles. Additional rooms can be rented.

Inspect one or two of the apartments that we have remaining for lease at $6,500 and $7,000—suites including eleven to fourteen rooms and five bathrooms—and you will immediately realize the many decided advantages of these apartments over all others in New York.

By order of this court a sale of the assets of the above-named bankrupt will be had, and the assets sold at public auction on Monday, September 19th, 1910, at 10:30 A. M., by Charles Shongood, United States Auctioneer, at the place of business of the bankrupt, 515 West 29th Street, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York.

The property to be sold consists of a complete stock of moving picture machines and film, complete, semi-complete and parts thereof; original negative films, thousands of strips of films showing complete motion pictures. THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—The tropical storm is still moving very slowly southeast of the Texas coast, and, while high tides are reported from Pensacola to Galveston, the winds at the observing stations have not increased much in velocity.

The cool weather has now advanced eastward almost to the seaboard, and the fall in temperature is most pronounced in the lake region, the Ohio and St. Lawrence Valleys.

The temperature, however, has begun to rise again in the Northwest, and the high pressure area in the Northwest will probably control weather conditions throughout the country during the next two or three days.

Winds along the New England Coast will be moderate north; Middle Atlantic Coast moderate northeast; South Atlantic Coast, moderate variable, mostly northeast.

Steamships departing Wednesday for European ports will have moderate north winds, with generally fair weather to the Grand Banks.

FORECAST FOR TO-DAY AND THURSDAY.

Eastern New York, generally fair Wednesday and Thursday; cooler Wednesday in extreme south portion; moderate north winds.

New Jersey, generally fair Wednesday and Thursday; cooler Wednesday; moderate north winds.

New England, generally fair Wednesday and Thursday; cooler in south portion Wednesday; moderate north winds.

Eastern Pennsylvania, generally fair Wednesday and Thursday; cooler Wednesday in south portion; moderate north winds.

3 A. M.	62	63	4 P. M.	71	78
6 A. M.	62	63	6 P. M.	68	72
9 A. M.	66	68	9 P. M.	66	70
12 M.	69	76	12 P. M.	64	70

This thermometer is 108 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 71; for the corresponding date last year it was 67; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 67.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 66; at 8 P. M. it was 71. Maximum temperature, 79 degrees at 2 P. M.; minimum, 62 degrees at 3 A. M. Humidity, 73 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 57 per cent. at 8 P. M.

SEE BLACKMAILERS DYNAMITE A STORE

NEAR-BY BUILDINGS ROCK

Enrico Casabianca has a prosperous wine store at 982 Sixth Avenue, between Fifty-fifth and Fifty-sixth Streets; a fruit store at 284 Washington Street, and a home at 77 West Fifty-fifth Street. He is reputed to be wealthy, his stores offer an easy means through which blackmailers try to frighten their victims into paying money, and he has had so-called Black Hand demands for money, which he refused.

Last year he was asked to pay $5,000. He ignored the demand, and nothing happened. This year he was asked for $10,000. He again ignored the demand. Something did happen yesterday morning, and it chanced that there were two witnesses to the happening.

Thomas Larkin and Richard Aiken, night clerk and watchman employed in the Board of Health Building, at Sixth Avenue and Fifty-fifth Street, were standing on the front stoop of the office just before daylight. Just to the east of Sixth Avenue begins the well-to-do section that stretches over beyond Fifth Avenue. The upper end of Sixth Avenue itself is mainly devoted to stores that provide for this section, and just before dawn of any morning it is always quiet and almost deserted.

Larkin and Aiken saw a man come out of Fifty-fifth Street, stand watching the retreating form of a policeman who had just passed northward, and then wave his hands over his head. As the watchman and the night clerk didn't see anybody to whom this could be a signal, they thought the man was crazy. Before they could make any move to stop him he melted back into the darkness.

In a minute or so another man, who seemed to be an Italian, came out of Fifty-fifth Street, stood looking up and down Sixth Avenue, and then ran up several doors to the Casabianca wine store at 982. Two show windows bulge out on either side of the front door. Inside each of them was a tall rack filled with bottles of champagne, claret, burgundy, cordials, and other liquors. Behind the rows of bottles were gas lights to shine through them.

The man outside stepped between the bulging windows, stooped down, and then raced back around into Fifty-fifth Street. He had hardly turned the corner before Larkin and Aiken saw a red flash in front of the wine store, followed by a deafening crash and explosion. The plate glass windows fell into bits on the sidewalk. The bottles inside the windows were shattered, and a stream of mingled champagne, whisky, and liquor flowed out on the sidewalk.

The flash of the bomb had set fire to the woodwork at the bottom of the southerly window, and the flowing liquor made it burn all the faster. Larkin and Aiken turned in a fire alarm, and then organized a volunteer fire brigade among the quickly gathered crowd to fight the fire.

The explosion was felt nearly a mile away. Magistrate Corrigan who was standing on the steps of the Yorkville Court said he felt the tremor. The New York Athletic Club near by was shaken, and many people along Fifth Avenue and the side streets were awakened. The tenants of the floors above the stores in the neighborhood fled into the street in more or less scanty attire.

With buckets and dishpans the volunteer fire brigade put out the fire before the regular firemen arrived. Casabianca said that the explosion had damaged his place to the extent of several hundred dollars.

The case was turned over to the Detective Bureau. The detectives had little to work on. They could see the broken windows and the hole that the bomb had made in the iron plate in front of the door. Casabianca could not or would not tell them much. They have been informed that his family has been threatened with violence in case he doesn't pay blackmail.

HEIRESS NEEDN'T WORK.

Mrs. Curtiss Must Sell Her Yacht If Necessary to Support Her Daughter.

Hilda Charlotte Edgerton Morris, heiress to $3,000,000 and the nineteen-year-old daughter of the wealthy and eccentric Julia Watts Morris Curtiss, will not have to go to work. William Klein, appointed referee in the suit brought by the Lincoln Trust Company, guardian of the girl, against the conservators of Mrs. Curtiss's estate, handed down this decision yesterday.

Referee Klein directed that if necessary the conservators be directed to sell Mrs. Curtiss's yacht, the Osceola, to get funds for Miss Morris's support. The hard-hearted conservators made the suggestion through their counsel that Miss Morris go to work. Referee Klein pronounced the girl physically unable to work.

Mrs. Curtiss was adjudged incompetent some time ago by the Connecticut courts and a committee put in charge of her property. Her attempts to free herself from supervision have become a regular part of the routine work of the courts of this county. Of the $3,000,000 to which Miss Morris is heir, $2,000,000 is from the $6,000,000 estate of Mary G. Pinckney, which is held for Mrs. Curtiss during her life.

Peter Henry Morris, the girl's father, was divorced by the now Mrs. Curtiss in June, 1907, and she got the custody of three children, Louis H. Morris, Keith Watt Morris, and the daughter. Referee Klein refused to accede to the suggestion of counsel for the conservators that Miss Morris be sent to live with her mother. "The surroundings are not such," he said, "as would lead to the welfare * * * of said infant."

SHOWN BY TELEPHONE BOOK.

Lawyers Lead Professional Patrons, Classified Directory Says.

A new issue of the classified telephone directory, "The Red Book," is being distributed this week by the publishers, R. H. Donnelly of 227 Fulton Street, to telephone subscribers throughout Manhattan and the Bronx. It shows that lawyers lead the professions in point of number, there being about 9,000 of them. Physicians and surgeons are second, with 4,680. There are 503 nurses and 539 undertakers, 1,347 retail druggists, and 1,190 dentists.

Among business concerns real estate and realty companies stand first with 8,954, and insurance companies and brokers second, with 2,964. There are 2,340 saloons and cafés, 854 liquor dealers, and 1,356 cigar and cigarette manufacturers, importers, and dealers. Grocers, retail and wholesale, with 1,218, are slightly in excess of butchers, with 1,146; bankers and banks and trust companies number 814, and stock brokers 1,224. Under electrical headings 1,258 names appear. There are 754 architects, 677 builders, and 1,087 plumbers and gas fitters. Printers make a good showing with 1,256, while newspapers and periodicals, including special representatives of out-of-town publications, aggregate 840. Advertising agents number 488, as against 453 at the same time last year. Automobile garages, with 246, are still not as numerous as livery and boarding stables, which number 508.

This is the first directory to recognize flying machines and other aerial machines with the special heading of aviation. Five concerns are found listed here, as against two in the January issue.

EVILS OF PART-TIME SCHOOLS

Develop the "Street Habit" in the Pupils, Says Education Board.

School children on part time suffer from the "street habit," according to the finding of a special committee of the Board of Education, composed of Commissioners Abraham Stern, John Greene, and Frank D. Wilsey. The committee finds that as a general rule part time is highly injurious to pupils after they have advanced beyond the first year grades, and proceeds to name these chief evils from which the pupils suffer:

Through the abnormal amount of time spent in the street, intensification of what may be called the street habit—the habit that causes the boy to delight in listless looking on at the sights and sounds of the crowded street—the habit that leads to idleness and vagrancy, the habit that antagonizes the all-important habits of attention and concentration.

Loss of power, in the case of foreign-born children or of the children of foreign-born parents, in the use of the English language. Every reduction in the length of the school day means for such pupils a reduction in the time devoted to the hearing and correct practice of the English language. It is only by assiduous practice that the child of non-English-speaking parents overcomes his enormous linguistic difficulties. Part time reduces his opportunities for such practice.

Where part time exists beyond the first year grades there results for the average pupil lack of thoroughness in school studies. There is not time to do the work of the curriculum in a school day of three hours and a half, while the acquisitive powers of the mind are impaired by the "street habit." There are very bright pupils who suffer little from part time, but there can be no doubt that the lack of a full day's schooling is a serious drawback to the great mass of children who suffer from it.

The committee asserts that evils of part time have been somewhat reduced by the adoption of the plan of alternating the use of the classroom and the playground between two classes. This scheme, employed in many of the schools where part time exists, is worked out in this manner:

	Class. 1.	Class. 2.
8:30 to 9:30 A.M..	Room 103.	At 9:30 A.M.
9:30 to 10:30 A.M..	In yard.	In Room 103.
10:30 to 11:30 A.M..	Room 103.	In yard.
11:30 to 12:30 M..	Home.	Room 103.

The plan is feasible, however, the committee states, only where there is a large covered playground—so large that its constant occupation by part-time classes will not preclude its use at frequent intervals by other and generally much larger sections of the school. Such playgrounds are found, the committee states, only in connection with the newer school buildings.

Where there is not a large covered playground the only relief that has been offered, according to the committee, is to permit the two classes occupying the same room to alternate by weeks or months in using the forenoon session, to the end that one set of pupils may not be condemned to suffer the conceded disadvantage of afternoon work for an entire term.

The committee concludes by saying that the evils of part time can be eliminated only by the removal of their cause—part time itself. This can be accomplished permanently and effectually only in one way, the committee is assured—by the purchase of sites and the erection of buildings strictly in order of necessity.

COURT REBUKES DETECTIVE.

Judge Thought Evidence Was Changed to Shield Alleged Thieves.

Judge Rosalsky in General Sessions upbraided Detective Arthur Nelson of the Central Office yesterday, saying his conduct was not free from suspicion, and after directing Assistant District Attorney Jacoby to make a searching inquiry, directed the jury to acquit two prisoners, telling them that he knew them to be crooks, but that the testimony submitted by a member of the New York police force was so changed that he could not convict them. He then rebuked the counsel for the prisoners for inviting the complaining witness to his office for a conference.

John Kane of 238 West Forty-first Street and William Dunn of 35 Third Avenue, had been on trial for the larceny of jewelry and money amounting to $400, from Patrick White, a theatrical manager. Mr. White, who lives at the Hotel Normandie, had entered complaint of being held up and robbed at Seventh Avenue and Forty-third Street on the night of June 22.

Detective Nelson said in the police court that he had seen Kane pass something to another man and had seen Dunn running away.

When called to the witness stand yesterday, White denied that he knew that he had been robbed, but could not reconcile this statement to the one that he had made in the police court. He said that he was drunk at the time and when in that condition he had the habit of leaving his valuables with his friends. Nelson testified that he had not seen Kane pass anything nor had he seen Dunn run away. This testimony was a direct contradiction to that given in the police court.

"I am frank to tell you that I am very reluctant to accept your testimony here," observed Judge Rosalsky, addressing Nelson.

Nelson asked for a full investigation, saying that he had never been accused before. The Judge replied that the District Attorney would make a full investigation and report to the Police Commissioner.

"It looks to me as if an attempt had been made to shield two alleged thieves and this is the second time this sort of thing has happened in this court, and I do not intend to tolerate it at all," said the court sternly.

He then turned to the jury and instructed them to acquit the prisoners.

NURSES SUSPENDED

For Giving a Luncheon to the New Internes—Hostess Dismissed.

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 13.—A dainty luncheon for ten and an innocent appearing little item in a Paterson paper a few days ago have brought disaster on five nurses, members of the senior class of the Paterson General Hospital's Training School.

Recently there was a change of internes, those having served their time retiring, and their places being taken by newly graduated young doctors. Several of the nurses thought it would be real nice to entertain the newcomers at a luncheon. The luncheon was held at the home of a nurse whose home is in Paterson. There were five of the young doctors present, and a like number of nurses who were enjoying their leave of absence from their hospital duties.

A reporter heard of it and thought the item would tickle the vanity of the nurses, but instead it threw them into a panic and with reason, for Miss Eva Castles, the newly appointed Superintendent of the training school read the item and the nurse at whose home the affair was held was dismissed and the other four suspended for two months. All five were in their senior year.

Prizefighter Killed by Engine.

PERTH AMBOY, N. J., Sept. 13.—"Johnnie" Dwyer, a lightweight prize fighter of some repute, who sought and found employment here some three weeks ago as a brakeman in the yards of the Barber Asphalt Company's plant, was run over by a switch engine to-night at 7 o'clock. No one saw him fall under the engine, but it was supposed that he was jolted off the rear step of the locomotive while it was in motion. He was carried to the City Hospital, where both legs were amputated. He died at 8:45 o'clock. Dwyer lived in Hall Avenue. He was single and 25 years old.

SENATOR PIERANTONI TALKS OF BLACK HAND

Years of Investigation Have Convinced Him It Has No Widespread Existence.

CAMORRA DEAD YEARS AGO

He's a Royal Senator for Life, Noted Author, and Soldier—Here to Attend Prison Congress.

Senator Augusto Pierantoni, Professor of International Law at the University of Rome, who arrived here last night on the Italian liner Duke of Genoa to attend the International Prison Congress at Washington, says that Americans need not be alarmed by the stories of an organized Black Hand Society whose ramifications extend from Italy to the United States and back again.

The Senator has investigated the Black Hand and the Camorra in the last few years, and he says those so-called societies have no definite organization of character either in Italy or the United States. He scouts the idea that Lieut. Giuseppi Petrosino was murdered at Palermo last year by order of any recognized leader of the Black Hand or Camorra.

"The Camorra of Italy ceased to exist years ago," said he. "It has almost come to be forgotten by all save historians.

"Italy is broadly credited with its Camorra, and for this reason: There are bands of men, perhaps, two or three or maybe half a dozen, who act in concert in the nefarious business of blackmail and violence. The Government is doing all in its power to run down these little bands of criminals. And it is succeeding each year in placing many of them in prison.

"The same situation which prevails in certain parts of Italy also prevails in the United States. Here you call it the Black Hand. Of course evidence of co-operation between certain men is revealed here as it is there."

Senator Pierantoni was asked whether he believed that the crusade the Italian Government is making just now against the Camorra at Viterbo, where 300 prisoners have been arrested and 500 witnesses gathered together in an effort to solve many crimes would have any effect on the so-called Black Hand bands or Camorra.

"I do not see in what way it could," replied the Senator, "except that it may result in the imprisonment of many men who might some day have come to America to carry on their methods of blackmail and murder."

The Senator was questioned concerning the attitude of the Italian Government regarding the Porter Charlton case.

"The Government is not likely to make any effort to have Charlton taken back to Italy," he replied. "For a while, just after the tragedy, the Italian Government bended its energies toward the solution of the mystery. But when it was found that both the murderer and his wife were Americans and that Charlton had returned to his own country and was evidently insane, all interest in the case seemed to fade away."

The Royal Senator, Prof. Augusto Pierantoni, was born in Chieti, Kingdom of Naples, June 24, 1840. He passed his youth in the exciting times which preceded the Revolution of the fifties and the Unification of Italy. In 1856 he studied at Naples and consorted with Liberal Italians. In 1860, after Francis II., in order to save his throne by revoking the Constitution of his father, Pierantoni published his first dramatic story, "Anna di Messina."

Soon after this he joined the Garibaldians and fought at Santa Maria di Capua and at Volturno. He then moved north and settled down to literary and scientific work in Turin, and there published a pamphlet against the death penalty and introduced Darwin's "Descent of Man" to Italian readers.

He became Professor of International and Constitutional Law at Modena in 1865, but the very next year resigned his chair and joined the Army of Liberation, taking part in the bombardment of Borgoforte and the battles of Cismons and Primolano.

Returning to Modena in 1868, he married Grazia Mancini and established himself as a lawyer of noted persuasive and oratorical attainments.

In 1873 he attempted to found an institute on international law. His title of life senator dates from that year.

A few years ago he lectured at Oxford University on "Nationalism" and "The Divina Commedia," and Oxford gave him the honorary degree of LL. D.

CRUELTY TRIAL GOES OVER.

Boy's Affidavit Accusing Brace Home Head Made Public.

Charles P. Fisher, Superintendent of Brace Memorial Farm School for Homeless Boys, in Valhalla, Westchester County, run by the Children's Aid Society, was arraigned last night before Justice of the Peace Daniel W. Quinn, in the Valhalla Town Hall, on the charge of having abused Thomas Barnshaw, 16 years old, a former inmate of the institution. He pleaded not guilty and demanded a jury trial, and the case was adjourned until Friday night.

Lawyer John G. Hughes, appearing for District Attorney Winslow, had a talk with the Barnshaw boy and also with Max Fox of 247 East Twenty-fourth Street, who says he saw Barnshaw assaulted and placed in a long, narrow box, which the boys "dubbed" the "Coffin Stretcher," or guard house, and forced to stand in it for hours.

The affidavit of Barnshaw became public for the first time last night. He says he arrived at the Farm School in June, and had been there only a day when he was put to work scrubbing the floors until blisters were raised on his hands. Then he makes these charges against Mr. Fisher:

"He took me by the neck and after striking me hard blows with his fists, he rushed me off to the cellar of the laundry. He spanked me there. I was kicked, knocked down, and from pain screamed aloud. He twisted my hand, and after I was too weak to try and stop him he threw me into the box called the guard house, and although from 7 o'clock until 12 noon I had been in the 'guard house,' he made me go in again after beating me until 5:30 that night."

This affidavit will also be filed with Controller Prendergast to-morrow.

Seventeen-year-old Henry Aaronson, a homeless newsboy, who is chief witness in the case against Supt. Fisher, is in the Tombs Prison on a charge of larceny. A few days ago Aaronson, who was employed as errand boy by Augstein & Co., yarn manufacturers at 590 Broadway, disappeared, it is charged, with a package of yarn valued at $14 and $15 in cash which he had been ordered to take to a customer.

Walker D. Hines, who for the last two years has been Acting Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fé, was yesterday made Chairman of the Executive Committee, which place he had filled since the retirement, about two years ago, of Victor Morawetz. The annual report of the Atchison, now in course of preparation, will be issued early in October.

PHELPS, DODGE & CO. ROCK ISLAND HOLDING

REID STOCK WITH CONTROL

These Three Interests Are Now Supreme, but the First Two Are Dominant Irrespective of the Other.

The stock in the Rock Island Company which Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and their associates took over from the Pearson syndicate and have now sold to Phelps, Dodge & Co., as announced on Monday, amounted, it was learned yesterday, to 185,000 shares, or $18,500,000, par value, out of the entire issue of $54,000,000 of preferred stock. With this comes the information that the Moore holdings of Rock Island preferred amount to 124,000 shares, of which William H. Moore holds 80,000 shares and J. H. Moore 44,000 shares. Thus control of the Rock Island Company is definitely lodged in the hands of Phelps, Dodge & Co. and Judge Moore and his brother, who between them hold, in round numbers, $30,000,000 out of the $54,000,000 of Rock Island preferred.

This is independent of the holdings of D. G. Reid, about which conflicting reports are current in the financial district. He is credited in some quarters with a great stock interest, while in others he is said to have bought back a large amount which he sold at much higher figures. That he is as strongly allied as ever, however, with the dominant interest in Rock Island is emphatically asserted by representatives both of the Rock Island party and of the Phelps-Dodge interests, which by the purchase of the Kuhn-Loeb holdings have become the largest individual owners.

Evidence of the purpose of the Phelps-Dodge interest actively to co-operate with the Moore-Reid interests was disclosed yesterday in information given out that in all probability the Rock Island preferred stock held by these two interests will be pooled or held in some way to assure the permanency of the joint control.

It was said that in whatever form the understanding is carried out, the Reid stock would be included in it. At the same time it appears definitely established that even without the Reid holdings Judge Moore is in a position, by working with the Phelps-Dodge interests, to absolutely dominate the Rock Island Company.

The Rock Island's board of fifteen members is classified into five groups of three members each, and in this fact lies a further element of strength for the party actually in control, for, under this arrangement, it would take three years to change a majority of the Board of Directors. This circumstance will become of less importance if the majority stock is pooled, but in the absence of a concentrated control of the stock the classification of the Board of Directors is a powerful weapon of defense for the management against any effort to oust it from its control.

Daniel G. Reid returned from Europe yesterday. Upon his arrival he said that he was pleased with the news which was sent to him Monday on board ship that Phelps, Dodge & Co. had acquired a large interest in the Rock Island.

"Without making any comparison," he said, "Phelps, Dodge & Co. are most desirable people to have such prominent interest in the Rock Island Railroad. They control large mining interests and also the El Paso & Southwestern Railway Company, and this combination will be for the benefit of the Rock Island Company. I am indeed gratified to know that they have acquired the holdings of Kuhn, Loeb & Co."

LINSEED EARNINGS FALL OFF.

Short Flax Crop and High Prices Curtailed Trade.

The annual report of the American Linseed Company for the year ended July 31 shows a falling off in earnings as a result of the world-wide shortage in the flax crop and the consequent rise in prices and reduction in sales of the company's products. The net earnings for the year were $720,952, a decrease of $543,238 from 1909. The net earnings added to the previous surplus of $90,707 made the surplus at the end of the year $811,659.

Commenting on the conditions in the linseed trade, President McGean says:

"Inasmuch as there were at the beginning of the year no surplus stocks of seed and oil, purchases had to be made by your company in every important flax-producing country of the world, and as foreign crops also were less than normal, with no surplus remaining from previous years, the competition for seed from all sources resulted in the highest prices known since the United States became a flax-growing country. The high prices seriously affected the paint and linoleum trades, which are the principal users of linseed oil, and in consequence consumption was reduced, and this became marked in May and continued until the close of the fiscal year."

The company's President sees little that is encouraging in the outlook this year, but explains to stockholders that the company is endeavoring to bring about a more intelligent cultivation of flaxseed through a campaign of education among the farmers. Of the immediate outlook, he says:

"As to the outlook for the coming year, the flax-growing States of this country were afflicted with drought during the planting season, and indications now are for a crop which may prove to be smaller than that of the past year, nor are the conditions in foreign countries at the present writing favorable for large crops. Flaxseed and oil are now commanding the highest prices ever known at this season of the year. It would seem that for the next year at least prices of the products into which linseed oil enters must hold on a materially higher level than in the past. Whether this will affect consumption materially or not cannot, of course, yet be determined."

CANADIAN PACIFIC GAINS.

Most Favorable Report in Its History—Earnings Near $100,000,000.

The most favorable report ever issued by the Canadian Pacific was issued yesterday for the year ended June 30. The gross earnings for the year were $94,989,490, an increase of more than $18,500,000, compared with the previous year's earnings and the net earnings were $33,839,955, an increase of nearly $11,000,000. The surplus for the year after the payment of dividends on the preferred and common stocks was $13,896,615, compared with a surplus of $3,847,161 reported the previous year.

Since the close of the fiscal year the Canadian Pacific has continued to report increases in gross earnings on about as large a scale as during this past year suggesting an increase in the Canadian Pacific gross earnings this year to well above the $100,000,000 mark, putting it in the very front rank of the railroads of this continent in earning power.

In addition to its railroad operations the Canadian Pacific carries on large land operations and out of interest on deferred land payments pays an additional 1 per cent a year on its common stock besides the 7 per cent, which is now being paid from railroad earnings. The sales of agricultural lands during the past year amounted to 975,030 acres which were sold for $14,468,564, an average of $14.84 an acre. Included in this were 145,421 acres of irrigated lands which were sold at an average price of $26.59 an acre. Additional irrigation work has been undertaken by the Canadian Pacific which will cost $8,500,000 and take about three years to complete. This work which will provide water for 1,100,000 acres will involve the construction of 3,500 miles of ditches.

The balance sheet of the Canadian Pacific, which reveals a surplus on June 30 last of $42,869,845, shows that on that date the road had $46,165,817 cash on hand and in addition had invested $10,088,840 temporarily in government securities.
